200 Miles of Coast. Bring Money and Brains. Will Their Ghosts Meet? Lives Are Cheap.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Jan. 12. AMONG our 48 states, California stands fifth in wealth, climate and scenery, as a Los Angeles editor remarks, not included. A 250-mile motor trip, from San Simeon, south to Ventura before noon today, convinced this writer, and would convince anyone, that California, in the future, will have wealth greater than the present total wealth of the United States.

THE sun, almost uncomfortably hot, shines on fields covered with deep, green new grass and clover. Thousands of cows, in the dairy district north of San Luis Obispo, seem almost bored with their luxury, as they stand knee deep, in rich pasture.

Part of the time, the wide concrete road runs close to the ocean, more of it runs through fertile valleys, round green high hills on either side providing unlimited grazing lands.

WHERE the velvet green carpet is stripped off on hillsides the earth below is black as soot, rich as Texas black wax land, and with "spring" crops well advanced.

There is wealth of all kinds in this land, its mines, oil wells, and water power. But the great wealth, permanent, inexhaustible, is in the soil.

A RUN of a little more than 200 miles takes you to Ventura, where hundreds of men are working their wells out in the ocean, and running temporary oil pipe lines along the roadside, dozens of welders uniting the pipe joints with gaseous fire, fed from tanks.

VENTURA county holds hundreds of millions of barrels of oil. Only the beginning of that wealth has been developed. But the wise citizens of Ventura county seek to develop industries, and tell you that $40,000,000 worth of manufactured articles were produced in the county last year.

CALIFORNIA is not recommended to the man without money, who has made his failures elsewhere. But the man with some money, plenty of energy and intelligence, who understands manufacturing, will find a good field here.

RUTH SNYDER, who helped Judd Gray to kill her husband, changing the subject violently and unpleasantly—will be killed in the electric chair tonight, at about eleven o'clock, unless something unforeseen happens. Gov. Al Smith could find no reason for interference consistent with his oath of office. That is unfortunate. The woman's crime deserves any punishment, but a civilized state does not deserve the disgrace of killing a woman.

WHAT is called "death, instantaneous and painless," is in reality slow torture. All suffering is in the mind, and death in the little room that holds the electric chair, called by convicts, "the grill room," tortures the criminal for hours, days and weeks, more cruelly than physical pain could torture.

THE man, Gray, is to be killed first, because his cell is nearer the little door leading to the electric chair and thoughtful authorities felt that it might be painful for Mrs. Snyder to pass Gray, in his cell, on her way to death.

TONIGHT'S performance, the picture of a woman strapped into a chair and deliberately put to death by men, will seem as strange to civilization, when it comes, as Indians, dancing around a victim at the stake, seems to us.

WILL Gray, going out a few minutes ahead, wait somewhere in Aldrich's "no man's land," to talk it over with Mrs. Snyder's ghost? Will they upbraid each other, and compare their death chair sensations? Nine out of ten among the sophisticated consider such questions foolish, because nine out of ten do not really believe that there is anything left, after those bodies are buried. They only think that they believe.

IN THE excellent Santa Barbara press you read these headlines: "Second marine plane crashes in Nicaragua. Was obsolete craft." You read also in the Los Angeles Herald, just arrived with late news, that Secretary Wilbur, before the House Naval Affairs Committee today urged the importance of a great Navy, and the spending of $750,000,000 at least.

WE NEED a big Navy to impress other countries, although in real war, we should have to hide it away from submarines and airplanes. But what about a few fighting planes NOT OBSOLETE? Can not the earth's richest country provide safe fighting machinery for its fighting men?

What do Secretary Wilbur and the President think of sending men up in obsolete planes that crash and risk men's lives?

Is there any excuse for that? What impression does it make on other countries? Even if we can afford our men's lives more easily than we can afford money for safe planes, can we afford to be despised by our enemies?

MRS. REA SUES FOR DIVORCE

"Cruel and barbarous treatment" is charged in a divorce suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Mrs. Margaret Moorhead Rea against her husband, Henry O. Rea, Sewickley Heights multi-millionaire. Both are prominent figures in society and club life here and in the East.

The libel was filed several weeks ago, it is reported, but was not made public until today. Mrs. Rea does not cite any specific instance of cruelty. The couple married August 21, 1921, and are said to have become estranged several months ago.

Give Syrian Death Ride

Victim of a "death ride," it is believed, because he drove bootleggers and gangsters out of his coffee house, the bullet-riddled body of John Nicklas, 60, well-to-do Syrian baker and restaurant owner, of 1228 Webster avenue, was found today on the Six Mile Ferry road, on the outskirts of Carrick.

In his right hand was clutched an ice pick, mute evidence of a futile gesture at self-defense as he was thrust from an automobile, it is thought, stabbed in the back and shot down. There was no blood on the pick.

The finding of a pair of horn-rimmed spectacles on the clay road, and a soft gray hat belonging to the dead man, eight yards from his body, told a story, county detectives believe, of a one-sided struggle just before the killing. A watch and small sum of money found in his clothing eliminated robbery as the motive.

Nicklas was taken on his ride of death, county detectives are convinced, by two men with whom he was last seen at 11:30 o'clock last night at a coffee house he took over January 1, at 28 Logan street.

WOMAN DIES AFTER AUTO RIDE FROM PITTSBURGH

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 12.—"Asleep" during an automobile ride from Pittsburgh to New Kensington last night, Mrs. Mary Kazimerczak, 63, of Philadelphia, was discovered to be near death when she arrived at her sister's home here. She died without recovering consciousness.

FLIERS UP AGAIN ON TIME HOP

By International News Service.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. J., Jan. 12.—Clarence Chamberlin trans-Atlantic flight hero, and Roger Williams, commercial aviator, took off here today at 11:30 a. m. in a new attempt to break the endurance flight record, now held by Germany.

The two aviators made an unsuccessful effort yesterday to regain the record for America. The present record is 52 hours 22 minutes and 31 seconds. Chamberlin was at the controls of the Bellanca, which is owned by A. R. Martine, New York banker. The hop-off came after a delay caused by a leaky pump valve.

CHAIR READY FOR JUDD, MRS. SNYDER TONIGHT

Execution of Sash-weight Slayers Put Up to Warden by Attorney General.

ALBANY, Jan. 12.—(INS.)—Mrs. Ruth Snyder and her paramour, Henry Judd Gray, must die in the electric chair tonight for the brutal murder of Mrs. Snyder's husband, Albert Snyder, art editor, unless Warden Lewis E. Lawes, of Sing Sing, of his own volition, desires to delay the execution until tomorrow night or Saturday night.

Attorney General Albert Ottinger, formally announced at 1 o'clock this afternoon that he had reached a formal decision that the order of Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy, saying Mrs. Snyder's execution until tomorrow "was illegal and cannot act to stay the execution."

Attorney General Ottinger said he would have his formal decision completed in about half and hour.

"The purport of the decision is that I hold that Justice Levy's order was illegal and cannot stay the execution set for tonight unless the warden of Sing Sing, of his own violation, desires to delay the execution until later in the week," Ottinger announced.

In view of the Ottinger decision, it was reported, at the capitol that Warden Lawes, later in the day, would issue a statement saying whether he would carry out his original intention of sending Mrs. Snyder and Gray to their death tonight.

"It will be up to Warden Lawes to say whether Mrs. Snyder and Gray are to die in the chair tonight," Ottinger declared.

Ottinger revealed that he decided to issue a formal opinion in the matter only after Gov. Smith had called him on the telephone and told him that Warden Lawes was looking to the Attorney General's office for legal advice as to what course he should follow.

If Justice Levy refuses to vacate his own order today and insists that further arguments be made before him at 10 o'clock tomorrow, as he originally directed, it was reported at the capitol that Warden Lawes of his own volition, might delay the execution of Mrs. Snyder and Gray until tomorrow night. This course by the warden, it was pointed out, would give Justice Levy an opportunity tomorrow morning to vacate the original order after hearing further arguments.

On the other hand, it was said at the capitol, if Justice Levy should continue the order after the hearing tomorrow, Warden Lawes would then have the official opinion of the Attorney General to fall back upon, and could then proceed with the execution tomorrow night.

Judge Stands by Ruth's Stay Order

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—(INS.)—Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy, when informed in open court today that Attorney General Albert Ottinger had decided to request him to vacate his order of last night staying the execution of Ruth Snyder, indicated that he would not comply with the request.

"I don't care what Ottinger says," the justice remarked, and continued examining some papers on his desk. He would make no further comment.

Will Die Tonight if Stay Is Overruled, Warden Says. Send For Executioner.

By International News Service.

SING SING PRISON, OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Warden Lewis Lawes stated this afternoon to International News Service that if Attorney General Ottinger rules against the stay of execution of Ruth Snyder, signed last night by Justice Levy, the woman and her lover, Judd Gray, will die in the electric chair tonight. Lawes said that preparations for the execution were being carried on without delay.

Meanwhile Judd Gray and Ruth Snyder remained in their cells, not knowing whether they would die tonight or live for a few more hours. They had learned of the stay, and appeared to be encouraged.

"I am glad for Ruth," Gray said, simply and without emotion. "I have no rancor toward her in my heart. I am at peace with my fellow-man."

George Ogle, the electrician, continued about his work of preparing the chair as if there was no doubt that the execution would take place. The official executioner, acting on telephoned orders from the prison, was ready in his home in Rich-

Leaps Off Speeding Train

Only slightly hurt after a leap from the Manhattan Limited as it passed through Braddock at 4:15 o'clock this morning, Joseph J. Flannery, 32, of 313 North Market street, East Orange, N. J., is a patient in Braddock Hospital.

Flannery, en route from New York to Duluth, leaped while the train was running 35 miles an hour. He was dressed only in his underclothing and an overcoat. He told Braddock police that somebody had been chasing him with a gun.

Railroad officers have not determined whether he leaped from a window or from a vestibule door.

Flannery was found wandering along the tracks by Joseph Walton of 539 Thirteenth street, Braddock, and was taken to the police station before being sent to the hospital. He is believed to be demented.

CHIEF TWO EAGLES AND FAMILY

This full-blooded Sioux Indian of South Dakota and his family moved into the county's new South Park today, where the chief will keep a watchful eye over the buffalo, deer and other game. The chief intends to live in wigwams and tepees eventually and to outfit his children in tribal garb. His wife is Princess Koya of the Oneida tribe.

PARK NOW HAS EAGLES, ELK, MOOSE

By WILLIAM F. PFARR,

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Jan. 12.—Eagle Eye Two Eagles, his wife, Princess Koya, and their four offspring will pack up their belonging today and vamoose, so to speak, from New Brighton. After an hour's ride they will alight at Allegheny county's new South Park and Eagle Eye Two Eagles henceforth will be Chief Two Eagles, globe-trotter of the Sioux nation, father of four embryo marathoners, and a caretaker for the new county acres with its bison, elk, moose and other game.

Chief Two Eagles, as he prefers being described, is nobody's nobody. He has been to places and seen things. He is 31 now and when he was a lad in the Black Hills of South Dakota he buried many an arrow in a tasty deer and laid more than one trap for an unsuspecting bear. He hunted anything that was wild, excepting that wild Irish rose. He is a real Indian, even if he does play the harmonica.

HE GOT THE JOB

Chief Two Eagles was working his way west until he reached New Brighton when the whole family came a cropper with typhoid fever. The Chief said mountain water was to blame. Anyhow, it was typhoid fever. And when the family recovered from that the Chief got himself a case of grippe. Things like that cripple any pioneer's bankroll, so when the county asked for a genuine Indian to watch one of its new

CHAIR AWAITS HER

RUTH SNYDER

Judge Gives Reasons For Giving Ruth Stay

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy today told why he granted a stay of execution for Mrs. Ruth Snyder.

"The infant (Lorraine Snyder, Mrs. Snyder's 10-year-old daughter) moving—the ward of the court—demands justice, and in the pursuit of it calls upon the inherent power of the court," he said.

"It may well be, after oral argument, that there is a lack of merit in the application, but no one may gainsay that the least that this infant is entitled to is the opportunity to be heard. This must of necessity occur in very brief time, and obviously neither the state nor any person can be aggrieved by the delay of possibly a day."

Lorraine Snyder would become the beneficiary of the insurance totaling $95,000 in the event of her mother's death and should the policies be declared legal.

MYSTERY VEILS GROOM'S DEATH

"John and I were so happy. Tell me it wasn't suicide," cried Mrs. Frances Carmody Hutterer at the home of her mother, Mrs. M. Carmody, 54 Park avenue, West View, this morning. "Mamma wanted us to stay here over night, but John said we would go to his home. Oh, I am so broken up!"

John Hutterer's body was found late yesterday sprawled in a ditch in East Deer township with a shotgun nearby. He had borrowed the gun from a farmer, saying he was going to shoot a groundhog. The dead man was aged 27 and was superintendent of the new Wildwood Golf Club. He formerly was greenskeeper at the Oakmont Country Club.

Mrs. Carmody, mother of the three weeks' bride, had little to say.

"I want to think it was an accident," she said, "but I haven't much faith in these sudden marriages. My daughter had only known her husband for four months before they were married."

Brothers of the dead man, seen at their home, 728 Elm street, Oakmont, were indignant as well as bereaved.

"We never saw this girl before John married her," said C. Hutterer, a brother. "We don't even know where he met her, and she did not come to the morgue last night to identify him and we had to claim his body for burial. Our parents are dead, father having been dead for 14 years."

Banker Dies

W. B. McFALL, SR.

Banker, publisher and civic leader, Mr. McFall, who died at his Frankstown avenue home early today, was identified with the business development of Pittsburgh for half a century.

'FIRPO'S' FINDER HERE ARRESTED

William H. Brady, said to be a former member of the New Jersey State Boxing Commission, and one of the "discoverers" of Luis Firpo, famed Argentine prize fighter, is under arrest here for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, it was revealed today. Brady, brought here from Wheeling, W. Va., following his arrest, became ill and is confined to the Mercy Hospital under government guard.

Brady was arrested Monday following the seizure of five barrels of whisky in the local freight yard of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The liquor was shipped here as a consignment of sirup, prohibition agents say. Four others were arrested in connection with the seizure.

ROBBERS LOOT LOAN OFFICE

Ten gold watches in a showcase looked good to robbers who entered the jewelry store of the Bankers' Loan Company, 604 Amity street, Homestead, early today and they made off with the entire lot, valued at $200.

The same robbers are believed to have entered the shop of Lesko Brothers, 543 Dickson street, Homestead, taking $65 in cash and hot plates.

"GET RID OF GUNMEN," WAR CRY

Federal, county and city forces will unite in a great effort to stop gang warfare that has been prevailing in Pittsburgh and nearby communities for months, which broke out afresh and claimed three victims since Sunday, it was said yesterday by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner.

The entire Homecide Squad, working under the direction of Lieut. David Corbett were on duty last night, running down clues that might lead to the arrest of the slayers of John Daniell, 25, of Reed street, and Joseph Lucisano, 27, of 80 Norton street, slain Tuesday night, and the men responsible for the death of Donenico Caputo, of 5126 Frankstown avenue, killed Sunday evening.

CONFERENCE TODAY

Gardner, John D. Meyer, United States attorney, and John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator for this district, will hold a conference today or tomorrow and plan the action they intend to take to rid the county of factional strife.

Gardner said that he would turn over every resource of his office to co-operate with Mr. Meyer and Mr. Pennington. Commander Pennington said that every available man in his department here would be called to help in breaking up the reign of terrorism and crime which has cost more than a score of lives during the last year.

Inasmuch as detectives believe that Daniell was slain while fleeing with another man from the scene of the Lucisano killing in a Stowe township shoe shop, the county detectives and the city homicide squad are working together on the crime. Daniell was killed in Liberty avenue near Fourteenth street by slayers in another automobile.

Lieut. Corbett said early today that there are several good clues held by his men and he hoped that an arrest would be made soon. The car in which Daniell was found answers the description of the machine used in other recent slayings here. Automobile detectives are tracing the ownership of the car.

Prohibition Administrator Pennington said he would confer with District Attorney Gardner relative to the Blackhand cleanup after he had learned from Federal District Attorney Meyer how far he could go in the matter. He said he had no doubt that many of the Blackhand murders were the result of bootlegging wars, but he did not know how his force of prohibition agents could be used in the contemplated move against Blackhanders.

$500,000 Fire Razes Casino

By International News Service.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Jan. 12.—A fire which destroyed the Beach Casino on the Boardwalk here early today with a loss estimated at $500,000, was brought under control shortly before 4 o'clock this morning.

The fire broke out about 1:50 o'clock. An hour later the building was obviously doomed. The flames jumped across the Boardwalk and for a time threatened adjoining buildings.

Two firemen were injured, neither fatally.

The Casino ballroom, the Van Dyke novelty shop, the Casino novelty shop, the Snyder rolling chair concession, the Leiding & Heintz candy plant and the Goldenbeck cigar store and three smaller concessions were destroyed. All firemen managed to save from these places were the cash registers of each.

NAB THIRD BOY FOR ROBBING BANK

A third boy confessed today that he was the "lookout" for his two pals who beat Leo Wiseman, messenger of the Washington Trust Company, and robbed him of a bag containing $4,000 in checks and $20 cash. And all three boys confessed to three other robberies in the Lawrenceville district.

Joe Novetsky, 18, of 2565 Mulberry way, was arrested after he had been implicated by Stanley Szareyko, 19, of 2641 Penn avenue, and Albert Sieminski, 19, of 2505 Penn avenue. After his confession Novetsky was taken to the Allegheny river bank at Twenty-sixth street where he was expected to point out where the young bandits had thrown the bag and the two revolvers they used.

The loot of the three robberies to which the boys confessed was six slot machines and $63 in two saloons and a restaurant, Walters Saloon, 3229 Penn avenue; American Restaurant, Twenty-ninth street and Penn avenue, and the saloon of George Valinish, Thirty-second street and Penn avenue.

HIT-RUN AUTO INJURES 4

Patrolman John Nugent, of the Squirrel Hill Police Station, had to cut a hole in the top of a car to extricate four victims of a hit and run driver on the Brown Hill road, opposite Homestead early today, he informed Homestead police.

Helen Depps, 15, of 1516 McClure street, Homestead; her brother, Ortis, 18; his wife, Annabella, 18, of Margaret street, Homestead, and a fourth occupant whose name was not obtained, all suffered severe cuts and bruises when their car was hurled against a pole and fell on its side when struck by a city-bound autoist who failed to stop. The injured were taken home after being treated at a physician's office.

Thaw Film Conquest Flops

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Harry Thaw and the young women whom he brought to Southern California a few weeks ago in search of film fame, will depart for the East within three or four days.

But the film aspirants will not take with them the desired contracts for California movie work, their wealthy sponsor said in announcing plans for the return East.

"They're young and they've lots of time," Thaw declared. "We don't have to worry."

Thaw said he was disappointed with his California trip—but not because of the failure of his proteges to crash the gates of the films. His disappointment was because he had been unable to visit Tijuana, Lower California.

TO ASK ORDER'S VACATION

A representative of the Attorney General will call on Justice Levy at 2 o'clock this afternoon to present the request that the stay be vacated. If Levy refuses, as he has indicated he would, the Attorney General will announce his decision regarding the legality of the stay.

Lawes may send Mrs. Snyder and Judd Gray to the chair tonight, as originally planned, or he may allow one or both to live for another day or two. The execution may take place at any time this week. The stay of execution was granted in order to allow Mrs. Snyder to appear as a witness in an insurance suit involving a $97,000 policy that she took out on the life of her slain husband. It was held that the rights of her daughter, Lorraine, would be seriously affected if Mrs. Snyder did not testify.

parks the Chief grabbed himself a pair of sandals and hoofed it to Grant street. He got the job.

The Chief tells you, in old-fashioned English, that he's all set to set himself up in wigwams and tepees in the park and teach his youngsters the healthy college yells of the Sioux tribe. Incidentally, it was feared if the Chief gave the old tribal cheer in New Brighton all the taxi drivers would start for the depot. The Chief wants to make that new park look just like an Indian ranch so that the taxpayers of Allegheny county may drop out now and then for a little scare.

WIFE A PRINCESS

The Chief's wife, whose translated name is Martha, is an educated princess, product of a girls' school, to whose founding her late father, a chief himself, contributed.

Martha came by her title because she was the apple of her father's eye. It seems, the current Chief explained, that once an Indian chief reaches a state analagous to that of a vice president, he may name one of his daughters a princess. Out of 14 candidates Martha drew the prize package. She is, withal, modest and unassuming and bears her honors with a smooth brown complexion and flashing white teeth. She speaks English that F. and Wagnall might envy.

Martha is of the Oneida tribe, which pitches its tepees in Wisconsin. She speaks the Oneida tongue, which the Chief doesn't, and he orates in Sioux, which she can't. So they speak English. The offspring cry the same tongue.

The Chief has already sent to South Dakota for outfits for the family. The clothes trunk is expected in one month, after which Allegheny county's only Indian reservation will be at home and free to the people.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Gen. R. E. Wood, a vice president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., has been elected president of the mail order house to succeed the late Charles M. Kittle, Julius Rosenwald, chairman of the board of directors, announced today.

Thug Hits Woman, Caught

Beaten by a thug who left her lying unconscious in Merchant street near Cremo street, North Side, late last night, Mrs. Barbara Flaherty, 48, of 605 Reedsdale street, is in the Presbyterian Hospital in a critical condition, suffering a fractured skull and body bruises.

Her attacker, police say, was captured after a chase of two blocks during which several shots were fired by three police, who had been attracted by the woman's screams. The prisoner said he was Michael Flaherty, 32, of 204 Itasca street, no relation to his alleged victim. During a fight with the police, he suffered a broken nose and bruises and after being treated at the Allegheny General Hospital, he was lodged in the North Side station on a suspicious person charge. The thug was attempting to snatch her purse, Mrs. Flaherty told police.

Plainclothesmen C. P. Davis, B. J. Scully and Joseph Rindle, assigned to the North Side station, were walking in Cremo street, when they heard the woman's screams. They were looking for purse snatchers, who recently have been active in the district. One of the officers ran to Mrs. Flaherty and the two others chased the fleeing man.

FOUND HITTING HORSE, OWNER SLAPS HIM

John Shafer, a wagon driver employed by the Consolidated Ice Company, yesterday slapped a man whom he discovered hitting the horse which Shafer was driving. The man fled when Shafer threatened to call the humane society. The incident occurred in Wood street at Second avenue, when Shafer was delivering ice in a nearby building.

DETECTIVE DRAGS MAN FROM PATH OF TRAIN

STEUBENVILLE, O., Jan. 12.—W. P. Goss, 36, of Beech Bottom, W. Va., owes his life to Charles Marewsky, Pennsylvania Railroad detective. Goss fell while crossing the Panhandle track at a crossing and Marewsky, risking his own life, pulled Goss from the path of a swiftly moving passenger train.

WELL DRILLER KILLED AT SISTERSVILLE, W. VA.

SISTERSVILLE, W. Va., Jan. 12.—W. A. Horner, 28, foreman for the oil drilling department of the Hope Construction Company, was killed instantly here last night when his clothing became entangled in a large flywheel at a well being drilled.

"PAL"

HORSE PARKED AMONG AUTOS

When a motorist yelled, "Hey, can I park my horse," Felix LoVuola, night attendant at the William Penn Garage thought it was a wise-crack and told him, "Sure." A little later Felix found the horse, at which he now gazes preplexedly, on the fifth floor of the garage and straight way sat down to think up some kind of an alibi for his boss, Joe Mazur. The horse is "Pal," owned by Art Mix, said to be a brother of Tom Mix, the movie star.

CAUSE OF HUNGER STRIKE

NANCY MILLER AND SIR H. T. HODKAR

News of the marriage plans of the Maharajah of Indore and Miss Nancy Ann Miller have caused her highness Indirabi, second wife of the Maharajah to go on a hunger strike. She is now in the tenth day of her fast and states she would rather die than see her husband marry an American girl.

Thorns Lurk at End of Rose-Strewn Path—Ruth

As the shadow of death lengthens across her cell in Sing Sing prison, Ruth Snyder turns in her own story of her life from the murder of her husband to give other women the benefit of what she has learned through crime. She warns them:

(Copyright, 1928, by the New York Daily Mirror.)

That if a lot of women could see what she has suffered through her thirst for things her husband couldn't give her, they would resign themselves to do without what they can't have.

That women like her should remember that husbands are often incapable of the sort of love they want, and should make the best of it, never considering that an excuse for sinning.

That there is not enough religion in this world, and women would be better off if they spent more time in prayer and less in pursuit of pretty things on the path of roses, whose end is strewn with thorns.

"In olden times, they stoned the woman who committed adultery. My Dears, I'm more than stoned, I'm crushed!"

HERE'S 1928 EDITION OF DANCES—AND DANCERS

DIXIE STOMP

JUNE UPPERMAN

Hey! Hey! Let's go! Dixie Stomp, some show! Petite June Upperman, in January or summer, says there's nothing peppier than this new step. June has never been south of Mt. Oliver, but she puts a lot of rhythm into the Dixie dance, and warms the heart with this Southern dance.

FUTURE ANN PENNINGTONS

These pretty, petite and peppy Pennington's, still in the training stage, devote hours a day to limbering up and dancing solo and en masse. They are pupils of Mamie Barth. There's no more exacting physical training required than asked of a dancer, but each and every one of these girls is fired by a determination to see her name in big lights on Broadway.

PAY DAY AWAITS KLINE

Not wishing to be annoyed by official affairs during his absence, Mayor Charles H. Kline failed to tell his office employes his destination when he left for a vacation trip "somewhere in the East."

That is the only answer Frank L. Swaney, his secretary, is able to give to the thousands of city employes, payless since December 15, who must wait until the Mayor returns to secure their money.

"I don't know where the Mayor is," Swaney said today. "He didn't tell me where he was going and I don't know how to get in touch with him."

There are semi-official reports that the Mayor is vacationing on Duck Island, out of reach of the firemen, policemen, elevator men, laborers and other city employes who need the cash due them.

On the Mayor's desk, awaiting his signature, is the 1928 appropriation bill which will provide the necessary funds.

Mayor Kline is not the only city official vacationing at the critical moment. City Treasurer Wallace Borland, with his office working overtime in a frantic effort to hurry the tax statements for 1928, is reported to be one of the visitors at Cambridge Springs. Until the statements are issued, the collection of taxes cannot be started in order to secure badly needed cash.

These statements should have been issued January 1, but delay on the part of Council in setting up the millage, held back the work. There is a 2 per cent discount for city taxes paid during January. It is likely that, because of the delay in mailing statements, the discount period will be extended by Council.

CIVIC CLUB TO HONOR FOSTER

Arrangements have been made by the Civic Club of Allegheny County to transport the children of the Stephen Collins Foster school by motor bus to the grave of Stephen Collins Foster tomorrow afternoon, where an appreciation commemoration will be held at 3 o'clock.

In addition to the young singers, who will render two numbers, "Swanee River" and "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground," under the direction of Miss Emma Hoerr, supervisor of music, the Schenley High School band will also play. Eva Gulak, an honor student from the Stephen Collins Foster school, will lay the Civic Club wreath upon the grave, with a short eulogy.

Rec. Henry L. McClellan, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, attended by Mrs. Marian Welch, the daughter of the composer, will offer the invocation and benediction. George Seibel will act as chairman.

DRY RAIDS HIT GLASSPORT

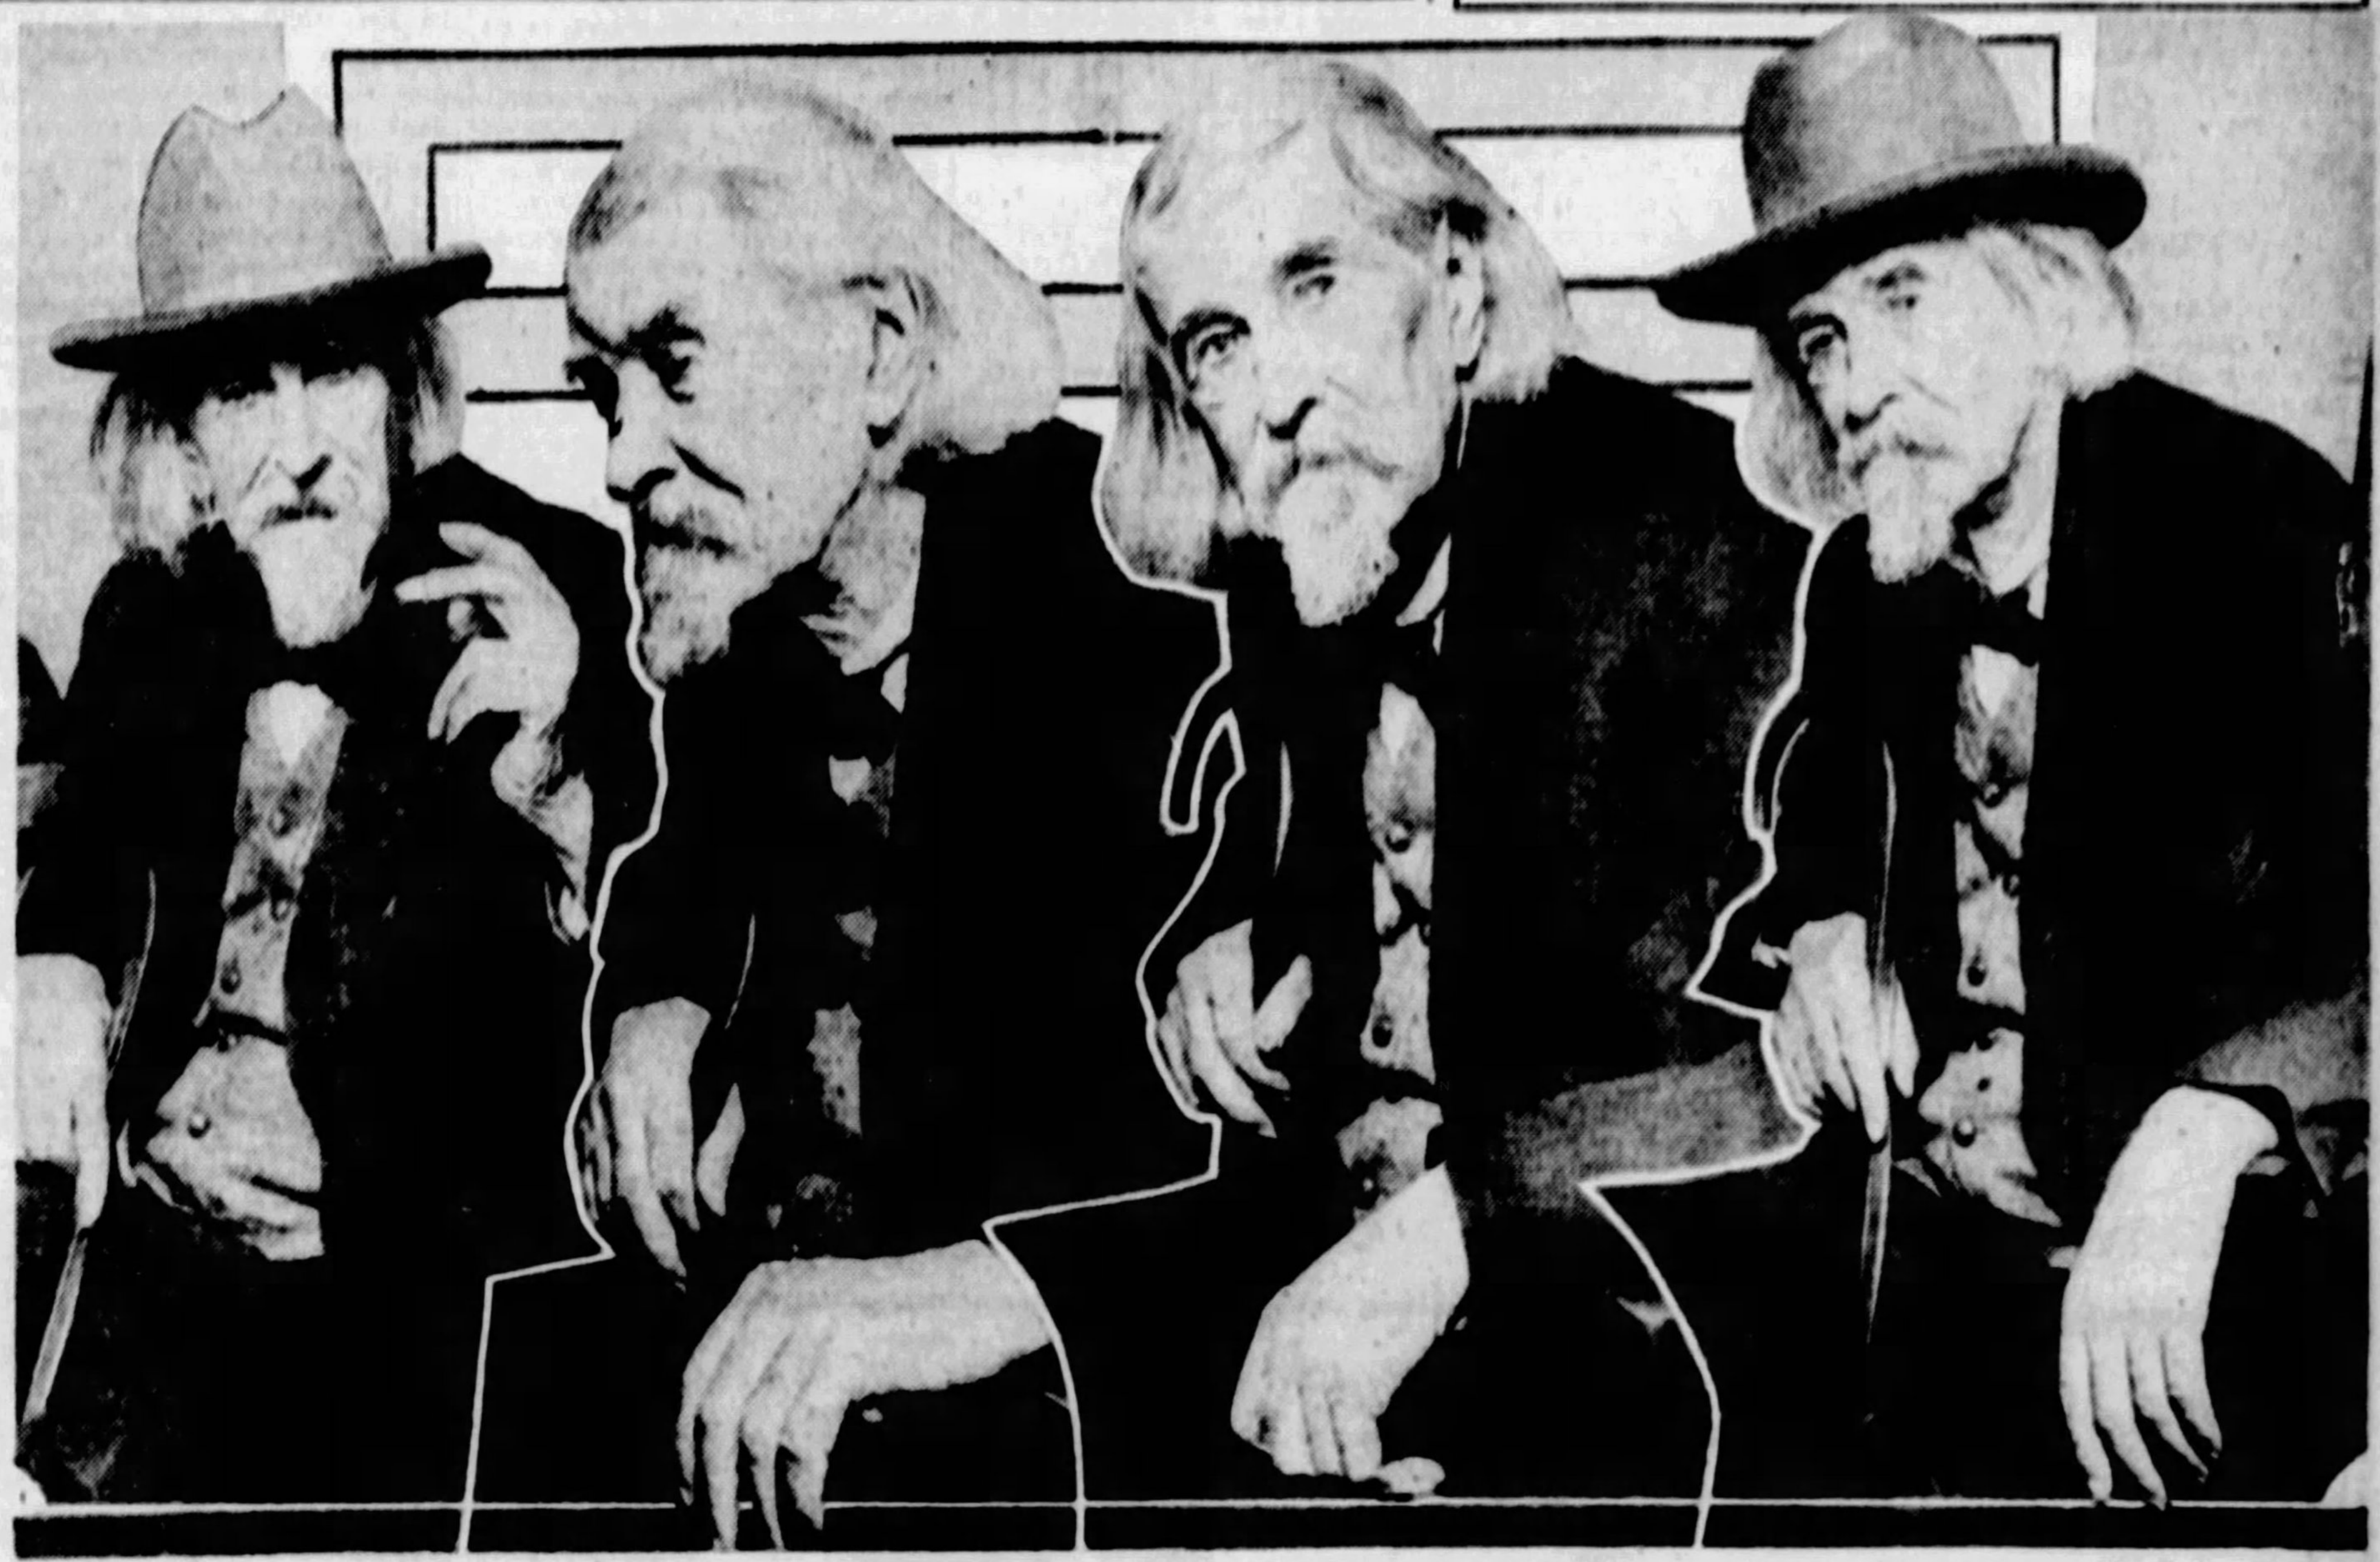
Two wildcat breweries, seven stills and a quantity of moonshine and wine were confiscated by prohibition agents yesterday in nine raids at Glassport. One place raided was the Fraternal Order of Eagles, where the agents say they found a wildcat brewery.

A second brewery was found in a house in Seventh street. With it, the agents say, they found a large still. Eight persons, arrested, will be given hearings today before the United States commissioner.

LOST ARMY AVIATOR LANDS AT GREENSBURG

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 12.—Lost while crossing the mountains from Bellefonte en route to Selfridge Field, Mich., Lieut. Bodie, United States Army flier, was forced to land on the polo field here yesterday to get his bearings.

SEWICKLEY MAN HALE AND HEARTY AT 100



CAPT. ANDERSON AT 100

Capt. John C. Anderson, veteran Forty-niner and steamboat skipper, is preparing to receive the congratulations of his friends Saturday, his one-hundredth birthday. Townsfolk of Sewickley are planning a public reception in his honor.

PLEASING REMINISCENCE

The old skipper chuckles as he recounts some of his experiences in the early days. He didn't like gold mines but found that horse trading was mighty profitable around Sacremento in 1849. He went west with Capt. Ankrum.

"BUFFALO BILL"?

He resembles his famous cousin, Col. W. F. Cody, better known as "Buffalo Bill," but he did not become as well known. He spent most of his life on the Ohio River, but has been living in Sewickley since 1875.

HALE AND HEARTY

Today, Capt. Anderson, stooped ever so slightly, is hale and hearty and for all his 100 years is quite optimistic about the future. "Young folks of today, if they live as long as I have, probably will see many more things than I," he says.

FORTY-NINER STILL ACTIVE AT 100

Capt. John C. Anderson, veteran Forty-niner and steamboat skipper, hale and hearty at 100, is preparing to receive congratulations of his friends and relatives on Saturday at a public reception arranged in his honor by the townsfolk of Sewickley. Saturday is his birthday.

A tall, rather imposing figure, stooped ever so slightly, Capt. Anderson has rounded out the century in remarkable fashion. Long, flowing white hair, beneath a broad-brimmed soft hat give the old man a striking resemblance to his famous cousin, W F. Cody, better known as "Buffalo Bill."

He has a remarkable memory for things that happened 50 and 75 years ago, but this busy world whizzes along too speedily now for comfort. "I can remember things that happened back in '49 better than things that occurred last week," he says.

In an interview the other day he told of his early days in the West and later as a steamboat captain throughout the Civil War and continuing up until 1875.

"Of course times have changed," he said, recounting the days of the first steam locomotive and the many other advances of civilization since the days of the pony express and covered wagon, "but it is to be expected. Some of the young folks of today, if they live to be 100, probably will see even greater things than I have seen."

ORIGINAL FORTY-NINER

"Yes, I'm one of the original Forty-niners, and as far as I know the only living member of the band of 300 who made the trip across the continent to Sacramento with Capt. William Ankrum. I was just 21 when the "gold rush" started and, being more or less adventuresome, I decided to leave home in old Sewickley Bottom, now called Leetsdale, to try my luck in the West.

"We suffered many hardships, but finally arrived rather unexpectedly in a camp late one night to awake the next morning to be told our journey had ended. We thought we had struck a camp of migrants, but were told we were in the mining village of Hangtown, 25 miles from Sacramento.

"They called it Hangtown because they used the rope so often," the old skipper chuckled. "We were told that two hangings had taken place just the day before we got there and hardly a week went by that somebody didn't get it in the neck. It was a nice quiet place," he continued slyly.

"But I didn't care much about mining and so after panning out a few dollars in nuggets, I drifted southward and took up a government land grant. There was money in horses and mules, so I started raising them. I bought broken down mules for $15 or $20 up at the mines and took them down to my ranch for a couple of week's rest and then sold them back for $150. Mule trading was more profitable than horses, although the country was full of wild horses.

FOLLOWS RIVER LIFE

"After a couple of years, however, I decided to come home and my brother gave me a chance to work on the river. This was my ambition and I went to work with a will, and soon was made a steamboat captain. I worked on the Cumberland River during the war, the government having need for river men, and continued at this until I retired in 1875."

Capt. Anderson was born in an old frame house still standing on the river bank at Leetsdale, only a few miles from his present home. The old schoolhouse which he attended also is standing. He takes great delight in talking of the old days in and around Sewickley, but the present and future, he apparently thinks, can take care of themselves, for he steadfastly evades conversation of the present.

The old skipper is proud of the fact he is a Democrat—a "Jackson Democrat," as he puts it. "Not hide-bound, though," he insists, "for I've voted for 14 Republican presidents since Polk's time."

Capt. Anderson is not an advocate of prohibition. "No, sir, it isn't right," he declared. "Prohibition should be abolished: I haven't tried this moonshine, but I don't think I would like it."

Perhaps it is just as well, for present-day "moonie" has a reputation of shortening one's span of years, he says, but he thinks tobacco non-injurious. "I chewed constantly up until 15 years ago," he said, "and still smoke one stogie a day. I don't think tobacco used in moderation will hurt anyone."

Apparently it hasn't hurt the pioneer, for he looks as though he is still good for a few years, and no doubt Sewickley folk hope he will be with them for some time to come.

Rare Violin

GAYLORD YOST

One of the rarest of violins belongs to this member of Pittsburgh's Yost Quartet. Made by Guadagnini, famous pupil of the great Stradivari, it is believed 157 years old. It has been, and will be, heard in concerts here.

ACTOR DIES IN FILM BLAST

By Universal Service.

RENO, Nev., Jan. 12.—A battle in the snow reaches near Truckee claimed Daniel Silverwood, 30, of Reno, as its victim when he died of injuries received in a dynamite blast that wrecked a section of a trench serving as location for a Cossac engagement on the Siberian Steppes.

Dolores Del Rio and Charles Walsh, playing leading roles in the production led the flight of some 200 extras from a shower of falling debris. All escaped uninjured.

Silverwood, his body mangled, was brought here for hospital treatment.

The production "The Red Dancer," was being filmed by a Fox film unit.

FIFTEEN MORE DEAD FROM S-4 ARE IDENTIFIED

PENNSYLVANIAN AMONG SUB VICTIMS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—The Navy Department today announced the identification of the 15 bodies recovered from the submarine S-4 yesterday. They were:

WELLER, LIEUT. DONALD, Los Angeles.

BISHOP, WALTER, radio man, Washington, D. C.

BOONE, EARL WELSH, chief electrician's mate, Hartford, Conn.

BROWN, HENRY HANDY, fireman, third class, Fitzgerald, Ga.

CASH, ELMER LYFFORD, chief radio man, Shelburn, Ind.

DIEFENBACH, ROBERT WILLIAM, signal man, Louisville, Ky.

GALVIN, DANIEL MICHAEL, fireman, New York.

HANEY, DEWEY VICTOR, ship's cook, Unity, Ky.

HARRIS, BUSTER, seaman, Newberry, S. C.

KEMPFER, PAUL RICHARD, electrician's mate, Nant-Y-Glo, Pa.

ROSE, RUDOLPH JAMES, electrician's mate, Alberta, Canada.

STRANGE, CARL BERNICE, seaman, Chattanooga, Tenn.

TOLSON, WALTER ROSS, seaman, first class, Knoxville, Tenn.

With the recovery and identification of the 15 bodies, there remain in the S-4 today the six bodies in the torpedo room, the names of which are known, and these two:

William Dempsey, machinist's mate, sister, Mrs. A. Marchand, care of the Provincial Bank, Walkerville, Ontario, Canada, and Joseph William Sterman, engineman, next of kin, wife, Mrs. Myrtle S. Sternman, 59 Knowlton street, Riverside, R. I.

STRAY HORSE WANDERS NEAR POLICE PATROL

John Macher, a patrolman reporting to the North Side police station, had to take time off to play guardian for a horse that was found wandering in Beech avenue, North Side. The horse wandered in front of the patrol and almost was struck by the machine. Macher turned the horse over to employes of the city stables.

STORE ROBBERY SUSPECT HELD

Charles Victor, 18, who said his address is 166 East One Hundred Third street, New York, was arrested in Reedsdale street early this morning as a suspect in a frustrated durg store robbery a week ago, in which Patrolman Frank Linder experienced the sensation of having his hat shot off. Soon after being taken to the Woods Run Police Station, Victor was removed to the St. John's General Hospital, where it was stated he was suffering from acute alcoholism. A bullet punctured the shield on Patrolman Linder's hat while he battled with three men who attempted to rob the Reedsdale pharmacy, 1334 Reedsdale street. The bandits escaped in an automobile.

HUNT WRECKED CAR DRIVER

One, of five men, who were riding in an automobile that was wrecked near Eichleay's curve on Brownsville road last night is being sought by police, who say, that he was seen running from the wreck, holding his right hand from which a finger had been severed. He is thought to be Paul Pasino, of Canton, Ohio, driver of the machine.

Louis Mibalick, 20, of Detroit, Steve Vumoich, 19, of Detroit and John Musulin, 51, of Grape street, and his son, Melvin, 18, other occupants, were injured, two of them seriously. Mibalick and Vumovich are in the South Side Hospital, the latter suffering a fractured left rib and body bruises. Musulin and his son are in the St. Joseph's Hospital, the father suffering a possible fracture of the skull.

Police say a revolver and a blackjack were found in the automobile. The cause of the wreck was not determined.

MUSIC
"Old Master" Violin Here

At first stroke of the bows when the Yost Quartet played its last concert in Schenley ballroom, I knew some strange element was changing the tone of the ensemble. The more I listened, the more certain I became that Gaylord Yost, playing first violin, was creating this new tone, that perhaps a new instrument had crept into the quartet. That was really the case.

In the famous Wurlitzer collection of ancient violins was a Guadagnini, made by this famous pupil of the great Stradivari in Turin and dated 1770. This very violin was playing the lead in the quartet when last heard in concert, and since then has come into the possession of Yost. As an example of violin making its lines are not only accurate for acoustics, but beautiful as well. The original varnish is still there to enhance the tone, a tone so individual that the violin is said to be one of the outstanding instruments remaining from the workshop of the old Italian masters. We are happy to observe this violin as a rare object d'art, but it seems more important that we shall often be permitted to hear its lovely voice in our concert halls.

BRANDED FOR LIFE BY CHUM'S PRANK

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 12.—Larue Rist will carry a scar on the palm of his hand for, physicians say, the remainder of his life, because of a chum's prank. While firing a stove Larue grabbed a poker, whose handle his pal had heated.

BORAH WILL NOT AID CANDIDATE, WHO IS WET

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Senator William E. Borah yesterday declared on the floor of the Senate that he will not support any candidate for the Republican presidential nominations who is not in full sympathy with the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

The statement was made during a discussion of the political beliefs of Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York by Borah and Senator Copeland (D.), of New York.

Copeland said that Governor Smith will demand strict law enforcement. He predicted Smith's nomination and election.

COURT HERE 6TH IN CONVICTIONS

The Federal Court for the western district of Pennsylvania ranked sixth in the number of convictions under the national prohibition act for the year ended June 30, according to a report issued by Department of Justice. There were 1,250 convictions of violators of the liquor law, a large majority having entered pleas of guilty.

The other court districts leading this were Eastern New York, with 1,932 convictions; Southern West Virginia, 1,916; Northern New York, 1,560; Eastern Kentucky, 1,357, and District of Columbia, 1,299. In the Eastern and Middle districts of Pennsylvania there was a total of 477 convictions. No convictions were reported in the second and fourth districts of Alaska.

BOND PUT UP BY COUNCILMEN

Three Sharpsburg councilmen waived preliminary hearing before the United States Commissioner today and posted bond for court trial on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws. They were Frank W. Sair, chairman of the borough's police committee, and his two aides, Frank Terasi and William Harris.

The councilmen were prosecuted after former Police Lieut. Rocco Belaito had made affidavit that they carried away, instead of destroying, 67 quarts of seized whisky.

DRAG RIVER FOR BANDIT GUNS

River Patrolman Charles Snyder today was dragging the Allegheny River, at the foot of Twenty-sixth street, for two revolvers said to have been thrown into the water by Stanley Szarcyko, 19, of 2641 Penn avenue, and Albert Seiminski, 19, of 2502 Penn avenue, after they had held up Leo Wiseman, bank messenger, on Monday and robbed him of $4,000 in checks and $20 in currency. Police say the youths confessed their guilt.

GIMBEL-CLEARANCE K&B STOCKS

If this were an ordinary January Clearance, it would have ended before this. Our odd lots and broken lines would have been disposed of. But, being what it is, the GIMBEL clearance of Kaufmann & Baer stocks (running into millions in value), we have plenty of merchandise yet to be sold. While hundreds of lots have already been closed out, yet every department has many goods to clear, although assortments are seldom complete in sizes or colors.

There have been no half way measures in this sale. Price reductions have been drastic. Actual costs and original prices have been forgotten. Every effort has been made to provide the best service possible under the circumstances.

2 COLUMBUS, O., GIRLS VICTIMS OF "RIPPER" FIEND

THIRD ESCAPES SLASHER'S KNIFE

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12—Two girls were in a hospital here today, the victims of "Ripper," who slashed them with "a long slender knife." A third girl, sister of one of those attacked, who escaped from the fiend, was on the verge of nervous collapse.

The fiend made his appearance on the West Side late last night, claiming Thelma Weaver, 15-year-old high school girl, as his first victim. She was en route home when the man suddenly pounced upon her, snatched at her arm with what the overwrought girl described as "talons," and knifed her in the back with the blade.

"The Ripper" fled as the girl screamed and while police were searching for him he was stalking two sisters, Lula, 16, and Mabel Thompson, 15, a few squares away. As the sisters turned into an unlighted street the fiend, running on tip-toes, silently came up behind them. He brought the knife down Lula's neck, missing the jugular vein by half an inch. Mabel fled, screaming, and "The Ripper" disappeared into the night.

Although both girls will recover, they, with the girl who escaped, were in a highly nervous state this morning. The Weaver girl's back bears a six-inch slash. Her coat was ripped more than 12 inches. A five-inch gash was found in Miss Thompson's neck and she was in a dangerous condition from loss of blood.

Every available policeman on the West Side was ordered out to look for the man.

THE DIVORCE MILL

HIT WITH BUCKET

Testimony that her hus- husband hit her with a bucket and threatened to shoot her, won Mrs. Mary Ann Hendershot, of Morgan, Pa., a divorce from George H. Hendershot yesterday in Common Pleas Court, before Judge Harry H. Rowand.

KNOCKED HIM OUT

His wife knocked him unconscious with a frying pan, broke the handle of a carpet sweeper on his head, hit him with a flatiron and chased him from his home with a butcher knife, Albert L. Myers, of 2024 Howard street, stated in a bill of particulars filed against his wife, Mary Rose Myers, of 19 Ritchey street, from whom he is seeking a divorce. His wife, whom he charges with cruel and barbarous treatment, also wished that he might be killed by an automobile, he stated in the bill.

TRY DRAVOSBURG POLICE CHIEF FOR ASSAULT

Charles Livingston, chief of police of Dravosburg, was placed on trial yesterday before Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff of Kittanning on a charge of aggravated assault and battery. He was accused of striking Mrs. Richard Thompson, Negress, with the butt of his revolver and beating Henrietta Brown, Negro child, July 2, at their home, 103 Clay street, when neighbors called him after a quarrel between white and Negro children.

DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Martha C. Curtis.

Mrs. Martha Crawford Curtis, 81, died Tuesday in her home at 3519 Fifth avenue. She had been a resident of Pittsburgh 25 years. Her husband, William K. Curtis, died five years ago, shortly after they celebrated their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary. Mrs. Curtis was born in Millbrook, Pa. She lived several years in Emlenton, Pa. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Annie Q. Ackerman.

Mrs. Annie Quinn Ackerman, 67, died yesterday at the home of her niece, Miss Mary Callahan, 72 South Twenty-fourth street. Mrs. Ackerman was a member of SS. Peter's and Paul's Catholic Church and Branch No. 187, L. C. B. A. She leaves two daughters and four sons.

John P. Elsasser.

John P. Elsasser, former Pittsburgher and brother of Charles Elsasser of 6024 Hoeveler street, died in San Jose, Cal., Monday, according to word received here. The body will be brought to Pittsburgh for burial. Mr. Elsasser was born in Pittsburgh and was a son of the late Marx and Theodora Elsasser. Besides his brother he leaves two sisters.

Harry J. McAllister.

Attorney Harry J. McAllister, 60, died yesterday in his home, 724 Huey street, McKeesport. Mr. McAllister was born in Bradford county and had been a resident of the McKeesport district for the last 33 years. He was a graduate of Lafayette University and was admitted to the bar 35 years ago. Since that time he has practiced law in the McKeesport district. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of McKeesport, Youghiogheny Lodge No. 583, F. & A. M.; Pennsylvania Consistory, Knights Templar and Syria Temple. He leaves his widow, two sons, two daughters and two brothers.

Thomas M. Williams.

Thomas M. Williams, 75, of 2128 Perrysville avenue, a pioneer in business education in Western Pennsylvania, died at Los Angeles last Friday after a short illness. He had gone to California on a visit several months ago.

Mr. Williams was born on a farm near Bakerstown, the son of David P. and Mary Ann Williams. Entering the teaching profession he became president of Curry College, Pittsburgh. In 1880 he established the Actual Business College, remaining president and proprietor until his retirement several years ago.

Mr. Williams was noted as a leader in the introduction of new methods of actual business practice in teaching commercial methods. He also was well known as a penman and handwriting expert.

He was active in religious work in the United Presbyterian Church and in the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

Mr. Williams is survived by his widow, Ida Richmond Williams; by two daughters, Mrs. Charles H. Smith of Homestead and Miss Bessie Williams of Pittsburgh; by three sons, Vernon R., Percy D. and Thomas M. Williams, Jr., all of Pittsburgh; by a grandson, Thomas J. Williams; by four brothers, the Rev. Joseph D. of New York City, James C. of Cincinnati, David P. of Washington, D. C., and Theodore J. Williams of California, and by two sisters, Mrs. John Graham of Warrendale and Mrs. Jason Stone of Washington, D. C.

C. F. Himmler.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 12.—C. F. Himmler, of 3887 Bigelow boulevard, Pittsburgh, salesman for the Eagle Lubricating Oil Company of Pittsburgh, dropped dead yesterday at the home of Harry Pritts, of Greensboro, 22 miles east of here. Physicians who conducted an investigation stated they believe death due to cerebral hemorrhage. Mr. Himmler was well known in Greensboro, having visited that community for the last several years.

the charm of a clear skin
S.S.S.

You cannot be attractive without a clear skin

EVERYBODY wants to be attractive. It is a great and just ambition. But no one can be attractive without a clear skin—you know that.

Do you realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of most skin disorders is in the blood?

Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S?

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs, and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

—purely vegetable

When your system is filled with rich, red blood, you don't have that tired, languid feeling when you awake in the morning. Instead, you feel refreshed, ready to meet the world.

Your appetite is keen—you enjoy work or play—your skin is clear, cheeks naturally rosy.

All this because rich, red blood builds and sustains the body.

"S.S.S. cleared my skin of pimples and blackheads. I think it a most wonderful blood medicine. Several of my friends are taking it for the same reason I did." Miss Margaret Frye, Lapel, Ind.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

Director

S. J. TOPLEY

Election of Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley as a member of the Board of Directors of the Braddock National Bank and the Bessemer Trust Company, succeeding the late Edward McCrady, a member of the firm McCrady Brothers, contractors, was announced yesterday.

WM. B. M'FALL, PRESIDENT OF BANK, DIES

William B. McFall, 77, president of the Homewood Peoples Bank, and former president of Murdoch, Kerr and Company, publishers, died this morning in his home, 6824 Frankstown avenue.

Mr. McFall was born in Pittsburgh. Living in Texas during the Civil War, he served as a messenger of the Confederate government. After the war, he returned to Pittsburgh with his widowed mother, and found work with the publishing company. He later became president and general manager of that organization, a position which he held until five years ago, when the organization was dissolved.

Since that time Mr. McFall centered his energy in the Homewood Peoples Bank.

Mr. McFall was actively engaged in projects of the community in which he lived. For 47 years he had been president of the board of trustees and superintendent of the Sunday school of the Homewood Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church. He was president of the Homewood Board of Trade, and for 25 years was president of the Homewood Building and Loan Association. He was one of the older members of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, and at the time of his death was a member of the committee on municipal affairs. He was also a former president of the Pittsburgh Typothetae.

He leaves his wife, Martha E. McFall; two daughters, Mrs. Arthur B. Siviter and Mrs. Richard W. Martin; a son, William B. McFall, Jr., and five grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. McFall had lived in the East End for 48 years, where they witnessed the development of that district from a community of farms. They would have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary next June.

Funeral services will be conducted at the church Saturday at 2:30 o'clock.

THWART ARSON PLOT; SAVE 3

An attempt to burn the store and residence of R. S. Glenn, Rook station, near Carnegie, early today, was frustrated when milkmen discovered the blaze, aroused the family, and aided in extinguishing the flames. Oil had been poured on an outside wall of the building and set afire, an investigation by county detectives revealed.

Glenn, his wife and a brother, Jacob Glenn, were asleep on the second floor. The store proprietor said he did not suspect anyone.

NEW DRESSES

From the many features which Fashion presents at this time, we especially exploit three which lend interest and charm to afternoon dresses.

1—Side draperies, occurring both at hip line and neck line, following the designs of Patou, Premet, Worth, Doeuillet.

2—Tiers and pleatings, to produce the delightful charm of skirt movement, an important consideration of all couturiers.

3—The pointed neck line in its many variations, all designed to preserve the effect of slenderness.

These dresses in fine qualities of satin and rich silk crepes, priced $49.50 to $85.00.

NAVY HEADS PLEAD FOR "ADEQUATE DEFENSE"

WILBUR URGES FIVE-YEAR PROGRAM

By ARTHUR HACHTEN,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—With a warning that the United States is greatly inferior to other nations in naval strength Secretary Wilbur appealed to Congress to lay down a shipbuilding program that will give this country adequate defense.

The general plan is a five-year building program, embracing 71 warships at a total cost of about $750,000,000, but Wilbur asked that the time limit for building be left indefinite so that the Navy may reap the advantage of experience while building.

URGES SPEED

He left no doubt that the administration's purpose in submitting the big program was for the actual construction of the ships as soon as practicable. The administration plainly is for ships and not paper blueprints.

Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations, joined Secretary Wilbur before the House Naval Affairs Committee in pointing out the Navy's inferiorities.

The administration's program calls for construction of 25 cruisers, five aircraft carriers, nine destroyer leaders and 32 submarines.

"The insistence of Great Britain and of her naval experts and of her delegates at the Geneva conference upon her absolute need for a large tonnage of cruisers, regardless of the naval program of other powers, is most persuasive evidence that we also have definite needs for cruiser tonnage, regardless of the program of other powers, if we are to have a well-rounded fleet for our defense, and also that such a program for us is in no sense competitive," said Wilbur.

"America needs a first-class Navy," he declared, adding that if Congress lays down a comprehensive program for the future, "the danger of war and therefore of the destruction of our overseas commerce will be greatly minimized if not entirely met." He said:

"The President is opposed to competitive building. Congress has has also manifested its unwillingness to engage in competitive building by carefully restricting its authorizations for new construction and its appropriations therefor were below the treaty ratio with reference to other signatory powers, so far as the facts could be ascertained.

"That is to say, we have not even undertaken to maintain the treaty ratio in the unlimited types of ships by building up to that ratio even though we recognized our need for such ships. We have not engaged in competitive building of warships and we do not intend to do so.

NOT "RACE," HE SAYS

"We do not ask you to build a certain number of tons of each type of vessel for the reason that Great Britain has that number of tons or because to do so would bring us up to parity with Great Britain, nor do we ask you to construct a certain amount of tonnage in order that we may be on the 5-3 ratio with Japan.

"At Geneva, Great Britain expressed her willingness to agree with us on the limitation of 600,000 tons of cruisers, but we felt, in view of our needs, that such an agreement would be no limitation at all.

"Our original proposal at Geneva was for cruiser tonnage of between 250,000 and 300,000 tons, less than we felt necessary for our fleet. We were willing to accept the hazard of building a lessage tonnage than we needed if the other powers would accept similar hazards.

"Great Britain was not willing to accept this limitation, but felt her need for the large tonnage of cruisers she proposed to be imperative for the protection of her national interests.

"Our need for vessels for national defense depends in part upon the volume and extent of our overseas commerce and overseas interests. As that commerce increases and as these interests grow, the need for a Navy increases.

"It is believed by the Navy Department that to build enough cruisers to effectually protect all our overseas commerce would be too great a burden upon the nation in its peacetime activities.

"We would rather accept the hazard of the possible destruction of some of our overseas commerce than to bear the burden of building all the ships theoretically necessary to protect such foreign trade.

"We do believe that the number of cruisers proposed in this bill is a reasonable burden to be assumed by our government for the protection of its vital interests."

Training classes for the Boy Scout leadership will be conducted weekly throughout the winter at the downtown Y. M. C. A.

"Let People Rule" Is Democratic Women's Motto

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—"Let the people rule," that is considered the best slogan for Democratic women in 1928.

From hundreds of suggested slogans submitted in a contest recently conducted by a Women's magazine it was selected at the closing session of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement League.

Miss Helen Humphrey of Rockville, Md., an employe of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was the prize winner.

When first announced, the contest won national publicity because the Post Office Department attempted to bar it from the mails on the ground that it was a lottery.

HUGHES CITES DEFICIENCIES OF NAVY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations, today laid before the House Naval Affairs Committee, figures on the comparative strength of the United States fleet with other navies, revealing this nation deficient in important factors of warfare. He said:

"At the present time the tonnage of light cruisers, first line (27 knots plus and 3,000 tons or greater) built, building or appropriated for less than 20 years of age is:

United States	155,000 tons
British Empire	384,510 tons
Japan	186,290 tons

"Great Britain has recently announced that two of the above cruisers (18,000 tons) appropriated for will not be laid down this year.

"NEED 20 CRUISERS"

"As will be seen, to attain parity with Great Britain on a tonnage basis at present we require 20 additional 10,000 ton light cruisers (18 if the construction of the two mentioned above is abandoned). To attain the 5:3 ratio with Japan we require 17 additional light cruisers.

"In addition to the above, Great Britain has six additional light cruisers (52,000 tons) of her present building program, which have not been appropriated for. Three of these are to be laid down in 1928, and three in 1929.

If Great Britain completes this announced program she will have in 1928, 406,510 tons of cruisers built, building and appropriated for. Hence to attain parity in 1929, the United States requires 25 additional 10,000-ton light cruisers.

"At the present time the tonnage of destroyers and destroyer leaders, first line, built, building and appropriated for, of 16 years of age and under;

United States	329,153 tons
British Empire	224,150 tons
Japan	124,270 tons

"Of this total, the tonnage of destroyers which exceed 1,600 tons and which we class as destroyer leaders is as follows:

United States	None
British Empire	31,500 tons
Japan	40,800 tons

"Great Britain has, in addition to the above, an announced program of one destroyer leader and eight destroyers to be laid down in each of the years 1928 and 1929. Japan has not announced any further destroyer building program.

DESTROYERS NEAR LIMIT

"Although we are at present well above the 5-5-3 ratio with the British Empire and Japan in destroyer types, our destroyers will soon start reaching the age limit of 16 years in large numbers.

"At the present time the tonnage of aircraft carriers built, building and appropriated for is as follows:

United States	78,700 tons
British Empire	107,500 tons
Japan	63,300 tons

"The tonnage of aircraft carriers allowed by the Washington treaty is as follows:

United States	135,00 tons
Great Britain	135,000 tons
Japan	81,000 tons

"At the present time the total tonnages of submarines of all classes, built, building and appropriated for, of 13 years of age and under are:

United States	93,364 tons
British Empire	61,688 tons
Japan	76,407 tons

"At the present time the United States has more than parity with Great Britain in submarines, but requires 34,000 tons to attain the 5-5-3 ratio with Japan."

HE SHOOK LIKE MAN WITH PALSY

Was Weak, Nervous and Almost Hopeless, But Ten Herbs Gave Relief,

"Before I began taking Ten Herbs I was in such a weakened, nervous condition that the slightest excitement or heavy work would leave me shaking and trembling all over like a man stricken with palsy," was the statement of Mr. A. M. Kramer, 117

MR. A. M. KRAMER

Horner Street, Harrisburg, Pa., according to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at the May Drug Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is giving daily demonstrations of this great natural medicine.

"I was certainly in a bad condition," Mr. Kramer continued. "My stomach was 'all to pieces.' My kidneys got weak, and I had to arise as much as ten times a night. My bowels wouldn't move for days, unless I took the heaviest kind of laxative. I kept going down hill so fast that I had about given up hope of ever feeling well again, as nothing gave me relief.

"Friends told me about Ten Herbs, and begged me to try it. Finally, I got a bottle, and I began to feel better right away. I first noticed an improvement in my stomach and bowels. I began to have an appetite, and my digestion became normal again. My kidneys were improved, and my nerves became stronger. After taking several bottles, I felt like a new man. I believe, Ten Herbs is the best medicine sold in a drug store. It will help anyone who will take it faithfully."

Are you master of your digestion or its slave? Does a heavy meal make you feel miserable? Is there gas, sourness, bloating, belching offensive substance, heavy or burning feeling in stomach, shortness of breath, or palpitation of heart? If so, let Ten Herbs tone up your stomach and give relief from such disorders. It will also benefit your liver, kidneys and bowels and have a cleansing, soothing, correcting effect on your entire system.

The Ten Herbs Man is at the May Drug Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

FINE PAIR $1,000 FOR CONTEMPT

FAIL TO CLOSE SALOON AFTER PADLOCK

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Niederest, 623 East Ohio street, adjudged guilty of contempt of court in liquor cases, and received heavy penalties when called before Judge Ambrose B. Reid in Common Pleas Court late yesterday. Niederest was ordered to pay a fine of $800 within five days or serve three months in jail, and his wife to pay $200 within five days or serve one month in jail. The contempt charges followed failure of the defendants to close their saloon after padlock proceedings.

Judge Reid roundly scored the defendants, stating that their only excuse was that others were doing it. Judge Reid made it plain that the sentences could serve as a warning to others.

In the case of Arthur M. Dietz, 505 Federal street, called before Judge Thomas D. Carnahan, for a similiar offense, the same sentence was meted out, $800 fine or 3 months in jail. Dietz was a defendant with his father, Jacob H. Dietz, who died last December, 9, after the case had been tried. Last October, the Dietz defense was that they supposed they were allowed to continue business pending an appeal.

The proceedings in both cases were brought by the Commonwealth represented by Attorney R. W. Ewing special deputy attorney general in charge of liquor cases for this district.

YOUNGSTOWN CAR FARES HIGHER FEB. 1

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 12.—Street car and bus fares will advance Feb. 1 from eight to ten cents, under terms of a new agreement between the Youngstown Municipal Railways Co. and the city. A weekly pass may be purchased for $1.50.

PLAN "SURPRISE" TO SAVE VELMA

By Universal Service

PAINESVILLE, O., Jan. 12.—It may be that Velma West's mind is split because it is of a low grade that cracks easily, Richard Bostwick, her youthful attorney, indicated in announcing that a surprise would be sprung today by the defense at her trial for the slaying of her husband.

While the blonde hammer slayer's chief hope of escaping the chair will be pinned on self-defense evidence, Bostwick explained after the day's grand jury session, the surprise, and the contention that the city girl who rebelled at country life is below normal mentally, also will be presented.

WON'T BARE DETAILS

Bostwick refused to reveal the nature of the surprise other than to say that it will be something entirely new in this part of the country.

He declared, however, that in proof of his self-defense contention, he has three physicians who will testify that some of the blood found in the honeymoon cottage after the slender bride killed her husband and then went to a party to make merry, is that of a woman. This, he says, will show that Edward West struck his frail wife before she ended his life with the blows of a claw-hammer.

The grand jury of 12 men and two women, which is deciding whether the split-personality slayer must face the chair for her deed, is expected to end its work on her case today.

While the prosecution is confident there will be a first degree indictment, there are reports about the court house that she may be indicted for murder in the second degree.

YOUNGSTOWN CHURCH TO HAVE $320,000 HOME

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 12.—The Central Christian Church, Dr. D. W. Scott, pastor, decided yesterday to build a new church at a cost of $320,000. It is one of the largest Disciple congregations in the country.

CHURCH PLANS MINSTREL

St. Catherine's Church, Beechview, will open the year's social activities with a minstrel show in the South Hills High School during the week of February 13. Preliminary to the show there will be three card parties in Boylan's Hall, January 16, 23 and 30, at which time the executive committee arranging the show will formulate plans.

The minstrel will be under the direction of Oscar Bergman. Others on committees are Harry Murphy, general chairman; Mrs. Joseph A. Carroll and William Carrick, programs; St. Catherine's Sodality, under chairmanship of Rose Griffin, candy; George McLennan, door committee; Edward Egan, boosters' committee; John Dunn, stage; Edwin Winterholler, ushers; Miss Pauline McQuillan, publicity.

MAKE MORE MONEY

Healthy, vigorous men and women land life's best prizes. Buoyant step, bright eyes, clear complexion and exuberant vitality denote a system free from impurities. Constipation poisons the whole system, slows the step, saps energy, destroys confidence and cuts down the earning power.

Rid your system of constipation and its poisons. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets remove them gently, tone up the system, clear the eyes and complexion and bring back normal vigor. A compound of vegetable ingredients, prescribed to patients for 20 years in place of calomel. They act easily and quickly on bowels and liver.

Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets and keep fit for the daily grind. Thousands of happy men and women use them regularly as an aid to success in their everyday tasks. Know them.

OLD-TIME COLD REMEDY—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of this hamburg tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacupful at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and relieve grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

ECZEMA CAUSED DISFIGUREMENT

Affected Knees and Elbows. Cuticura Heals.

"Eczema broke out in red spots which scaled over and affected my knees and elbows, later spreading to other parts of my body. It caused disfigurement and also itching, and sometimes I lost my rest on account of the irritation. The trouble lasted about four or five months.

"I used other remedies but received no benefit whatever. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in about three weeks I could see an improvement. I continued the treatment and now I am completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. George W. Secor, R. 1, Box 13, Delmar, N. Y.

The Quick Magic of Calcium!

Do you want a beautiful complexion this week? A skin that fairly sparkles? And color that is all your own? Then give your system just a little calcium!

Calcium clears away every impurity that keeps the skin sallow or dull. It keeps pores purged, and the cuticle clean. You'll feel and see the difference from the very first day you take a tiny, sugar-coated Stuart calcium wafer!

A five-day test will prove to you very conclusively the system's need for calcium, and the decided benefit from these little wafers. Your druggist has them—the test size for pocket is 10c. Or the family size, 60c.

Good News for Expectant Mothers

Doctor's Discovery Relieves Much Unnecessary Suffering

IT has been proven conclusively that much of the suffering experienced during expectancy, as well as at child-birth, is entirely unnecessary.

Dr. Holmes' discovery, "Mother's Friend," aids the muscles and tissues to expand more easily, month after month, right up to the climax of child-birth!

Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., writes: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used "Mother's Friend" and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

Start using Mother's Friend tonight—the sooner the better and write for free booklet on "Things to Know Before Baby Comes" (sent in plain envelope). Mother's Friend is sold by all drug stores. Bradfield Regulator Co., Desk 21, Atlanta, Ga.

CHARACTER STUDY OF GOV. "AL" SMITH

Here are five new portrait studies of Gov. Alfred Emanuel Smith, of New York, who has a large place in the political portrait gallery for 1928. As you may see, Al's looking fit to step into a vigorous campaign.

'BRIDE' MISSING SO IS $1,100

Joseph Katnoski, of Star Junction, Fayette county, learned about women from Wanda Stanko, his bride-to-be, whom he trusted with $1,100 after a two weeks' courtship. Yesterday he had to borrow railroad fare home, because Wanda had disappeared with the bankroll.

Katnoski met Wanda in the Pennsylvania Railroad Station two weeks ago and, after the short romance, she agreed to marry him. He took her home to meet the folks, then returned to Pittsburgh yesterday. Upon Wanda's suggestion, she took over the money. Katnoski went to a barber shop and was to meet Wanda later. They never met. City detectives are helping Katnoski search for her.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Jan. 12—The congregation of the Christ Lutheran Church here voted to have a building committee proceed with plans for the erection of a $100,000 church on the site of the present edifice.

Hotel Gab Wises Will on Who's Who for '28

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—I know you are anxious to know who is to be nominated on both tickets.

Well, here is who was nominated in the lobby of the Mayflower Hotel in less than an hour's listening.

WILL ROGERS

"Hoover is the fellow they will put over."

"Dawes is the man—the banks will take Dawes."

"Watch Lowden, the farmers are naming the man this year."

"They will tie up for a week, somebody will mention Coolidge, and that will be the payoff."

"Well, they better name Smith—that's our only chance."

"Smith can't win, the country's dry."

"Jim Reed. He's the best bet."

"Look out for Heflin if they don't nominate a Catholic."

"George of Georgia is the dark horse."

"Donahy can carry Ohio, even if he ain't running."

Now, don't tell me I didn't tell you the news.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

5 Autos Sold for 5 Cents Each at Police Auction

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—No motor car manufacturer can match the low prices of new and not-so-new models offered at the Twenty-fourth street sales room of Police Inspector John Stockert. His day's sales, at auction, included five cars at five cents each, four cars at a dime each, and one de luxe model at 50 cents. The occasion was the regular auction of lost, strayed, stolen and abandoned automobiles gathered in by the police.

No Stars, Let Everybody Shine, Holbrook Blinn, Star Himself, Asserts "Play's the Thing"

By GEORGE SEIBEL

HOLBROOK BLINN, star of "The Play's the Thing," was on his way to witness the matinee of Francine Larrimore, star of "Chicago," and so he should not have spoken disparagingly of stars—but he did. "Nowadays," he said, "it means nothing any longer to be a star. The matinee idol has passed into oblivion, and the movie sheik is better known than the most talented and conscientious of actors. So why keep up the delusion that large letters in electric lights mean anything? Patrons of the theater today are drawn from the intelligent classes of the community, and to them, more than ever before, 'the play's the thing.' They know the actor—better than he knows himself in some cases—and they go to the theater if he has a play they want to see. That's why I think the day of the actor-manager has come."

GEORGE SEIBEL

The actor-manager, according to Mr. Blinn's definition, is a man like the late Henry Miller, who knows the theater and loves it, who will select his play and produce it, and who will watch over every detail of the performance so that the closing night shall be better than the premiere.

"We have such men still," continued Mr. Blinn. "Otis Skinner is one of them, and Walter Hampden is another. They know their business, but that is not enough—they also work hard and never let up. There is the future of our theater: To keep the spoken drama to a pitch of perfection that will deserve the loyalty of intelligent theatergoers. More than ever before, the theatergoers are the intelligent classes. The others have found other diversions."

When Mr. Blinn spoke of hard work to attain perfection, he was outlining an ideal to which he has devoted himself. With "sympathetic discipline," as he calls it, he keeps the whole cast of his production always at concert pitch. And every detail must be just so. In the remarkably beautiful setting of "The Play's the Thing" there is not a single property on the stage, from piano to ash tray, that is not carried by the company. Turai's breakfast is brought in on a silver platter that cost $450. And that breakfast is a real breakfast. The tea is the best obtainable, and must be served hot. The ham is the choicest cut that can be secured, and is fresh for every performance. The eggs are real—and not cold storage.

"In order to maintain the standards of our stage," concluded Mr. Blinn, "we must have a critical intelligence watching every detail. People used to go to the theater to see a John Drew or a Richard Mansfield. That day is passing. The best-known actor is not as famous, or as notorious, as any one of a score of Hollywood queens. The real lover of the theater knows the actors, but is less interested in the individual than in the picture—the play as a whole. Why point out one particular splash of paint in the picture and call it the star? In the good play well played every member of the company should have an equal chance to shine."

It was time for the matinee. Mr. Blinn was going to see a demonstration or refutation of his theory. For Miss Larrimore, 10 years ago, was a member of Mr. Blinn's company when he was putting on a series of remarkable one-act plays in the Princess Theater in New York. This week both of them are in Pittsburgh at the same time, each a star in big letters and electric lights. But all that would be changed if Mr. Blinn had his modest way.

"Rosalie," New Ziegfeld Hit, With Marilyn Miller, Gives West Point a "Glorifying"

By ALAN DALE

Famous Dramatic Critic of Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.

ZIEGFELD did a brand new stunt in the New Amsterdam Theater, preceding the beginning of "Rosalie." And it is a stunt that should be imitated by every manager in town. To be precise, he furnished such a gorgeous and fascinating curtain that one was really in no hurry for it to rise. I spend so much time sitting before curtains that do not rise until you are weary of looking at them that I cannot overlook this innovation.

However, I'll say that when the beautiful curtains did part "Rosalie" proved that she was worth rising for—at any time and with any curtain. After a somewhat slow start, in which it seemed almost as though we were sitting at "Marco Millions" again, Marilyn Miller and Jack Donahue got busy, and the show from that moment never let up.

Miss Miller was a blonde, and therefore lovely, princess, and Mr. Donahue was an aviator, and the locale for a scene or two was Romanza, one of these mythical realms dear to musical comedy. But only for the scene or two. After that we were transported by an ocean liner, on which Mr. Donahue had a frightful case of mal de mer, to West Point, and the most bewildering scene I have chronicled for blue moons was revealed as the terrace hove into view.

The huge stage was one tremendous West Point, all gray and substantial and almost as much like the real thing as the theater could hope for. The audience couldn't resist this picture, which was, of course, by Urban, and as scores and scores of cadets came trooping in—some of them unglorified boys and the rest glorified girls—the ensemble was so magnificently imposing that I felt grieved that I had even noticed the curtain. (Still I had to do that, it was so novel). "The West Point March," by Romberg, was splendidly delivered, and preceding it was a "West Point Bugle," also by Romberg, and equally fine and melodious. In fact, in "Rosalie," Romberg did what he achieved in "The Student Prince," and offered us a series of musical ensembles for male voices that had such pep that you felt a bit glorified yourself, in your innards.

Marilyn Miller was in excellent voice and exuberant spirits. She danced with so much alertness and grace and fairy-like abandon as ever, and sang in a voice that has really gained enormously in quality. She has never done anything better, and a song that she had in the first act entitled "Oh Gee—Oh Joy," with Jack Donahue, stopped the show and made poor Margaret Dale, who was fearfully queenly and haughty as her royal highness, walk silently off stage whilst the pair returned and did the ditty over again.

I always think this a sorry thing for any actor or actress, but it was justified, for the song was so well worth while hearing several times.

Donahue was awfully funny, especially in his West Point cadet uniform and the delightful insouciance with which he wore it. He was as nimble as ever and his sense of humor, grim and unbending, was extremely droll.

When we got to West Point, at West Point we stayed, and the gallant institution came in for its share of glorification. Every West Point cadet, with his sisters and his cousins and his aunts, will clamor to see "Rosalie," with its wondrous treatment of its spectacular possibilities. Both first and second acts were West Point ad lib.

In addition to Miss Miller and Mr. Donahue there were such "talent" as Frank Morgan, as a foreign silly ass (and to be alien in musical comedy is to be a silly ass); Margaret Dale, almost more queenly than any queen could be; A. P. Kaye, Oliver McLennan and Clay Clement.

Romberg's music was lovely; Gershwin's was finer, with that curious, uncanny lilt he has almost patented. Save up to see "Rosalie." It won irrevocably.

"Tag, You're It"

OR WORDS to that effect, is what a movie scout said when he "discovered" Fay Webb in Santa Monica and gave her a screen test that won her a contract, although she had no experience as an actress. She made her debut in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Tea for Three."

SALE AND VAN IN BILLS

Frank McIntyre, Lynne Overman, Jeanette MacDonald, Billy B. Van and Carl Randall, in the musical comedy, "One Sunny Day," for one week only, beginning Monday evening, January 16, will be seen in the Nixon. Seats are on sale today.

"Gay Paree," with Chick Sale and the complete New York Winter Garden production, is coming to the Alvin next week, seats for the attraction going on sale today.

There will be the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

The sale of seats for Thurston's engagement in the Pitt next week got going in the box office today. The popular magician will give Thursday and Saturday matinees in addition to the evening performances. He has a number of new illusions, it is announced.

The Younger Foys, who will headline the bill of Keith-Albee vaudeville in the Davis Theater next week, are children of a famous dad, Eddie Foy. On the screen will be "The Spotlight."

Francis Ford, hero of numerous serials, plays a conspicuous role in "The Wreck of the Hesperus," which comes to Loew's Aldine screen January 16. Elmer Clifton directed this picturization of Longfellow's poem.

The Six Daisies, scheduled for the stage attraction at the Grand next week, are a group of jazz musicians. The feature photoplay will be Milton Sills in "Valley of the Giants."

Joan Crawford, who played with William Haines in "Spring Fever," had an "encore" when she was sent to West Point to play with him again in his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "West Point," which comes to the Penn next week.

Special dancing features will be seen in "Jazz Babies," next week's burlesque in the Gayety. Max Coleman and Joe Hill play the principal comedy parts.

"Girls From Happyland," the burlesque which will be seen in the Academy next week, is presented by a company including Kitty Warren, Irving Selig, Rose Lee, and Ben Lerner. There is a chorus of twenty.

The vaudeville feature in the Harris next week will be "The Lucky Stiff," a new one-act play, with George Spalding and Geraldine Wood co-starring. Tom Mix, in "The Arizona Wildcat," will be the screen presentation.

Mickey Daniels and Peggy Eames, of "Our Gang" screen comedies, will appear in person in the Sheridan Square as a vaudeville feature the last three days of next week. "Fifty Miles From Broadway" is the feature the first half of the week.

"The Wizard," next week's screen attraction at the Olympic, features Edmund Lowe and Leila Hyams.

Anne Forrest, who will return to the Pitt in the spring, as leading woman for the George Sharp Production Stock Company, is rehearsing in Warren Lawrence's new play, "Quicksand," scheduled for an early opening on Broadway.

TAKE SALTS IF STOMACH ISN'T ACTING RIGHT

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyperacidity, meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest; we belch up gas; we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink it while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to help neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used for many stomach disorders with excellent results.

LINDY ENDS GOOD-WILL TOUR

'VIVAS!' CLOSE FLIGHT AT COLON

COLON, Panama, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Completing the last leg of his Central American flight, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed safely at France Field about 11:30 this morning. He had hopped off from Campo Lindbergh, Panama City, less than an hour before.

Ten thousand cheering spectators were there to greet him when he came circling over the field, and in the streets of Colon, through which he passed, virtually the whole population of 60,000 welcomed the aviator joyfully.

Flags, banners and bunting decorated the buildings. Marines and soldiers furnished guards and bands. "Viva Lindbergh" rang out from all quarters, as the airman, seated in an automobile with the governor of the province, J. Demosthenes Arosemena, and the mayor, rode along.

At the take-off from Campo Lindbergh, the crowds gathered in almost as great proportions as the welcoming throngs on his arrival, January 9. President Chiari and several members of the cabinet were there fully 20 minutes before the flier.

On reaching the field, Col. Lindbergh himself started the propeller of the "Spirit of St. Louis," and after bidding a warm adieu to the president, entered the plane and taxied the full length of the field. He circled Panama City and then headed for Colon.

NEW DAMAGE TRIAL ASKED

Robert Swan and his wife, Mary Swan, have filed a motion for a new trial, in their suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Company. The verdict was for the company. Mrs. Swan fainted in the corridor of the City-County building last Tuesday, after she left Judge Harry H. Rowand's court room. Mrs. Swan charges she was seriously injured in 1925 when a street car gave a sudden jerk, throwing her to the floor, her head striking an iron bar.

LINDLEY P. BAILEY, FARM LEADER, DIES

Playthings vs. Safety
A Square Deal for Your Wife and Family

WHEN a family goes along year after year living comfortably, without financial worry, it becomes very easy to minimize the realities of the situation which may exist when the head of that family dies.

¶ When a man's earning power enables him to maintain a certain standard of living for his family during his life, he creates, in our opinion, a moral obligation to continue that standard of living for them after his death.

¶ This can best be accomplished in most cases by adequate Life Insurance in any strong company.

¶ We believe that the average man is inadequately insured until the amount of his policies, invested at 5%, yields an income approximating his present annual income, less his own individual expenses.

¶ We can point to innumerable cases where families are spending 30% of their incomes for partial payment luxury-buying, regarding adequate life insurance in the "CAN'T AFFORD IT" Class.

¶ And many of them would be in financial hot water by next January if the bread winner died tonight.

¶ Our plea is for the perspective on the cost and advantages of Life Insurance measured in relation to what the money is now being spent for.

¶ Your Life Insurance man can sell you something which will endure and serve your family long after the playthings are gone and forgotten.

See him—he is your friend.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

IN DORMONT HIGH PLAY

STANLEY NICHOLS

EVELYN BULKELY

In Dormont, "The Whole Town's Talking." Stanley Nichols and Evelyn Bulkely play the leading roles in the play by this name, which the graduating class of Dormont High School will present tonight and Friday in the Hillsdale avenue school auditorium. The play was the most successful of those written by John Emerson and Anita Loos before they set the country talking about gentlemen and blondes.

ORDER RETURN OF PROPERTY

A portion of the property of the Pittsburgh Warehouse Terminal and Transfer Company not required in the construction of the north approach to the Liberty Bridge was ordered returned to the company by Judge James R. Macfarlane in Quarter Sessions Court yesterday on the petition of county commissioners presented by Assistant County Solicitor W. C. Jacobs.

The county had taken by condemnation the property bounded by Second avenue, the Boulevard of the Allies, Shingiss street and Hill street. The portion ordered returned was 4,223 square feet adjacent to the intersection of Horace street and Shingiss street.

COURT FINDS FIRM NOT LIABLE FOR AUTO INJURY

Where a man drives an automobile without the owner's permission and injures some one, the car owner is not liable for damages. That was the ruling of Judge Richard W. Martin when, on motion of Attorney Roy Dickie, he granted a nonsuit in the case of Miss Lena Hirsch who had sued the Duquense Sales Company for $15,000 damages for injuries suffered March 6, 1925, in Ardmore boulevard., Miss Hirsch, who suffered permant injuries, lives in Fall street, East Pittsburgh.

YOUR ELECTRIC RATES ARE TO BE SIMPLIFIED

On February 1, 1928, the rates of the Duquesne Light Company will be simplified.

In this process of simplification there will be a direct saving to our customers of $700,000 in electric bills.

We make this announcement with a feeling of deepest satisfaction, for, although we have long realized the complexity of our rate structure, it was not until the present time that we could see our way clear to make this step toward its ultimate simplification.

In making this simplification and at the same time meeting the condition that no customer's rates shall be increased we have, nevertheless, been able to provide rate decreases for 60 per cent of our residential customers, 50 per cent of our retail customers and 30 per cent of our wholesale purchasers of current.

This is due partly to the fact that home consumption of electric current has increased tremendously, resulting in a reduction in the cost of delivery to our customers and savings which make a rate cut possible. Another factor is the introduction of great economies into the electric industry. The Duquesne Light Company has been foremost among electric service companies in this country to take advantage of inventions which have improved the methods of electric generation, transmission and distribution. Our plants have become increasingly efficient, our personnel has increased in knowledge as well as in size, and the result is reflected in our ability to lower your rates.

Already electricity has proved itself one of the greatest blessings of modern life. It has multiplied the power of the worker. It has given brain precedence over brawn. It has made homes brighter, cleaner and happier with a tremendous decrease in labor. It has gained for men and women everywhere many leisure hours. It is an inexhaustible fountain of energy, the advantages of which increase with use.

TABLE SHOWING DECLINE
in Average Residential Current Rates of the Duquesne Light Co. in Recent Years

YEAR	Avg. Rate-Cents Per Kilowatt Hour
1921	6.26
1922	6.13
1923	5.60
1924	5.48
1925	5.39
1926	5.27
1927 [11 months]	5.20

The present electric rates in Pittsburgh are among the lowest in the country, and these will be further reduced by this new schedule.

Complete details may be had at our office, 435 Sixth Avenue, or at any Gas and Electric Shop.

COOK FOREST OWNERS GRANT MORE TIME TO BUY

CHANCE TO SAVE BEAUTY SPOT

Owners of the Cook Forest, who were insisting last month that the transaction by which the property is to be taken over by the state and preserved as a park be completed before the first of the year, have granted an extension of time, it was learned today. On being assured that several major contributions towards the purchase price would be available in January, they agreed not to sell to lumbermen who covet the 7,200-acre tract of timber with its magnificent virgin white pines.

The Cook Forest Association announced today receipt of two contributions of $10,000 each, the donors of which desire that their names shall not be made public.

ONE MONTH OF GRACE TO SAVE COOK FOREST

GOVERNOR IS INTERESTED

Gov. Fisher and his daughter, Mrs. Henry Tatnall Brown, are shown looking at a photograph of Cook Forest. The Governor approved an appropriation of $450,000 by the Legislature for its purchase by the State. But the property is held by its owners at $650,000; so the rest of the money must be raised by public subscription, and $35,000 is still needed.

There have been received 666 contributions of $1 each and 1,693 in amounts not exceeding $10.

The price of the Cook Forest is $650,000. The commonwealth has appropriated $450,000, which will be available as soon as the rest of the money is at hand. The Cook Forest Association has raised $138,644, making a total of $588,644, ready to be turned over. There remains to be collected $61,356, and $25,000 has been pledged.

A strenuous effort will be made to raise the rest of the money and wind up the business before February. Thomas Liggett, secretary of the association, will talk on the Cook Forest in a radio address to be broadcast from station KDKA at 7:30 Saturday night. The title of the talk will be "Forests and Ou. Children," and it will be the first of a series of four on con- ...tion of natural resources, to be given under the auspices of the University of Pittsburgh.

The Cook Forest has been heard of even in Russia. Vadime Riess, of Leningrad, Union of Socialist Soviet Repub'..s, has written for descriptive literature. In replying, Mr. Liggett said that a tract of woodland like Cook Forest would be "a cure for Bolshevism," which makes some of his friends doubt, in view of reports that the Soviet authorities maintain surveillance over correspondence, that Riess will ever receive the letter.

Mrs. Wallis J. Tener, of Sewickley, is working hard for the preservation of Cook Forest. Here is part of an address that she recently delivered:

"Have you ever gone through a woodland district that had recently been 'timbered,' or through which a forest fire had passed?

"Your reaction was not just that of regret at property destroyed. Your heart was involved, the fineness of your spirit depressed over the beauty which had vanished. You will always recall that region with a feeling of distaste, if not of actual horror. 'Joy with her finger on her lips bidding adieu!'

"Now, make a picture in your mind of a forest such as Hans Christian Andersen would have loved to people with giants, kobolds and gnomes. In the winter it sings great lusty songs, paens of praise of nature in all her moods.

"The spring time comes to this fairy forest slowly—not reluctantly, but with the modesty of a young maiden holding tryst with a too tempestuous lover, but once they meet, these two, the brooks begin to ripple with a faint laughter. The birds call softly, and the trees leaf out. The poignant drama of spring opens before you.

"The forest of which I speak is not in the land of Shakespeare' Arden nor in that of Wagner's heroes, nor on a seacoast of Bohemia; my forest is known to you all from seeing it on the map. It boasts longitude, latitude and altitude. So far it is a real forest.

"KEEP IT A FOREST"

"My appeal to you is to keep it a real forest, where next spring you can go with your children and catch again the first fine careless rapture ever anything still left to us of perfection, a poem you can see, a symphony you can take home in your heart to keep. There you will gain a conception of immensity and grandeur, not of the skyscraper nor even of the cathedral.

"The name of this woodland of 7,234 acres is Cook Forest. It is part of Penn's Woods, or Pennsylvania. It should be held intact for us and for our descendants. There, some day, great woodland pageants may be acted for all who would see them. It may be Nature's background for a culture that will flower as did that of the Greeks."

To All Thin Blooded People Doctors Say: "Eat More Liver"

Hundreds of Thousands Eating Liver to Get Rich, Red Blood.

Hundreds of physicians in New York and other cities who have tested and prescribed a diet of beef liver in cases of poverty of the blood or anemia are now prescribing a preparation called Hemo-Liver which is made by a scientific process from fresh beef livers.

By this process all the "mysterious Substance" or vital elements that are obtained by eating liver are extracted and put up in the form of an elixir which is very palatable and pleasant to the taste.

Hemo-Liver is full of the vital elements or "mysterious substance" that is one of the great discoveries of recent years and by taking a tablespoonful three times a day you'll get more and quicker benefit than by eating pounds of liver.

Every progressive druggist sells Hemo-Liver in a big 12-ounce bottle that will last eight days.

"Men and women who are suffering from lowered vitality, general weakness, overwork, nervous breakdown or anemia can put their faith in Hemo-Liver. For feeble old people, girls 13 to 18 and in convalescence it won't fail. It strengthens the nerves, increases the red blood cells, promotes health and rebuilds energy so quickly that often physicians are astonished."

Why not get a big bottle of Hemo-Liver today—eight days treatment—and if after you have taken one bottle you don't say Hemo-Liver is the greatest health builder you ever heard of—get your money back.

Not a patent medicine, mind you—but the "Mysterious Substance" or vitamines extracted from fresh beef livers. All May Drug Stores can supply you.

WELCOME

To The

Forbes National Bank

The Oakland Savings and Trust Company welcomes the new Forbes National Bank to the Oakland field.

The reward of adequate service has been clearly demonstrated by the remarkable record of growth enjoyed by the Oakland Savings and Trust Company during the past quarter century, and the new institution will surely discover that nowhere does the spirit of fairness, loyalty and friendship prevail in more marked degree than it does in the Oakland community.

Fair competition is good for any business.

It establishes a true measure of comparison for the customer.

". . . It's as good a job as any mill worker could ask—nice people to work with, good pay, fair conditions—but a factory job anywhere is bound to be hard work."

ONLY the mill workers themselves know how legs and feet can ache and how lame backs can be after a long day walking up and down a spinning frame.

Something they must have to take the ache out—to relieve the stiffness and fatigue which might otherwise make it necessary for them to miss many a day's work.

The workers in the Straus Silk Mills in Trenton are a particularly fresh, wholesome-looking lot of women. And so we asked them what they do to prevent aching and strain from standing at a spinning frame all day.

From three-quarters of them came promptly the answer, "I never use anything but Sloan's."

Everywhere the leading remedy for muscular pain

Everywhere you go you hear the same story from people whose work brings a strain on their muscles.

Read the experience of this New York woman—

"I had such a backache I didn't know what to do. I used Sloan's Liniment, and in half an hour I was better. Now, when anyone has a pain, I say, 'Use Sloan's.'"

Another woman writes—

"The pain in my back was like a knife stab and it left me helpless. Sloan's Liniment was given me to ease the pain and I am now able to do all my own work."

Sloan's Liniment is scientific—absolutely reliable because it works by the quickest, surest method known to relieve pain. It stirs up the circulation—brings new blood right to the spot where the pain is, sweeps away the cause of the trouble.

You can get it in any drug store. A bottle that will last you a long time for 35 cents. Use it for—

Rheumatism
Sciatica
Lumbago
Neuralgia
Lame muscles
Stiff neck
Colds and congestions
Sprains and bruises

A company doctor who cares for hundreds of workers every year says: "People whose work exposes them to strain or to damp and cold usually suffer from a good deal of muscular soreness. We find that Sloan's gives them quick, positive relief."

One of the workers in the Straus Silk Mills. ¾ of these workers said that after a long day on their feet they find Sloan's their best help for tired backs and legs*

J. EDGAR MASTERS

J. Edgar Masters, of Washington, Pa., completed a four-year term as treasurer of Washington county on January 1, and left immediately for Chicago, where he is now installed in the $18,000-a-year position of Grand Secretary of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, to which he has just been appointed by Grand Exalted Ruler John F. O'Malley. Secretary Masters, one of the leading Elks in America, is a former Grand Exalted Ruler of the order. He is a member of Charleroi (Pa.) Lodge, No. 494.

AUTO LICENSES BRING STATE $25,916,220

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 12.—Total receipts for the Bureau of Motor Vehicles during 1927 were $26,017,495, the State Highway Department announced yesterday. These receipts were $17,000 higher than the department estimated at the beginning of last year.

Deductions amounting to $101,275 for returned checks, protest fees and refunds place the net figure at $25,916,220. The department says that most of the protest fees and much of the amount listed on bad checks will be recovered along with a $5 penalty in each case.

Total passenger car registrations for the year were 1,365,826 or an increase of 89,307 over the 1926 figures. Receipts from passenger cars amounted to $12,476,019, which is a jump of $961,246 from the income of 1926. There were 217,937 commercial vehicles registered in Pennsylvania last year, which was an increase of 11,616 over the registration of the year previous. Truck owners paid in $6,116,830 for license plates, which was an increase of $391,387 for the year.

The number of motorcycles in the state last year showed a decrease of 342 from 1926, when 14,908 such machines were registered. The Bureau also registered 7,690 motor busses or an increase of 130 for the year. The bureau issued 1,570,633 renewals for drivers' licenses and granted 224,382 permits to new drivers.

COURT TO GET WATER KICK

East McKeesport borough, registering complaints of poor water service on the part of the East McKeesport Water Company, will try and better conditions some time this week by entering Common Pleas Court and asking for a dissolution of the company's receivership, held by John Schlipp, of East McKeesport. The pleas will be entered by Solicitor Verner Barber.

The court action will be the result of an announcement made Monday by McKeesport City Council that they would discontinue supplying the company with water unless Schlipp paid a bill of $2,900 for four months' service. The company purchases water from the city and supplies it to East McKeesport.

The Board of Public Education, it was learned today, has arranged to credit School Superintendent W. M. Davidson, with his educational service outside the state, in computing the pension to which he will be entitled on retirement. This action, optional under the law, will increase his retirement pay.

The school code provides that teachers may retire at 62 and must resign at 70. Dr. Davidson will be eligible to retire on completing the six-year term to which he has just been elected.

HOLD TWO AS GAMBLERS

Charged with owning, maintaining and distributing gambling devices, Samuel Rost, of the East End and William Marks of Perrysville avenue, were held for court last night by Justice of the Peace Herbert Kuhlman, of Arnold. Bail was set at $1,000 each. They were arrested a week ago by Westmoreland county detectives, who accuse them of putting slot machines in several New Kensington and Arnold stores.

First Time "Up" at Night and in Bad Country

Over the Swollen Mississippi at Night—Dangerous Testing Of a New Parachute

The "crack-up" at Maben, Miss., wasn't profitless for Lindbergh, as he told in yesterday's installment of "We." He took up 60 passengers at $5 apiece, and essayed his first stunt-flying with a Negro aboard. It was amusing but might have been disastrous. Attempts to "loop the loop" were failures. The landing field was unsatisfactory. Here "Lindy" became convinced of the necessity of adequate airport facilities for the development of commercial flying.

Thrills and Fun With the Jenny

CHAPTER V.

I HAD strayed over a hundred miles off my course and experienced a minor crack-up, but I departed with two hundred and fifty more dollars in my pocket than I had arrived with, besides confidence in my ability to make at least a little more than expenses by barnstorming.

The constant rains had filled the rivers to overflowing, and after leaving Maben I flew over flooded territory nearly all the way to Lake Village, Ark. Often the water was up to the second-story windows of the farmhouses, and a forced landing at any time would have at least meant nosing over. I had installed the compass while waiting for the new propeller at Maben, and experienced no further difficulty in holding my course.

After circling Lake Village I landed in a field several miles north of town. The nearest building was a clubhouse and soon the keeper and his family had arrived beside the plane. They invited me to stay with them as long as I wished, but the keeper persistently refused to accept a flight in return for his hospitality. I carried only a handful of passengers that afternoon. The flying territory around that part of the country was fairly good and there were a number of fields available for planes to land in. Consequently, an airplane was no longer the drawing attraction that it was further in the interior.

I staked the plane down much earlier than usual and went over to the clubhouse.

First Night Flight

Evening came on with the clearness of a full moon and open sky. The landscape was illuminated with a soft yellow light; an ideal night for flying. I decided to see what the country looked like from the air at night and jokingly asked my host to accompany me. To my surprise, he willingly agreed. For some reason he had no fear of a night flight, although I had been unable to persuade him to go up with me in the daytime. What his reaction would have been had he known that I had never flown after dark before is a matter of speculation.

We untied the plane, removed the canvases from engine and cockpit, and after a few minutes spent in warming up the motor, taxied down the field and took off for a moonlight flight down the Mississippi and over Lake Village.

Later in the evening after the ship was again securely staked to the ground and we were sitting quietly in the clubhouse my host stated that he had never spent a more enjoyable quarter of an hour in his life.

The next morning I was again heading towards Texas against a strong westerly wind which retarded the speed of the Jenny so greatly that even with my double fuel capacity it was necessary to land at Farmerville, La., to replenish my supply. From there I flew to Texarkana and landed between the stumps of the 1923 airport.

Sleeping With the Plane

On the following morning I left Texarkana with a strong tail wind and after crossing the western end of the Ozark Mountains landed near a small town in Northeastern Oklahoma where I took on a fresh supply of fuel and again headed north towards Lincoln, Nebr.

My tanks began to run low about half way through Kansas and I picked out a hillside near Alma. After flying low and dragging the field several times I came in for a landing, but just as the wheels were about to touch the ground I discovered that it was covered with fairly large rocks half hidden in the tall grass. I opened the throttle to take off, but the plane had lost too much speed for the motor to take effect and it hooked in the rocks and ground-looped the ship to the left, but without doing serious damage. The landing gear wires were strained and about two feet of the rear spar on the lower left wing tip was snapped off. Nothing was broken, however, which would require immediate repairing.

The field was quite a distance from Alma, and in order to get an early start in the morning I stayed with the ship that night. During the heavy rains at Maben, Miss., I had constructed a hammock of heavy canvas which could be suspended under the top wing.

I tied the corners of this hammock to the upper strut fittings and crawled into the three blankets inside, which were sewn up to form a bag. Thus I spent a comfortable night.

When I arrived over Lincoln the next day I circled over the Lincoln Standard factory, and after landing on the old flying field south of town waited for the car which was sent out to bring in visiting airmen.

The remainder of the day was spent in "ground flying" with my friends in the factory. We had not been together for seven months, and the usual exchange of experiences was necessary.

A New Parachute

I soon learned that Bud Gurney had made a parachute for himself and was intending to test it by the simple method of going up to an altitude of 1,500 or 2,000 feet and cutting loose from the plane. If the chute opened it was successful.

After a great deal of persuasion I prevailed upon him to let me take him up in my ship while we made the first test with a sandbag.

The tanks had just been filled with fuel, but I had unlimited confidence in my Jenny, and we lashed the parachute and a sandbag on the right wing. Bud, who weighed 165 pounds, climbed into the front cockpit and we started the take-off with a total load of about 600 pounds, to say nothing of the resistance of the parachute and sandbag, which were directly in the slipstream from the propeller.

Even with this load we cleared the nearest obstacle by a safe margin and finally attained an altitude of about 200 feet. Then we were caught by a descending current of air which carried the plane down to within 10 feet of the ground, and try as I would I could not get any higher. A wooded hill was directly in front, and to avoid striking the trees I turned down wind. A railroad trestle was then in front of us and we stalled over it by inches. For five minutes we dodged hills, trees and houses. I signaled Bud to cut the sandbag, but when he started to climb out of the cockpit to reach it, the added resistance brought the plane down still lower. Then in front of us appeared a row of trees, much higher than the rest, which I knew it would not be possible to get over. We were then passing over a grain field and I cut the gun and landed down wind. The grain was high enough to keep the ship from rolling far and we unloaded the sandbag before taking off again. With the weight of the bag and its resistance gone, we had no trouble in getting out of the grain and back to the flying field.

A week later Bud carried out his original intention of testing the chute. It was successful.

Before continuing the flight to Minnesota, Bud and I made a short barnstorming trip through Eastern Nebraska. That territory had been fairly well covered by other barnstormers, however, and we did very little business.

Fighting a Storm

At one place where we landed we were overtaken by a violent thunderstorm combined with a strong wind. It came up so suddenly that we had only time enough to tail the ship into the wind and lash the stick to keep the ailerons from whipping before the wind struck us. We were both holding on to the tail trying to keep the plane from blowing away. Following the wind was a heavy rain which covered the ground with water and at each flash of lightning the electricity on the wires of the ship would pass to the ground through our bodies with the intensity of a booster magnet.

In an electric storm a plane acts as part of a condenser, since it is insulated from the ground by the rubber tires and wooden tailskid. It is possible to receive a violent shock by standing on wet ground and holding on to one of the wires.

We were unable to let go of the ship in the high wind and could only remain and take these discharges as they came. Fortunately the storm did not last long.

The night after our return to Lincoln we slept on the field so that I could get a good start in the morning. Bud was in the back of a Ford truck, and I was in the hammock.

CUT LIGHT RATES HERE

Duquesne Light Company consumers in this district will save approximately $700,000 through a simplification of rates which the company will put into effect the first of the month, it was announced yesterday by A. W. Robertson, president of the Philadelphia Company and Frank R. Phillips, vice president and general manager of the light company. The saving will amount to about $3 for each consumer, it was said.

The new rates, already approved by the Public Service Commission, do not involve an increase to any consumer. The small user groups will be benefited by the change and it is estimated that the benefits will reach 75 per cent of the consumers.

Notice of the change was made by Mr. Robertson yesterday, who personally appeared before City Council and told them of the reduction. President James M. Malone of Council expressed the gratitude on the part of Council and the taxpayers.

A comparison of old and new rates follows:

Present rate for a house of six rooms: First 15 kilowatts, 9 cents per kilowatt; next 30 kilowatts, 6½ cents; all over 30 kilowatts, 3 cents. A discount of one cent per kilowatt on the first two steps for prompt payment of bills makes the net rate 8 cents and 5½ cents, respectively.

The new rate for a house of six rooms: First 10 kilowatts, 9 cents; next 20 kilowatts, 6½ cents; next 30 kilowatts, 4 cents, and all over this amount of current, 3 cents. The usual discount of one cent per kilowatt for the first two steps is given also under the new schedule. The basis of the rating for residence is on the number of outlets in proportion to the number of rooms.

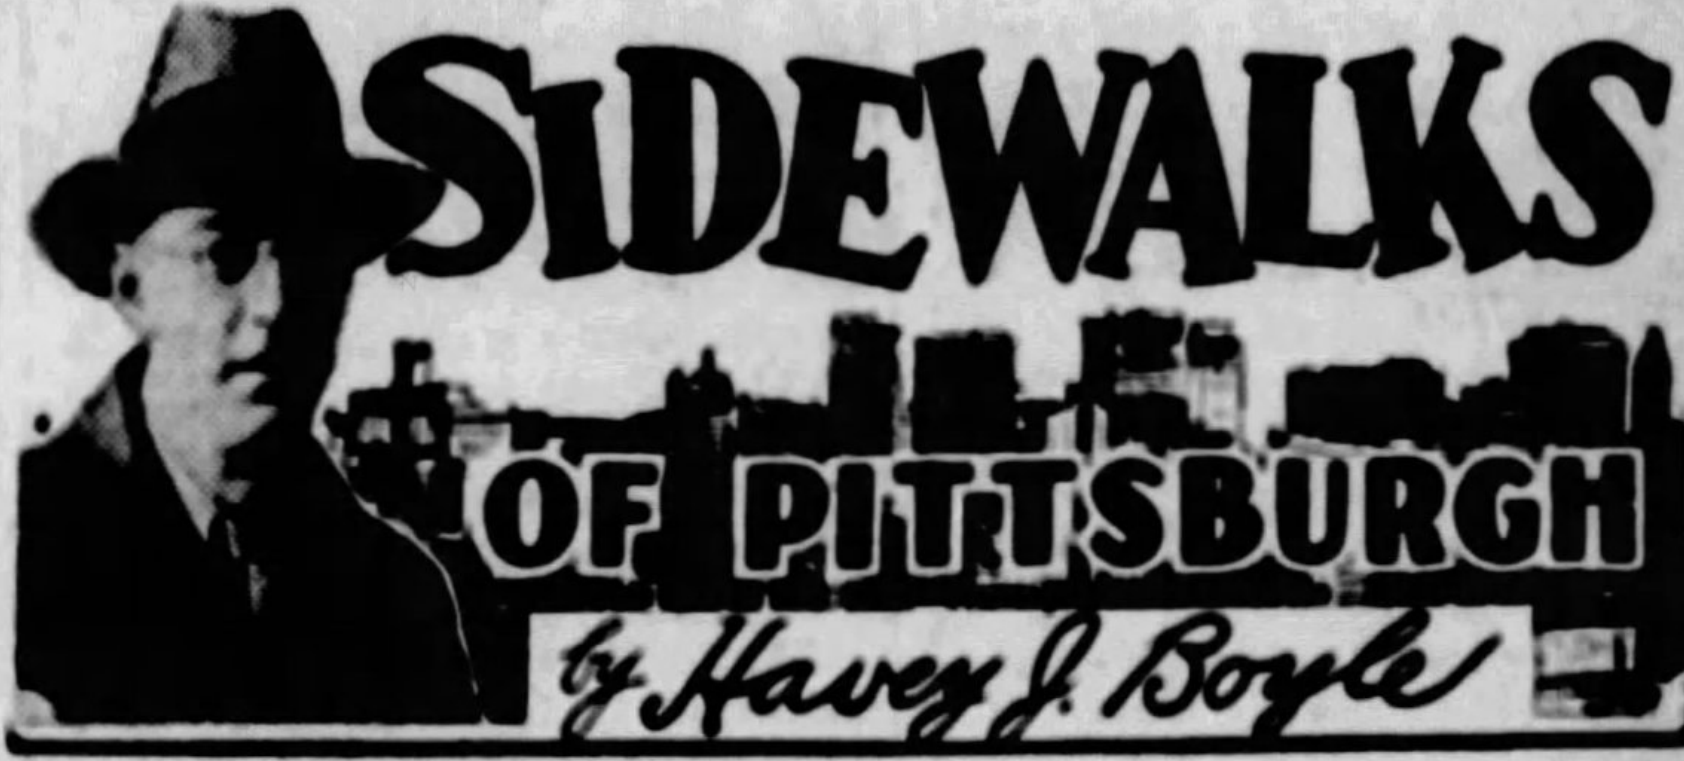
FOUR SAVED LIVES OF FELLOW-WORKMEN

Frank R. Phillips, vice president and general manager of the Duquesne Light Company, Wednesday presented Insull medals to R. W. Courtley, Raleigh F. Noland, C. E. Miller and H. W. Simpson. These medals are given to men who have saved lives of fellow-workmen who have been shocked by electricity.



OUR reporter friend had just returned from seeing two men executed in the electric chair. How did he feel about this gruesome assignment? We were morbid in being so close to a man who had just seen two men walk to their doom. He was not shaken at all. While it had left an impress, still he was not greatly upset. He had seen two hangings a long time ago to report them. The electric chair was better than that, at least, or to put it properly, less terrorful. He would not want such an assignment often, he said, but he would shake off his deep impressions in a short while, he was sure.

ALWAYS, there has been a curiosity among the patients as to what time in the education of a dentist the professor touches on that important business of teaching the embryo dentist how to ask the patient questions just when the patient's mouth is well filled with cotton, with the rubber gag stretched across the mouth. It develops, a dentist friend reports, that this part of the education comes in the sophomore year. At the start of this year the professor drones into the students' ear this strict formula: "After you get the patient in the position where he cannot utter a single sound always say to him: 'Well, how did you enjoy your vacation?' or ask him any question that will cause him to wiggle his hands and legs in an effort to communicate to you that he can't do much talking. The patient then gets so interested in trying to figure out why you ask him questions at a time when he cannot utter a syllable in response that he quite often forgets about his misery."

THERE are still homes in Pittsburgh where the rush of modern ideas about the home has not caught on. The parlors are used only when "company" is visiting—and at that "company" of great importance. There is an organ, stuffed leather chairs, a Bible on a marble-topped table, and a big sea-shell on the mantle-piece. In these homes the father sits and reads his paper while his future son-in-law is calling on Aggie, and across the red-tableclothed dining room table the mother with a basket of stockings in her lap does some darning. In this sort of household the old-fashioned impression still exists that gin is something that only the colored folk drinks. Before retiring the whole family prays together, and immediately after supper father reads aloud a passage from the Bible.

AT A meeting of the Men's Club of Joseph Horne Company the other evening we voiced an idea to Andrew Connolly, publicity director, and he listened quite attentively. "It was tried out 10 years ago and didn't work," he said, so to change the subject we said: "Will you have some more cream for your coffee, Mr. Connolly?"

ONE of the racketeers just came back from Atlanta. He was down seeing what he could do for a friend incarcerated there. It appears his friend was a little careless about some cashier's checks which he had written out. The fact that the cashier and bank named on the checks resented the playfulness of the forger who had the quaint idea of cashing some of them increased the population of the growing town of Atlanta by one.

SAFER THAN CHECKS-EH KID?
YEA!

The racketeer took some cash and condolences to his friend and after a brief visit returned home. He couldn't stay long with his friend because he had to get back to sell some nice red balloons and dandy cut flowers on the downtown streets this coming Saturday afternoon. Balloons and flowers, he moralizes by the way, while possibly not so remunerative as cashiers' checks have, after a fashion, their advantages.

SELLING bonds is one of the finest and most useful occupations in the world. We hasten to write this, because after a few references in the past to bond salesmen, we now get an invitation to attend a luncheon of bond men. As we said before, bond salesmen are all very nice gentlemen, and while there may be some critics who say they do manage to play much golf and see many baseball games, we disagree. We believe they work very hard. We are taking no chances with that luncheon invitation.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

LILLY LEXINGTON, spoiled daughter of the CYRUS LEXINGTONS, is engaged to marry STALEY DRUMMOND, a rich bachelor much older than herself. She is fond of him, but realizes she does not really love him the day after she accepts him, when she becomes instantly and violently infatuated with a taxicab driver whom she sees down town when she goes to meet her chum, SUE CAIN. Forgetting all about Sue, she jumps into his cab and he drives her home. She learns that his name is PAT FRANCE and that he owns his own cab in a company headed by his friend, ROY JETTERSON. He tells her that he is going to sell it to finance a piston ring that he has invented, and he and his cab vanish from the streets. Lily misses him terribly, and decides she cares too much for him to marry Staley Drummond. But Mrs. Lexington announces the engagement, and the date of the wedding is set for June tenth. Then, on May tenth, Mrs. Lexington hires a new chauffeur, and it is Pat France. He admits to Lily that he could not resist taking the job just to be near her, and she tells him how much she loves him. Things reach a climax when Carrie, one of the housemaids who is in love with Pat, tells Mrs. Lexington and Staley about the love affair. Lily admits nothing to Staley, who refuses to let her break the engagement. But she tells her mother how much she cares for Pat, and Mrs. Lexington humiliates him so that he leaves the house. Lily leaves with him, and the next day, despite the protests and pleadings of Staly and her family, she marries him. Mr. Lexington gives her a check for $200 when her mother refuses to let her have any of her clothes from the house. On the following Sunday morning Pat spends several hours at Roy Jetterson's house, and Lily goes finally to get him when Pat's sister, FLORENCE, tells her dinner is ready. SADYE, Roy's wife, says Pat has just left, and Lily sees another visitor at the house—ELIZABETH ERTZ, Sayde's chum and a former sweetheart of Pat's. In a jealous rage she goes back to the house and locks herself in her bedroom all day. Next morning she gets up late, and refuses to look after the Frances' grocery store while Pat's mother gets her breakfast.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

AND Lily looked like a naughty child, in spite of her 22 years, as she stood facing her with sulky eyes and pouting mouth. She tossed her head. "Never mind, I can get myself something to eat, thanks," she said, and turned to go.

She did not know how to set about getting herself even the simplest kind of breakfast. But she certainly was not going to stand there in the store and deal out soap and sugar and spinach to cash customers! That was a lead-pipe cinch, she told herself, as she pushed open the side door that led into the Frances' neat, grassy yard, with its grape-arbor, its lawn swing and its beds of spring flowers.

Mrs. France made no attempt to stop her. But a gay, full voice from the front door halted her just as she was stepping out onto the grass.

"Hello, there, folks!"

Lily swung around, still holding the edge of the screen door in her hands. Sadye Jetterson, with a child clinging to each hand, was just coming in, cheerful and wholesome-looking in a green house dress and white canvas slippers.

"My laundress ran out of soap," she said to Pat's mother, "so I came over to get some."

She walked over to the shelves and began to take down bar after bar. "Charge six bars of this to me," she went on. "Six bars for 50 cents, eh?"

Then she turned to Lily. "Well, how's married life going, Mrs. Pat?" she asked, in an effort to be as friendly as possible.

Lily answered her through set teeth. "Beautifully."

Then, without another word or look, she went out at the side door.

She was on the verge of tears when she walked into the clean, sunlit kitchen of the little house. The coffee pot stood on the back of the stove, and on the table was a tray covered with a snowy napkin and set with china. There was a tiny vase on it, with one early rosebud from the bushes outside the kitchen door; and beside it the morning paper was folded neatly. . . . Mrs. France had done everything she could to make that breakfast tray attractive.

But Lily looked at it with unhappy eyes, and gave it a contemptuous little push with one hand.

Then she went upstairs and stood in the doorway of her room, looking from the powder-covered dressing table to the tumbled bed with her nightgown on the floor beside it.

"And I'm supposed to clean this up!" she said to herself, feeling more miserable every minute.

The clock on the dressing table said that it was 10:15. In the house on Montpelier road everything would be in order by this time of day. . . . And a ring of the bell beside Lily's bed would have brought a maid with a breakfast tray. It would have brought Mrs. Lexington with the morning's mail and a box of flowers from Staley Drummond. . . . It would have sent her flying into the bathroom to turn on the water for Lily's bath. It would have meant service—ease—comfort—attention.

A wave of longing for all these things swept over Lily as she looked at the small, untidy room, with the bright sunlight finding every grain of dust—every mark on the furniture.

Florence's room across the hall was in perfect order. Lily stared at it. . . . Did Florence get up in time to straighten her room every morning before she went to work, for pity's sake? Or did Mrs. France do it?

"Jiminy, they must do nothing but work!" thought Lily. "Everybody in the house! I wonder if they expect ME to turn into a plow horse, too—" If they did they certainly were due for an eye opener, and no mistake about it!

Downstairs the telephone rang. Rushing down the steps, Lily wondered wildly if it could be her mother calling her—or her father. "Maybe they'll miss be so much that they'll let me take Pat there to live!"

But the voice on the other end of the wire was a voice she never had heard before—a woman's voice, high-pitched and nasal. "Mis' France?" it asked, and before Lily had time to say that she was Mrs. France, junior, it went on:

"The telephone line in the store is busy, so I jes' called to ask you if you could send me up some starch and blueing right away. This is Mis' Trinker. . . . I forgot to get them when I was in on Sat'day night, what with hearing Pat's wedding an' all—" Lily did not wait to hear the rest of "Mis' Trinker's" conversation. She banged up the receiver and flew back upstairs.

"What a place to live in—where grocery orders come over the phone!" she cried aloud to the walls of the room. "Oh, what have I done—what have I done to myself?" And she began to cry, plunging her face into her small hands.

And the worst of it, she sobbed to herself, was that Pat didn't really love her, although she had given up everything to marry him. . . . If he really cared for her, would he have left her yesterday and gone over to those cheap, common Jettersons', where Elizabeth Ertz was sure to be? Would he have let her stay, locked up in the room all night, instead of banging the door down as she had hoped he would?

"Oh, no—" she wailed aloud. "Oh, no—"

Suddenly she decided that she would not stay in the house any longer.

She dragged the gray bags from under the bed, and still crying and gasping, she began to throw all her things into them, helter-skelter. And all the time she was doing it, she was wondering what Pat would say—what he would think—when he came home at noon and found her gone.

She was so busy with her own thoughts that she did not hear the front door downstairs open and gently close. Quick, eager feet came running up the stairs, and Pat came into the room. In a second, his eyes took it in—the half-packed bags, the unmade bed, the tears on his bride's face.

Then he swept her into his arms, and she had her cry out with her face buried against his blue overalls that smelled of grease and gasoline and rubber—a most heavenly smell to Lily that morning.

"So!" he said, "you were going to run out on me, were you? Going to leave your old husband, eh? Desert me at the altar?"

With her lovely head against his breast, Lily nodded. "I'm the wrong wife for you, Pat!" she sobbed. "Your m-m-mother says I've got to clerk in the store, or else do the cooking—"

This was not the exact truth. But when Lily wanted to twist the truth to her own uses, she did it without even realizing what she was doing. She had had no brothers or sisters to teach her to play fair, as Pat had had. . . . He believed her, and his mouth hardened at the corners.

"Honey, you don't have to cook," he soothed her, holding her closer and closer, and punctuating his words with hard, swift kisses. "I'm paying our board here, and you don't have to do a lick of work but look after this room and send out the laundry! But I would like you to learn to cook, and Mother's offered to teach you. She's a marvelous cook."

Lily sighed. She didn't want to learn to cook. And in her own mind she knew she never was going to try to learn. . . . There were lots of good restaurants, and there was instantaneous coffee that you could make by just pouring hot water over it—

MARGY I DONT THINK THIS COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE THING WOULD WORK FOR ME!
AND WHY?
NOISY AND ME HAVE BEEN ROOMIES FOR A LONG WHILE AND EVERYTHING HAS—BEEN SHARE AND SHARE ALIKE, I DONT THINK ANY GIRL WOULD MARRY US BOTH!
NO, THAT WOULD BE TOO COMPANIONATE!
John Held Jr.

"My dear, I'm all-of-a-DOOdah at this point—I mean I'm ACtually on the VERGE of colLAPSE, no less, because ARab has SUDdenly become MADly inTRIGUED by this comPANIonate MARriage idea and he's HONestly formed the WILDest THEories about it, my dear! I mean the whole POINT of it eLUDES him comPLETEly as the point of EV'rything you ever try to exPLAIN to him DOES, my dear, but he's having a simply GRAND TIME getting it all down WRONG in his MIND, my dear—Can you BEAR it? Well, ANYways, my dear, when I encountered he and NOIsy toDAY, my dear, ARab said he changed his MIND about the comPANionate MARriage idea because he didn't think it would work OUT in HIS case after ALL, my dear, because he said he and NOIsy had been inSEP'rable comPANions for so LONG it was imPOSsible for them EVer to be SEP'rated and he didn't think any girl would marry them BOTH—can you BEAR it, my dear? I mean have you HONestly ever HEARD of anything so simply riDIC? But you SHOULD have seen their exPRESsions, my dear, when I sugGESted with a touch of PAthos that I didn't think any girl would marry EITHer or BOTH! I mean they were PRACticably ready to roll over and BUTter themselves with dis-MAY!"

Noel Veritzen and the Strange Youth With the Dog Continue to Display Hostility

THE astonishment with which I had listened to the colloquy between Eleanor Lincoln and the young man with the wolfhound remained with me, but I suddenly found myself giving definite mental answers to the incredulous queries which her actions and those of the stranger had engendered.

Somewhere in the past of these two young people they had known each other, but Miss Lincoln, at least, did not wish that fact to be revealed to us.

It was the unexpected sight of this youth which had caused her to feign illness and hide her face against my shoulder. If it had not been for the dog she would have been able to escape the searching eyes of the stranger. But the animal's rapturous greeting of her—I was sure that the dog was her own—had betrayed her since he last had seen her, who was taking care of Fedor.

She had recognized the stranger at her first glimpse of him, but there had been several minutes in patent bewilderment at her appearance. This argued some change in her since he last had seen her. Yet there could be no question of disguise by the girl. Her great dark eyes, unshaded by glasses, her skin like ivory velvet, her sleek, raven-hued bobbed hair—all were as indubitably her own as they were unusual and fascinating.

I did not think that Mary and Noel were following my reasoning. Noel was so filled with unreasoning rancor against the young man who first had been the unwitting cause of frightening Mary, and then had dared to cast admiring eyes at her, that I was sure he was spending no time upon speculation concerning the youth. As for Mary, a furtive glance at her told me that she was unmistakably, if unconsciously, preening herself for conquest. How much she comprehended of what lay beneath the meeting of Miss Lincoln and the young man with the wolfhound I did not know—her perceptions are unusually keen for so young a girl—but there was one thing she did understand, with the sure primitive instinct of the woman who is born to be desired.

Two as personable young men as any girl's heart could wish were experiencing an antagonism toward each other upon her account as real as it was unaccountable and unreasoning.

To me, however, this strange encounter was as intriguing as a well-built mystery play or a cleverly written detective story. Going farther in my deductions, I was sure that Miss Lincoln's query as to the possibility of having the wolfhound was simply a ruse to enable her to see the strange young man within a short time and settle with him whatever lay between them.

The young man, however, evidently was more versed in diplomatic concealment than she. That her proposal to take the dog had been voiced in something very near panic, and that it might arouse suspicion of her in us, her neighbors, was apparently recognized by him, and his reply was evasive.

"I should have to consult the owner upon that point," he said gravely, "and that would take time. But permit me to introduce myself," he turned to me, "in the hope that I shall not have to apologize upon a third occasion."

He drew a card case from his coat, extracted a card and handed it to me.

"Mr. George Logan Jackson," was the inscription it bore, and I nearly disgraced my mother's training by laughing aloud.

Anything more unlike the plain Americanism of the name on the card could not have been imagined than the youth who had placed the card in my hand with the bow of a courtier. As I sternly repressed the twitching of my lips, I told myself that Nicholas Dmitri would have been far more plausible.

Home-made Supply of Fine Cough Syrup

Better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily prepared.

If you combined the valuable properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real healing power as there is in this home-made syrup, easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup, or clarified honey, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the throat tickle and heals the irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and it is splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

IT TAKES ALL-BRAN TO RELIEVE CONSTIPATION

More and more people are eating bran for "health's sake" these days. And it's a fine thing. But not everybody realizes what a difference there is in so-called "brans." Doctors say it takes 100% bran to supply enough roughage to relieve consti- [illegible] t-bran products, at best, [illegible] partly effective.

[illegible] ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. It does a work part-bran products cannot hope to equal. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

Serve ALL-BRAN often. With milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Be sure you get genuine Kellogg's though—in the red-and-green package. Use it in cooking. Sprinkle into soups. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"My skin was a sight"

"I couldn't look people in the face, I was so ashamed of my skin! It was always blotched with pimples and blackheads and at times itched terribly. I had tried everything and was so discouraged that I couldn't bring myself to take hope in anything. You can imagine my surprise therefore when one application of Rowles Mentho Sulphur almost completely cleared my skin. I could have danced with joy! In a short time you wouldn't know my skin—it was so clear, so soft and white."

Thousands of people are discovering that there is a remedy for skin trouble—even fiery, itching eczema! It's the magical combination of sulphur and menthol—sulphur for clearing the skin, menthol for healing the broken and irritated tissue. Rowles Mentho Sulphur is inexpensive and all druggists supply it in jars ready to use. Be sure it's Rowles.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Season for Debutantes Officially Closes With McCullough Luncheon

WITH Mrs. William T. McCullough's party today, the social season is really over for the debutantes, it seems. But then, for that matter, it is over for their fathers and mothers, too—at least in Pittsburgh. Very soon now the social center will be completely transferred to the South and California.

Mrs. McCullough gave a luncheon in her home in Bennington avenue this afternoon for two of the buds, Mary McClung and Anne Marshall, the guests, 24 in all, including only the winter's crop of debutantes. The table was centered with a mound of fruit, and each guest was given a corsage of spring flowers. After luncheon the girls went to the Pitt to see "The Play's the Thing."

The James H. Hammonds, who have been making their home at the Hotel Schenley for some time, are planning to give a large dinner tonight in the hotel, covers to be laid for about 100. Their guests will include members of the board of trustees of the Homeopathic Hospital, doctors on the staff and members of the faculty. Mr. Hammond, you know, is president of the board.

A number of Pittsburghers have been making short trips to New York lately. The George S. Olivers and their sons, of Ellsworth avenue, are there now, and so are Mrs. Frank S. Willock and her son, Roger, of Academy avenue, Sewickley. Mrs. Thomas A. Mellon, of North Negley avenue, and her daughter, Elizabeth, came home today after spending a few days there. Elizabeth's engagement to John F. Sellers, of Westminster place, was announced in November, you will recall.

A small and very informal party was given yesterday in Sewickley when Mrs. William Marcelin Scaife, of "Eldomar," entertained at luncheon in her home. She had as her honor guest Miss Marjorie Patterson, of Deal Beach, N. J., who has been visiting Miss Emma Price, of Thorn street.

* * *

Back at school and their studies after the Christmas vacation are five Pittsburgh boys who are attending the Hun Preparatory School at Princeton. They are Giles Armentrout, of Beechwood boulevard; Harry Dangerfield, of South Negley avenue; David McCargo, of Woodland road; Edward P. Mellon II, of North Negley avenue, and William W. Quay, of Sewickley.

Another group just returning to school included four Farmington girls, Margaret and Anne Rose, Betty Childs and Martha Yost, all of them from Sewickley. The girls left last night for the East.

Mrs. Ira Fitch Brainard II, who lives in Quaker road, Sewickley, came back home yesterday from Syracuse, N. Y., where she spent a fortnight with her father and mother.

Mrs. John Way's mother, Mrs. H. B. Middleton, of Philadelphia, who has been at the Way home in Quaker road over the holidays, returned to her home yesterday.

Oliver Rodgers, of New York, was the guest of the Mark Rodgers Craigs, of Grant street, Sewickley, over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. William McGreevy, of North Negley avenue, have made known the engagement of their daughter, Miss Clara Alyne McGreevy, to Robert E. O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. O'Brien, of Canonsburg.

The senior class of Seton Hill College is to hold its annual ball Friday night, January 20, in the college refectory. The chaperons are to be Dr. and Mrs. Alvan Sherrill, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. William McNamara, of Pittsburgh; Thomas Sheehan, Mrs. Clara Schaffner, Miss Nina Reilly and Senora Hersilia de Dardona, of the college faculty. Miss Katherine Sleigh is general chairman.

The Downtown Students' Association of the University of Pittsburgh is to hold its mid-winter informal dance Saturday night in the Hotel Schenley. Those in charge are W. R. Edmondson, chairman; William A. Nielander, Earl Conway, Miss Nettie [illegible], Justice A. L. Emery, Miss [illegible] W. Stratton, Karl Freed, Francis Driscoll, Ferd C. Arens and Miss Matilda A. Wright.

The annual New Year's tea in honor of the senior class will be given by the Margaret Morrison Alumnae Association Saturday in the "Little House." Miss Josephine Whitney, president of the association, will be hostess, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Burkhouse, president of the class, and members of the alumnae executive committee. The aides will be Miss Marjory Abbott, Miss Edith Winchester, Miss Fanny Woodside, Mrs. Gail Sell[illegible] Fetike, Mrs. Jane Caldwell Harrold and Mrs. Margaret Harri[illegible] Napier.

The last informal dance before Lent will be held by the Mercy Hospital Nurses' Alumnae Association in Webster Hall next Thursday night. The proceeds will go toward furnishing the graduates' library in the new nurses' home. Mrs. D. Withum Miller, chairman of the social committee, is aided by Miss Mary O'Connor, Miss Hilda McAtee, Miss Mary Walton, Miss Clara Moss, Miss Irene Cooper and Miss Grace Yoder.

Duquesne Assembly No. 56, Degree of Naomi, Ancient Order of Knights of the Mystic Shrine, will hold its first meeting of the new year Saturday when District Deputy Anna M. Mayer will install the new officers.

"MEMORY WINGS" IS CLUB MEETING TOPIC

"On Memory's Wings" is the poetic subject for the program to be presented under Mrs. William Crawford at the meeting of the Bradford Woods Civic Club tomorrow night. Mrs. Julia Van Kirk, president of the club, will be hostess and Mrs. E. E. Gregg will assist. On January 26 the members will meet at "Woodslea," the home of Mrs. E. E. Kehew, and will spend the day making layettes for the Medical Women's National Association of the American Women's Hospitals. The sewing will be under the supervision of the altruistic committee.

The Tuesday Musical Club has arranged a concert which will be given free to the public tomorrow night in Carnegie Music Hall in commemoration of the sixty-fourth anniversary of Stephen C. Foster's death. The program, which will consist entirely of Foster melodies, will be presented by Dr. Charles Heinroth, organist, and the Tuesday Musical Club Choral of 80 voices, directed by Dr. Charles N. Boyd. Chancellor John G. Bowman, of the University of Pittsburgh, and Col. Samuel Harden Church, president of the board of trustees, Carnegie Institute will speak. The little old piano which belonged to Stephen Foster and an oil painting of the composer will be on the stage.

Mrs. A. J. Hopkins, authoress and lecturer, will be honor gust at a luncheon to be given Saturday by the Woman's City Club. Mrs. Hopkins will speak on "Dromidia" and reservations for the luncheon are to be made by tomorrow morning. At the City Club tea on Sunday afternoon Mrs. Winifred F. Perry, contralto, and Elford Caughey, harpist, will give the program.

* * *

Dr. John A. Hollinger, director of visual education in the public schools, will give a talk, illustrated with motion pictures, before the Linwood-McNaugher Parent-Teacher Association next Tuesday night. The program will also include soprano solos by Mrs. C. Ellsworth, accompanied by Mrs. William Doerr.

At the luncheon which the Grove City College Club will give Saturday in the Congress of Clubs Mrs. Elizabeth Black Baker will read and bridge will follow luncheon.

The Edgewood Woman's Club has appointed its new program committee as follows: Chairman, Mrs. H. D. James, Mrs. Dean Harvey and Mrs. C. D. Krouse. Yesterday afternoon the members enjoyed a program on "Sir James Barrie—Dramatist and Dreamer." Mrs. James speaking on the mystical and poetical qualities of his works and Mrs. G. H. Mayer reading "The Twelve Pound Book." The program was supplemented by a song recital presented by four young girls, Kathrine Utne, Emily Rakovski, Virginia Shaeffer and Lucille Meyer. Miss Utne and Miss Rakovski sang solo folk songs. Miss Louise Goodall, Edgewood school supervisor of music, directed the singing.

The meeting of the Braddock Woman's Club which was held yesterday in the home of Mrs. J. B. Smith, Maple avenue, Edgewood, was an open one. Mrs. Samuel Hamilton, a member of the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club, told in entertaining fashion of her extensive European trip, a talk she had previously given before her own organization. Mrs. Othelia Averman Vogel, Pittsburgh composer-pianist, presented the music for the day. As assistant hostesses there were Mrs. W. J. Aiken, Mrs. C. E. Bair, Mrs. James Ball, Miss Mary Bell, Mrs P. C. Bridges, Mrs. James Brindley, Mrs. James Cameron, Mrs. Thomas Charlesworth, Mrs. Milton Cochran and Mrs. William Conner.

An informal program marked the social meeting of the New Era Club which was held yesterday in the home of the president, Mrs. Louise W. Sperber, Rebecca avenue, Wilkinsburg. Mrs. Charles B. McFall gave a talk concerning her last trip abroad and there were cards and fortune telling as other features.

The committee in charge of the benefit bridge party which the evening department of the Aspinwall Woman's Club will give tomorrow night in the club house is headed by Mrs. Howard C. Meyer. Assisting here are Mrs. R. D. Bowden, Miss Beatrice Chittenden, Miss Cora Duncan, Mrs. G. C. Emery, Mrs. R. R. Jardine, Mrs. J. M. Lawrence, Miss Frances McCaslin, Mrs. E. C. Schneider, Mrs. C. G. Vogeley, Miss Jean McCrum, Mrs. W. E. Fenwick, Mrs. A. A. Pratt, Mrs. A. J. Moler, Miss Jennie McMorran, Miss Fern Connell, Miss Nettie Martin, Mrs. Edwin Graham, Mrs. J. M. Jones, Mrs. C. R. Myrick, Mrs. J. R. Patton, Mrs. W. R. Sloan, Mrs. E. J. Yagle, Mrs. Laurence Keil, Mrs. W. V. Bruggeman, Miss Mary Tesh and Mrs. W. Duncan Taylor.

Extension education as it has been developed by the Pittsburgh Board of Education was discussed yesterday by Dr. Colt R. Hoechst, director of extension education, before a joint luncheon meeting of the legislative, extension and education departments of the Congress of Clubs. The evening schools division is the largest of the four in the extension department, Dr. Hoechst explained, for under it are 43 schools. The one standard evening high school, which is at Schenley, graduates its students ready for college, whereas graduates from the 13 general evening high schools are asked for further credits before college entrance. The speaker also discussed the four trade schools where even barbering is taught, and immigrant education, through which the immigrant mothers, who alone of her family is shut off from Americanizing influences, is reached. Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, Congress president, pronounced the invocation and welcomed the guests and music was furnished by Mrs. W. G. Cook, soprano, and Mrs. Richard C. Allen, contralto, who were both accompanied by Mrs. Emily D. Boydston. Mrs. John S. Sloan spoke of the activities of the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club which has given five $50 scholarships since Christmas, and Mrs. F. A. Woods spoke of the safe drivers' school which will open March 5.

Gets Divorce by Fraud, Wants It Set Aside

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Mrs. Elizabeth Willets, who, after obtaining a divorce in Towanda, Pa., changed her mind, but failed to get the decree set aside, will carry her case to the Superior Court in Scranton, Pa., her attorney said.

Judge Reno of the Bradford County Court of Common Pleas denied her petition to have her divorce from Frank Willetts, millionaire New York contractor, set aside, stating that while the divorce had been obtained by "gross fraud" she had been a party to them.

Habits That Cause Needless Illness

HABITS detrimental to health are closely related to the place of residence and the occupation.

What do I mean by this?

DR. COPELAND

You cannot imagine a farmer, a stonemason, or a truck driver suffering from want of exercise. Most country dwellers are forced to exercise.

On the other hand, the city dweller is in danger of neglecting exercise. He rides to his business in motor car or street car. His work is sedentary, not requiring any energetic physical exercise.

In general, then, the inhabitants of the city are likely to suffer the ill-effects of underexercise. Of course, there is an occasional drone in the country—they are found everywhere.

Let us consider another hygienic measure—the care of the teeth. In this matter, the city dwellers have the advantage. More stress is placed on dental care. The schools teach its importance, active health officials stress it, the dental clinics provide it.

Conditions in the country districts are improving. It won't be long before the farm children and, as they grow up, the adult farmer, will be just as careful about the teeth. But at present dental care is more neglected in the rural districts than in the towns.

Constipation is a more common affliction of farmwives than of city housewives. The greatest reason for this is the inconvenience and discomfort of the rural toilets. As modern plumbing is introduced into farmhouses, this symptom of neglect will disappear.

Exercise, well kept teeth, and intestinal cleanliness are essential to health. Nobody can be said to have good health who is without them.

The failure to take daily exercise, is a great mistake. To begin with, neglect of exercise is likely to be followed pretty soon by an an unpleasant increase in weight. Excessive overweight is a real menace to health.

Lots of folks think they are exercising because they do their own housework, or saunter to work. Any exercise that is as easy as the movement of a wheel on ball bearings is not exercise at all. There must be friction, effort, sweat production, to make certain the exercise is of the right quality.

From bad teeth, infected teeth, there comes the absorption of pus and poisons. There is danger of rheumatism, diseased glands and even heart disease. These may be the effects of dental neglect.

To avoid constipation with all its evils, there must be a regular daily habit of attention to the bowels. In addition there must be proper eating of the right foods. Excessive fat eating is a common fault, one productive of constipation.

No matter where you live—in city or country—take systematic daily vigorous exercise. Keep your teeth clean and free from cavities. This will take at least two visits a year to the dentist. Do not permit your system to become clogged.

Attention to those things will add to your expectancy of life. It will add a lot.

Answers to Health Queries

O. Z. Q.—How much should a girl aged 17, 5 feet 4 inches tall weigh?

2.—What do you advice for gaining weight?

A.—She should weigh about 119 pounds.

MEAT LOAF

Take two cups of any left-over well seasoned stock, bouillon or diluted gravy, bring to the boiling point and add one envelope Knox Sparkling Gelatine softened in one-half cup cold water. When mixture begins to stiffen, add two cups of any cold chopped meat at hand (veal, ham, beef, or chicken). Also mold in a little red or green pepper, celery, onion if desired, or parsley. Turn into a square mold first dipped in cold water and chill. Remove from mold and cut in slices for serving.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Friday, January 13

Nothing in the world is nobler or rarer than a truly devoted friendship.—ANON.

THE planetary aspects for this day are rather negative unless as they apply to personal activities. It is a day fostering friendship, courtship, social and domestic alliances as well as artistic. It is a time for pleasure and amusement, although all those business relations pertaining to women and the home flourish.

Those whose birthday it is may make their own way during the year under friendly and harmonious relations, although they may find that their leaning may be toward pleasure and social or romantic activities and enjoyments. If in business, handling clothing, jewelry or feminine belongings, it should flourish.

A child born on this day should have many social and artistic graces and talents, and may lean toward these and the pursuit of pleasure and friendship.

For New Skin Beauty Use a Healing Toilet Cream

—Say Scores of Nurses

AMONG the million and a half women who are now using this new kind of toilet cream, there are thousands of trained nurses. They are enthusiastic—they tell their friends to use it. Their training has taught them what the skin needs to keep it healthy and beautiful.

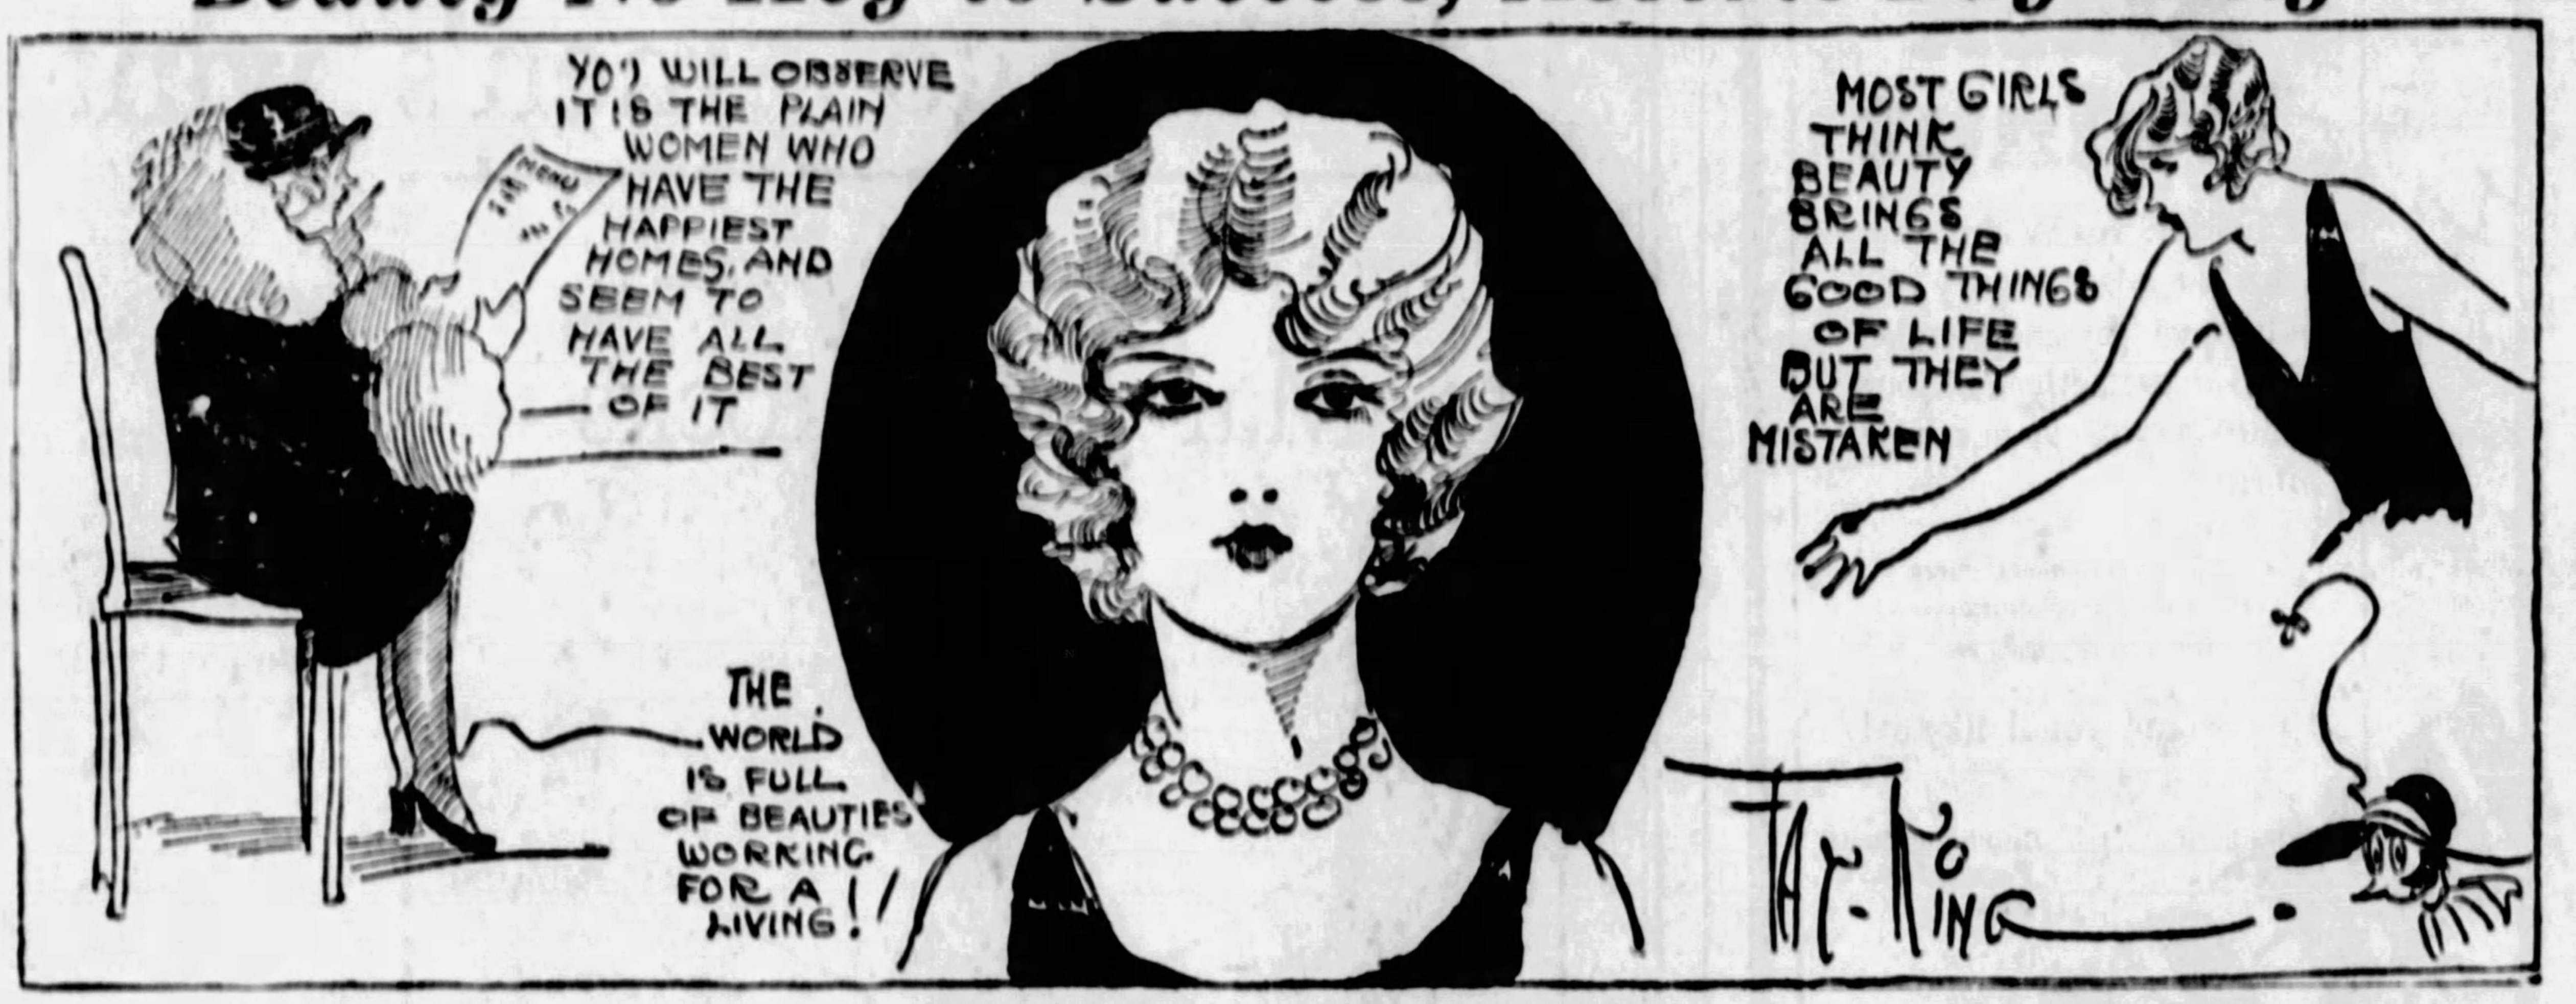
Science now recognizes that many of the common skin faults come from tiny hidden poisons that lurk unseen beneath the skin. Blemishes, roughness, large pores, coarseness and many other beauty-destroying flaws are now traced to these invisible poisons.

Ordinary care is not enough. Soaps and creams that merely cleanse the surface fail to reach these insidious poisons. An antiseptic cream is necessary—a greaseless healing cream that will sink into the skin, combat poisons, keep the skin germ-free, healthy and beautiful.

As snow-white and dainty as the finest beauty cream, yet as powerfully healing as an old-fashioned skin remedy, Noxzema Skin Cream can be used as a powder base or night cream. Under its soothing healing medication, skin troubles vanish quickly and your skin becomes clearer, smoother, lovelier.

Noxzema Cream is on sale at all drug and department stores.

Beauty No Key to Success, Asserts Fay King



YOU WILL OBSERVE IT IS THE PLAIN WOMEN WHO HAVE THE HAPPIEST HOMES, AND SEEM TO HAVE ALL THE BEST OF IT
MOST GIRLS THINK BEAUTY BRINGS ALL THE GOOD THINGS OF LIFE BUT THEY ARE MISTAKEN
THE WORLD IS FULL OF BEAUTIES WORKING FOR A LIVING!!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

IF THE average girl could wish a wish and have it come true, she would probably wish to be beautiful!

Most girls imagine that beauty is the most important thing in the world, and that if a girl is beautiful she can attain happiness very easily.

Yet it strikes me that this is not so.

For instance, when I go to play after play or picture after picture where the stage and screen are filled with beauty in all its lovely perfection, the thought that comes to me is:

"Why, with all this beauty are these lovely girls working?"

"Why aren't they married and living in beautiful homes and traveling?"

I have walked down Broadway at 7:30 and have seen these beautiful creatures dashing along, hurrying to the musical shows in which they are appearing. Many of them alone or with another girl. A very small percentage arrive in limousines escorted by wealthy sweeties.

How many rich and prominent men are married to great beauties?

Stroll through the exclusive residential district of any prosperous city and how many marvelously beautiful women do you see?

At country clubs, at social functions and big conventions, aren't most of the wives, sweethearts and daughters, plain and wholesome?

Yet they are the ones who lead the sheltered, happy lives; who travel and drive their own smart cars. They don't have to doll up and dance whether they like it or not!

They don't have to punch time-clocks and save money and haunt agencies!

Beauty doesn't seem to have the best of it by a long shot, if you ask me!

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

IN MARRIAGE as in dancing, these days, you have to be constantly on your guard. Somebody is always "cutting in" and trying to snitch your partner.

Somehow, a woman never can make a man understand that a reason is not an explanation, and that an explanation is not always an EXCUSE.

Men seem to be divided into two classes; those who look good to you but are bad FOR you, like French pastry; and those who are hard to swallow, but GOOD for you, like spinach and medicine.

HELEN ROWLAND

A man usually loves a woman as long as she lets him "bestow" things on her; but nothing makes him so indignant as to discover that any woman thinks she has a "claim" on his time, his thoughts, his kisses or his money.

Somehow, that "Oh-you-sweet-Santa Claus" look in a girl's eyes never seems to register with an infatuated man in time to save him.

A man's soul lies so close to his stomach that when he looks blue or down-hearted, a woman never knows whether to offer him food, a kiss, philosophy, or bi-carbonate of soda.

The bachelor has lost his "place in the sun." No man seems to be popular with the girls, these days, until one woman has set her seal of approval on him by marrying him.

The bitterest moment of a woman's life is that oft-repeated one, in which she sighs, "He's just like all the REST!"

A woman's favorite sport is shopping for things that she knows she can't afford; a man's is doing things he suspects he ought NOT to do.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

PEOPLE OVER FORTY

People over forty lack the vital force and power of youth. Therefore, they become the easy victims of colds, flu, or pneumonia so fatal to many people around this age.

Why not build power and resistance into your blood? Remember that at a small cost you can get Bulgarian Herb (Blood) Tea from your druggist. This pure vegetable remedy taken hot stimulates and heats the chilled blood and breaks up your cold quickly.

It's a Pity To Stay Fat

In these days

Don't do it, when so many have found the right way to reduce. You see them in every circle—happy, healthy people who have lost the burden in an easy, pleasant way.

Since the year 1907, people have been fighting excess fat by scientific methods. They combat the cause. Were fat as common as it once was the dress styles of today could never have come into vogue.

That modern method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Over fat people have used them for twenty years—millions of boxes of them. Now you see the results wherever you look. Why not enjoy them yourself?

Users of Marmola are not forced to abnormal exercise or diet. Moderation helps, but starvation is taboo. One simply takes four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal.

Every box of Marmola contains the formula, also the reasons for the many good results. You know just what you are taking and how you get the effects. You will have no fear of Marmola when you know the scientific facts.

Go get a box today. Learn how it acts, and why. Then watch the results in new vitality and loss of weight. Then tell your friends. You can do no greater kindness to people who overweigh.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

The Pleasant Way to Reduce

Miss Marie Schmidt, of Pittsburgh, says:

"It certainly was a lucky day for me when my grocer got me to try Rinso!

"It's wonderful how it breaks down our hard water and makes such rich, cleansing suds! Just imagine!—when I take the clothes out of the washer all the dirt is gone and I don't have to do the tiniest bit of hard rubbing. You don't even have to boil, they turn out so snowy!

"And I never knew a soap that dissolves grease as quickly as Rinso. It's simply marvelous for the dishes and all kinds of cleaning. It isn't a bit like gritty powders that scratch."

MISS MARIE SCHMIDT
1830 Westmont Ave.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Millions use Rinso. Thousands write us letters like this.

I love the way this hard-water soap washes clothes whiter

—and the way it saves the clothes!

WOMEN everywhere say the same about Rinso, the safe, granulated hard-water soap.

Never was there a soap that brought clothes so bright and gleaming from the washer or tub, they say. And with such little work! Why, even boiling isn't necessary any more.

No wonder women are enthusiastic! They are all agreed that it's the suds that make Rinso different.

YANKEES' WRECKING CREW SETS RECORDS IN SLUGGING AND STRIKING OUT AT SAME TIME

The official batting records of the American League for the 1927 season reveal the fact that the New York Yankees' Murderers' Row made up the best and at the same time the worst crew of hitters in the circuit. They led in home runs and also in strikeouts. There is nothing in the history of the game to equal their combined exploits. Ruth, Gehrig and Lazerri among them accounted for an even 125 home runs and finished 1-2-3 in this department in the league. Ruth hit 60, Gehrig 47 and Lazerri 18. They also were 1-2-3 in striking out, Babe leading the procession with 89, Gehrig being second with 84 and Lazerri finishing right behind with 82. No other player in the league fanned as many as 60 times. The big trio batted in 255 runs, Gehrig leading with 175, Ruth pushing in 164 and Lazerri accounting for 102. In addition to leading in home runs and strikeouts, Babe regularly gets more walks than any other player in baseball.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

THE baseball world is now awaiting eagerly the second act of the big trading drama (or should it be called a farce?) between the New York and Boston National League clubs, which has raised again the question as to who are the real owners of the Braves.

John McGraw.

That there will be a follow-up to the transfer of Rogers Hornsby to the Braves for Jimmy Welsh and Frank Hogan is almost a foregone conclusion for the departure of Hornsby leaves the Giants without a seasoned second baseman, and it is hardly to be expected that Manager John McGraw will try to make a pennant bid with one of his young recruits at the midway.

PERHAPS McGraw will depend upon Andy Cohen at the keystone station. Or maybe he will convert Buck Lai, his Hawaiian Chinese player, from a third baseman into a second sacker, or take a chance on some other rookie whose name is hardly known to major league patrons.

But the odds are that he will do

ROG, DENYING ANY EVIL, BLAMES TIERNEY

By HAROLD JOHNSON,
International News Service Special Correspondent.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 12.—Branding as absolute lies, the allegations of President Charles Stoneham, that he had at any time sought to undermine John J. McGraw and gain the management of the New York Giants, Rogers Hornsby, the heavy-socking second-sacker traded Tuesday night by that club to the lowly Boston Braves, today declared emphatically that he still was in a maze over the whole transaction.

Stoneham, principal owner of the Giants, yesterday was quoted as saying Hornsby had been turned over to the Braves for Catcher Frank Hogan, a comparative rookie, and Jimmy Welsh, an average outfielder, to "avoid future conflict in the management of the Giants." Prior to this amazing statement by Stoneham, the fans throughout America had entertained a number of ideas in connection with the case.

Some folks are inclined to the belief that Hornsby's tendency to bet on horse races hastened his departure from Manhattan. Others had a hunch that he had been involved in bets on ball games. Then a lot of folks suspected that he had been a trouble maker on the

BUTLER ENTERS COUNTY LOOP

A change in the personnel of the Allegheny County Basketball League and in the schedule was announced late last night by officials of the circuit.

The makeup change came about when the McKees Rocks Business Men's Club dropped out, to take up a franchise in the P. and O. League, their place being taken by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 249 of Butler. The Butler team, built around Slim Reisden, former local star, will swing into action here next Tuesday, meeting the Rauhs on the Columbus Temple floor.

The league also announced that the schedule would be split into three rounds, the second to begin with next Monday's games.

Crowley, Tony Ross To Box in Florida And California

By HARRY KECK,
Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

TOMMY CROWLEY, former local featherweight champion, now boxing as a junior-lightweight, is going to Florida and California to do his fighting for the next four or five months, he announced today, confirming the report printed exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph last Sunday that he had declined to renew his contract with Bill Heckman, which expired last week.

Crowley will go away with Tony [illegible] Carnegie junior-welterweight, who is well known in the Florida rings as a result of having campaigned there through two winters. The pair will leave Pittsburgh Saturday in Tony's car, driving to Indianapolis, where Tony has several matches pending and Crowley also may appear. After about a month in the Hoosier capital they will head for Florida, where the way will be paved for them by their manager, Harold Walsh of Akron, who has been doing Tony's business for several years.

Bouts will be arranged for the pair at Miami, St. Petersburg, Tampa and West Palm Beach in Florida and possibly Havana, Cuba. After doing this circuit they will move on to Texas towns and from there go to the Coast, where both expect to clean up considerable coin of the realm.

Explaining his split with Heckman, who had handled his fistic affairs for about four years, Crowley said he did not think there would be much doing around here for him in the next six months, with Motor Square Garden to be closed to boxing for the better part of a month to begin with, and that he believes he can do himself more justice away from home. The idea of boxing about the country with Ross suits him to a T. He said he parted on friendly terms with Heckman, but did not say whether or not he would return under Bill's management upon his return home at the end of the long jaunt.

Hornsby, Banished to Boston, Must Learn To Hate Princeton, Bugs Baer Says

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER.

TWO of yesterday's most prominent exiles were Trotsky and Hornsby.

Hornsby goes to Boston, Trotsky only goes to Siberia. Manager Stalin, of the Soviet Bruins, gives no reason for sending Trot and 29 teammates to the junkyard of Paradise.

BUT rumors from Bonsetter Bokkodorffel of Moscow indicated that Trot pitched some tough campaigns last season and sprained his bombing arm.

NO reason can be assigned for sending Hornsby into the Harvardian zone. He will have a tough job there. He will not only have to play good baseball. But he will also have to learn to hate Princeton.

WE DROPPED into the Giants' office last Saturday afternoon on a peaceful mission. Tierney, Stoneham, McGraw and George Grant were all talking in one telephone. We suspected nothing unusual. Merely figured that it was the usual male quartet broadcasting sweet melody. Now we know that those four boys were getting ready to snap a bottle over Hornsby's head and launch him into the frog pond.

ALL that we could discover was that Stoneham woke up on Saturday morning and said:

"Tierney, that Christmas tree is shedding its needles, toss it out into the alley."

Tierney did that. Then Stoneham remarked casually, "toss Hornsby out with it."

AND that's why grandmother has such big ears. Little Red Riding Hood was foolish to ask her why she had such big teeth.

Hornsby will be a boost to the Boston fans. The only thing strengthened about the Braves in the last ten years is its hold on the second division.

THE experts who made tre playing schedule for 1928 should explain why they started Rogers traveling so many months ahead of the other road teams.

It begins to look as if the only way a player can stick with the Giants is to have his uniform tattoed on his body.

HAND AND CONDITION OF GOB GET O. K.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Jack Sharkey is in excellent condition for his 12-round battle tomorrow night with Tom Heeney and shows no further trace of injury to his left hand, two physicians of the State Athletic Commission announced today after a special examination of the Boston heavyweight.

"In general, Sharkey's condition is excellent," said a statement issued by Doctors William H. Walker and Joseph S. Baldwin, who examined the former sailor to remove any existing doubt about his condition, following his six months' lay-off since losing to Jack Dempsey last July.

NEVER BETTER—DOCTOR

"Sharkey never has appeared before this commission in better condition," the statement added.

It was an injury to Sharkey's left hand that forced postponement of his bout with Heeney a month ago, but the doctors found no remaining evidence of this. Neither did they find, they said, "any functional defects in the wrist, fingers or elbows of either arm."

VON ELM DENIES PRO REPORT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—George Von Elm, former national amateur golf champion, last night denied reports that he would sign under the management of Jack Kearns, fight promoter, as a professional for a golf tour. Von Elm insisted he would never consider abandoning the amateur ranks for the professional.

While Kearns insisted the star linksman was considering seriously his offer, Von Elm declared that suggestion had been made only in a "kidding way," and that he would not for a minute think of making such a change.

Earlier in the afternoon Von Elm had been reported as confirming his acceptance of Kearns' proposition.

CHILLY SAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

STEALING a punch line from the literature of Senator James Reed of Missouri, "the times are ripe and rotten ripe" for an investigation by National League officials to determine the ownership of the Boston Braves, which team has just put over a questionable deal with the New York Giants.

For many years there has been a feeling that the Giant owners are in part control of the Boston club through financial holdings. The transfer of players in time of New York stress has added significance to the feeling, the latest transaction bringing up the question in a forceful way.

Judge Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Braves, succeeded George Washington Grant into the will-o'-th'-wisp role in Hubtown. Neither seems to know much about the baseball business, and the statement of the present president on the deal indicates that he is in a mist as regards the ability of Outfielder Jimmy Welsh.

The Giants, according to the judge, received "two young prospects" in return for Hornsby, whom "we consider the greatest player in the National League."

If the Braves' president had consulted Dave Bancroft or some other manager he probably would have learned that Welsh is one of the finest outfielders in the National League; in the point of all-round skill Jimmy was close to Ki Cuyler.

The Boston centerfielder is fast of foot, an excellent fly-chaser, he possesses a great arm and who can hit any kind of pitching.

One might be considered quite radical in a baseball sense to state that Welsh is as valuable to a club as Hornsby. On the other hand, Hornsby has been doing his fine club, and inclined to "ride" his teammates.

I sat with the mighty fence-buster, greatest natural hitter the National League ever has produced, for more than an hour this morning in his apartment at the Forest Park Hotel here. He was bombarded from all angles by a barrage of questions in the hope that he might unbosom some ray of light on the great mystery.

ROG BLAMES TIERNEY

"McGraw had nothing to do with my dismissal from the New York Club—I am convinced on that point," declared Hornsby. "We were always the warmest of friends and at no time did I ever aspire to his position as manager. I never had many dealings with Stoneham, however. I am inclined to suspect, though, that some animosity on the part of James Tierney, club secretary, may have accounted for the action taken. To be frank with you, Tierney and I did not exactly hitch on certain matters.

"Ever since the news broke on Tuesday night I have been swamped with telephone calls and telegrams from all parts of the country. My newspaper friends and fans, all asking me what it is all about. Place a stack of Bibles before me and I would swear a holy oath that I am at a loss to explain.

"One story is to the effect that I undertook to depose McGraw as manager. That is sheer rot—to be brutally truthful, it is a damn lie. In my opinion John McGraw is the greatest baseball manager the world has ever produced. As a kid I idolized him. When the Giants reached Chicago on their second Western invasion last season "Mac" was called away on a scouting trip and he assembled all the other Giants, informing them in the club house that I would be in charge of the club in his absence.

"I merely undertook to fulfill his orders, to win ball games for him. I wanted every mother's son on the Giants to hustle, just as McGraw would have insisted that they should, had he been sitting on the bench.

CALLS STONEHAM LIAR

"The Giants prospered during the two periods that I handled the team as pinch-manager and while we were on the road, too. McGraw was quoted as saying that he contemplated retiring from active managership of the club and that when he took this action the post he filled so long and successfully, would revert to me. I never said a thing to anybody on the subject; it all came from McGraw, so if Stoneham is attempting to create the impression that I was trying to supplant McGraw, he is a liar. I dare him to go into the same room with McGraw and me and make that assertion in my presence.

"As for the statement credited to Lindstrom, the Giant third sacker who lives in Chicago, to the effect that I sought to dominate the team, I can only reply that that is another lie. Lindstrom resented criticism from me when I thought he was not hustling and giving his best efforts to the club. I did give him a few call downs when I thought he wasn't doing his best, or remaining out of the lineup when I believed he should have been in there trying to help the club win a pennant.

"I also am accused of having indulged in fistic encounters with Burleigh Grimes and Eddie Roush. Mark those stories down as more unwarranted lies.

"In my entire career in professional baseball I have been involved in only one dispute in which a blow was delivered and that happened to be the affair with Branch Rickey several years ago. It is altogether too bad if a fellow who makes baseball his means of livelihood happens to be endowed with fighting qualities.

QUIT BETTING ON RACES

"There is another charge which I want to answer—that one to the effect that I carried a copy of Racing Form with me all the time. I never had one on my person and certainly didn't conceal one in my program at the world series last fall while seated in a box alongside McGraw. I assured Commissioner Landis a year ago that I would have nothing more to do with betting on the horses and I have lived up to that promise in every respect."

The Rajah was then told that a lot of folks suspected that the trade might have been completed because he was supposed to have bet on the results of ball games in the National League. And the Texan registered a resounding denial.

"I never bet on a ball game in my life," he roared. "I have bet on horses, but never on baseball. I couldn't get a kick out of that for I love to win ball games and on the level, mark you.

"I see some of the Eastern writers accuse me of being a 'welcher' on my race track wagers. That is another damnable lie. I was acquitted in speedy order by a jury that listened to my difficulties with Wilson, the bookmaker.

"If I were as bad as some folks try to paint me do you think for a moment that Commissioner Landis would permit me to go to any club in organized baseball and continue playing? Why those cracks make me sick. They are so senseless.

"Naturally I still am in the dark over the whole matter, but I have received an official communication from Judge Fuchs, president of the Braves, informing me that I now belong to his club. How do I regard the idea of playing for a club that is supposed to be only of second division caliber? Well, of course, I would prefer to be on a pennant contender, but I'll go on giving my best efforts to the Braves, and trust that the owners assemble a club that will be in the running.

"I would prefer not to dwell upon contract matters. Judge Fuchs is a very good friend of mine and I know there will be no difficulties. Whther I demand a contract for two years or five years with Boston should not interest the public. That is a private matter."

FUCHS DENIES "SYNDICATE"

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—If there is anything to the story that "syndicate" baseball brought Rogers Hornsby to Boston from the New York Giants, President Emil E. Fuchs of the Braves doesn't know it.

"No man who is interested in any way with the Giants owns a nickel's worth of stock in the Braves," he said in regard to suggestions that the Giant star had been traded here to help bolster up a club which was falling down financially.

He took occasion at the same time to assert that when the New York club got Francis Hogan, Boston's star catcher, and outfielder Jimmy Welsh, it was taking no loser's end.

Fuchs said he valued the pair at $150,000 and considered them worth fully that to the Giants.

Fuchs expects no difficulty in coming to a full agreement with Hornsby over the latter's reported desire for at least a two-year contract. The Braves' president does not believe in long term agreements, but he is satisfied that his new star has swallowed his disappointment in being traded from the Giants and has promised to do his best for Boston this year.

The contract question can wait until he sees Hornsby, Fuchs believes.

Bucs Hope To Improve

By CARL W. SHATTO.

ICE HOCKEY fans who are not adverse to picking up some small change on the side should lay a quid or two on the Pirates to score a goal when they meet the Chicago Black Hawks in a National League game at Duquesne Garden at 8:30 o'clock tonight. The records show that the local skaters have not dented enemy mesh in their last three games, which prompts the belief that they are about due to break out in a scoring rash and tally at least once.

The Buc defensemen's great feat of not allowing an alien goal in three consecutive games overshadowed the forwards' ineffectiveness until last Saturday, when the Detroit Cougars broke through for two goals. Detroit is a free-scoring club that permits plenty of enemy scores. In holding the Cougars to two goals the Pirate guardians did neat work, but in failing to tally against an admittedly weak defense the Corsairs gave local fans something of a headache.

At that, there is some hope for the Pirate forwards tonight, for the Chicago defense combination is the weakest in the league. The Chicago goalie has seen well over 50 shots come to rest in the net he guards, and if the Bucs fail to add to his woe Manager Cleghorn could be excused for shifting Roy Worters to the forward line.

Of the Bucs' three front-line starters, the veteran Darragh has shown the most improvement in recent games. Milks performs in a brilliant manner in one game and then sinks to medocrity in the next. McCurry, after getting away to a surprising start, is getting no better fast. Cotton and Drury carry something of a punch as spares, but after all is said and done the outcome of the fight probably hinges on whether or not Milks has an "on" night.

Before bowing to Detroit, the Pirates clambered out of the cellar by annexing two victories and three ties in five games, and the Cougar defeat may have marked nothing more serious than a brief let-down after a comparatively long spurt. Whether or not the Bucs return to their inglorious early-season form is to be permanent, should be determined tonight, for the Chicagoans are none too well fortified to stave off a Pirate comeback. Babe Dye and Capt. Dick Irvin are out with injuries, and the club is functioning poorly. The Hawks have not scored a single victory since they took the measure of the locals here early in December.

Because everything points to a Pirate victory tonight, the Hawks probably will upset the dope bucket and win. The opposition has to be renowned and very tough before Cleghorn's men can get sufficiently steamed up to triumph.

The probable lineup:

Worters	G	Gardiner
Burke	D	Wentworth
McCaffrey	D	Trapp
Milks	C	Arbour
Darragh	W	Dennenay
McCurry	W	McKay

PENNA. LEAGUE OPENER NAMED

The Pennsylvania League's 1928 season will open on May 22 and will close on Labor Day, it was decided at a meeting of league officials at the Roosevelt Hotel here last night.

Whether or not the league will operate as a six or an eight-club circuit depends on the speed Vandergrift shows in constructing a baseball park. According to Mayor McIntyre, Vandergrift city council has appropriated $35,000 for the construction of a sports plant and is anxious to get a franchise. No building committee has been appointed as yet, however, and unless action is taken soon it is probable that Vandergrift will not be admitted until 1929. In the event that Vandergrift is not admitted, the league will operate this season as a six-club loop.

A three class player limit was established, no more than three players who have seen service in higher leagues being eligible to play for any one club. Pitchers are to be limited to 50 innings.

With an aim to stimulating interest in the league pep meetings will be held in all cities owning a franchise. The first of such meetings will be held at Latrobe next Tuesday evening.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Jan. 12—(AP.)—Gilbert Stanley of Great Barrington, former Yale hockey player, was indicted by the grand jury here yesterday for manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Peter Fulco at the Berkshire School in Sheffield, of which Stanley is manager, last November.

Stanley pleaded not guilty to the indictment and was released under $20,000 bail, the amount fixed at the time of his arrest, November 27. He was accompanied to court by his brother, Harold Stanley, who recently was admitted to partnership in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., of New York.

GUARINO OR FOX PITT CAPTAIN CHOICES

By JESS CARVER.

UNLESS Coach Sutherland steps in and adopts the new fangled, though undoubtedly smart, idea of appointing a football captain before each game next year, either Honey Guarino or Alex Fox, varsity end and guard on last season's Golden Panther eleven, will captain the Pitt football team next fall. One or the other, so the dope indicates, will be elected at the annual banquet at the William Penn Hotel Saturday night.

Dr. Sutherland, of course, has given no indication that he will follow in the footsteps of Tech, Ohio State, Notre Dame and other leading schools and appoint his football captain. Dr. Sutherland seldom gives out a hint beforehand of any contemplated action, unless it is to wipe his knife on his bread before reaching for the jelly.

The matter has been mentioned to him, and, as it seems to be gaining in favor among the nation's schools, our stern and taciturn Scot may decide to adopt the idea.

ROOKIE SPURNS GIANTS

GREENSBORO, N. C., Jan. 12—(AP.)—The Greensboro Record says today that Pat Crafword, infielder of the Greenville, S. C., Sally League Club, who has been mentioned as a possible successor to Rogers Hornsby in the Giant infield, has declared that he will not report to the McGrawmen this year.

This is the third time that Crawford has been sold to higher company and has refused to report. Atlanta twice before bought the second baseman, but turned him back because of his aversion to Sunday baseball.

The Record says Crafword received a letter from McGraw today ordering him to report for spring practice. This was in reply to a letter from Crawford in which he asked that he be allowed to play in the South Atlantic League next season. Crawford insists, the newspaper says, that he will not report to the Giants.

Crawford was bought personally by John McGraw last year.

nothing of the sort. He needs and probably will get a capable keystone guardian. That will be the second act of the play which has given rise anew to suspicions of syndicate baseball. What the fans are wondering is whether McGraw will consider such a step inadvisable in view of the way the Hornsby-Welsh-Hogan deal has been criticized throughout the country. It will be interesting to await developments. Many believe that the Giant manager would "repurchase" Farrell without delay, if it were not for fear of public opinion.

Eddie Farrell.

EVEN as things stand now, most close observers of baseball believe it is high time for the National League to make an investigation to learn definitely who are the real owners of the Boston club. They suspected syndicate ball on several previous occasions when the New York club appeared able to get whatever material it wanted from the Braves during the trading season, and their suspicions are stronger than ever since the Hornsby deal.

The "explanation" offered by President Fuchs of the Boston club that he thought he made a profitable exchange by giving two "prospects" for the "best second baseman" in the National League leaves fandom far from being convinced. Instead of being merely "prospects," Welsh and Hogan are two youngsters who have actually made good, and therefore New York got the better of the exchange by obtaining two exceptional young players for a veteran who is slipping. The suggestion that New York would get anything except the better of any deal with Boston will amuse many on the sidelines. These fans would welcome, too, an explanation as to how a near-tail end club like Boston can afford to pay such a huge salary as Hornsby draws.

THE Hornsby deal prepared diamond followers for anything that might happen on the Boston club, so they will not be surprised at the latest yarn from the Hub, which is to the effect that the Braves may convert Eddie Brown from an outfielder into a first baseman.

Eddie Brown.

Brown, as every fan knows, is not only a remarkable fly-catcher in the outfield, but also batted .306 last season, and his steadiness is shown by the fact that since he entered the National League as a Robin in 1924 he has not missed a single game, playing 575 contests in succession, a new National League record.

HOWEVER, Eddie's throwing arm is not strong enough to enable him to peg the ball across the traditional street, and in explaining the proposed shifting of him from the picket line to the initial corner one of the Boston reports that the "weak throwing arm that was a liability in the outfield will not bother him much at first base."

If the Brave management really carries out this reported plan, though the chances are it is only winter fiction, Brown will not be at first base very long before the speed boys on the other clubs show up the move as a most absurd one.

REMEMBER what they used to do to Jake Beckley after that one-time Pirate star's throwing arm lost its power? Nearly every time there was a runner on first base and the next batter was thrown out at the initial corner the runner would sprint from first to third on the out.

Rogers Hornsby.

That's what they would do if Brown and his weak arm were stationed at first, besides Eddie would make very few force plays at second on balls batted to him.

Strong arms like those of George Kelly, Joe Harris, George Grantham and others are required to make a man a real big league first sacker.

PITT'S trip to the Pacific Coast for the Tournament of Roses football game with Stanford in Pasadena, January 2, was a financial success, at least, according to reports from California. It is said that Pitt, which had a percentage privilege as well as a guarantee, received approximately $75,000 as its share of the receipts. The Panthers' expenses were in the neighborhood of $13,000, leaving a profit of about $62,000 for the trip.

HERB PENNOCK, Yankee southpaw, was asked by Stan Baumgartner, former Philadelphia pitcher, how it felt to be a near no-hit world series hurler, referring to Pennock's great game against the Pirates last fall.

"How does it feel to dream you are a millionaire and then wake up to find 10 cents in your pocket?" was Pennock's answering query. "That is just how I felt after Traynor had made the hit in the eighth inning. But I knew when that round started that I did not have the stuff. I had lost that nervous tension which makes a pitcher have full control of himself.

Herb Pennock.

"I worked on Traynor as I had been pitching to him all day, hooks and fast ones on the inside. The ball he hit was a curve ball inside that was almost good enough to call a strike. But it could not have had the extra zip. You know the answer: A line single over the infield and the first hit of the game after 8 1-3 innings of play.

"I felt sick all over as I watched Traynor go to first."

trick for a dozen years or more, while Welsh should be at the beginning of his best exploits. Jimmy, barring unforseen occurences, stands to be a headliner for 10 years or more. And Francis Hogan, powerful catcher, would be a welcome addition to any receiving staff in the league.

So it would seem that the resourceful McGraw did not finish on the losing end, from the standpoint of playing value.

The South Side finals in connection with the swimming meets being conducted throughout the Allegheny County Council West, Boy Scouts of America, will take place January 20, in the Henry W. Oliver pool, South Side. The events will start at 7:30.

Kid McCoy Earns "Soft Snap" at San Quentin

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Kid McCoy (Norman Selby), once famous boxer, now has the most cherished convict's job in San Quentin prison. The "promotion" of the slayer of Mrs. Theresa Mors came as a result of the parole of Thomas Ryan, former head of the Sacramento traffic squad, who left prison this morning. McCoy fell heir to his job as prison fireman. Heretofore he has been a clerk in the commissary department.

McCoy, by virtue of his new position, will not be locked in a cell.

McCoy will not have to eat his meals with the "main line." Food will be brought to him by another prisoner and he will dine alone.

AMATEURS SHOW K. O. WALLOP

Knockouts galore featured the opening night of the amateur boxing tournament being conducted by the McKeesport Club in the Palisades Rink, McKeesport. Ten victories were won in the lighter class bouts last night via the kayo route, and two of these came within 10 seconds.

Dan Taylor, McKeesport, dropped Bill Bodick of Jeannette with one crack and Mike Hollis kayoed Billy Southworth before Southworth could get a single punch off. The men were lightweights.

Semi-finals and finals in the four classes in which preliminary bouts were run off last night and finals in the heavier classes will be listed for tonight. It is hoped that the entire program can be finished this evening, though the heavy entry list will make this necessarily late.

126-pound class—William Rosenson, unattached, knocked out H. Still, Homestead Library, one round. Sam Rossi, Braddock Library defeated T. Yarciev, unattached, three rounds. Regis Davis, Swissvale A. C., knocked out Andrew Dolesko, McKeesport A. C., one round. Albert Waldeck, Ray River Club, knocked out Dan Stranco, Monessen, Pa., two rounds.

LOCAL BOXERS SPLIT IN OHIO TOURNEY

CLEVELAND, Jan. 12.—Frank Florian, local heavyweight, won the amateur heavyweight boxing tournament here last night when he outpointed Bob Moody of Pittsburgh in the final bout.

Moody knocked out Buck Dickman, a Clevelander, in his semi-final bout, and gave Florian a stiff battle in the final.

MEDALIST BEATEN

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 12.—(INS.)—Robert L. Wintringer, Steubenville, O., after winning the medal in the mid-January Golf Tournament here, was eliminated today in the first round of match play. W. W. Fowler, Englewood, N. J., defeated Wintringer.

Forbes

Forbes Offers Sure-Fire "Tip" on Stock Market

By B. C. FORBES

READERS are constantly asking for stock market "tips." All right, here's one:

Buy the stocks of companies managed by the ablest business men in America and the stocks of other companies with which they become identified.

IT IS pleasant and reassuring to feel that you have the best financial and business brains in America working directly for you. And you do have them working for you the moment you buy one share, or 10 shares, or 100 shares, or 1,000 shares of the stock of their own companies or of companies in which they are directors. Business success today is nine-tenths management.

Therefore, entrust the management of your savings to the very ablest of managers and directors.

A WEEK or two ago it was announced that John J. Raskob, often called the "financial wizard," of General Motors, had become heavily interested in the American International Corporation and that he would sit on the directorate. So brilliant has been Raskob's record as chairman of the finance committee of General Motors, that numbers of discerning investors immediately began buying A. I. C. shares. The result is that the stock is already selling at more than twice what it sold for at one time last year.

NOT long ago the news was printed that W. L. Mellon of Pittsburgh had been elected a director of Westinghouse. Shrewd investors saw in this a "tip" to buy Westinghouse stock. They figured that Mr. Mellon would not become associated with the company unless he was convinced that its position was all right and that its prospects were at least satisfactory. Buying of the stock set in, and Westinghouse shares this week crossed 185, whereas they hung for a long time last year either a little under or not much above 175.

J. P. MORGAN & CO., long ago, announced that they had acquired a large block of Marland Oil stock. Later they exercised an option on another block at a higher figure. Morgan's entrance into the company was interpreted by the knowing ones as a "tip" to get aboard. Whereas Marland Oil had been selling in the thirties, it started upwards and last year approached $60 a share. The whole oil industry has been in a chaotic condition and oil shares consequently have suffered severely. Marland, naturally, has not escaped; yet it is today selling around $35 a share which, as I recall, was about its price when Morgan & Company purchased their first block.

That Marland Oil will recover, when the oil industry itself recovers, can be taken for granted, just as it can be taken for granted that most of the trustworthy oil stocks will enjoy a better market.

IT DIDN'T take a superhuman genius to figure out that General Motors was likely to make a creditable showing after the Du Ponts and J. P. Morgan & Company took over the management and control. For generations the Du Ponts had demonstrated their ability as successful leaders, and with the backing of the most powerful banking house in the world it was reasonable to conclude that this motor corporation would be aggressively developed. As it turned out, a few thousand dollars invested then in General Motors would today represent a very comfortable fortune.

OF COURSE, not even the brainiest of financiers or industrialists can be right 99 times out of a 100. They, like the rest of us, can and do make mistakes. But you can depend upon it that men, who achieve extraordinarily conspicuous success over a period of years, make fewer mistakes than the average. Were this not so they wouldn't attain or retain brilliant reputations.

Why not, therefore, throw in your lot, your savings, with outstanding winners?

Incidentally, I don't think the present is a good time to load up with the general run of stock.

FOR many years I have not invested a dollar in the shares of any company whose heads are known to be tricky fellows, more interested in feathering their own nests, and more interested in getting rich through the stock ticker than in building up their own company soundly, honestly, honorably and in treating their stockholders absolutely fairly. Such schemers admittedly do occasionally make fortunes for themselves and their fellows, but it is better in the long run to invest your funds with men of higher character.

THIS stock market "tip" resolves itself into this:

Invest in managerial brains of demonstrated superlative caliber and in unimpeachable character.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Copper Output Lower.

Production of primary copper by United States mines in December was 67,377 short tons, against 64,660 tons in November, bringing the total for 1927 to 830,133 tons, against 871,509 tons in 1926, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports. Stocks of refined copper in North and South America in December was 128,922 tons, compared with 118,269 in November, and for the year 1,474,506 tons, against 1,440,454 in 1926. Shipments for the year, 1,474,506 tons, against 1,440,454 in 1926. Shipments during 1927 were 1,446,709 tons, against 1,428,036 tons in 1926.

Armour Report for Year.

Armour & Co. of Illinois reports for year ended October 29, 1927, consolidated net income of $538,175 after all charges, equal to 41 cents a share on $130,618,000 cumulative preferred stock, including subsidiary preferred shares.

Power Industry's Huge Gain.

The beginning of 1928 finds the electric light and power industry serving 21,494,110 customers, classified with 17,396,400 residential, 3,166,570 commercial and 931,140 industrial power users, Electrical World reports in its annual statistical number. The net increase over January, 1927, is 7.5 per cent. In 1912 the total number of central station customers was placed at 3,837,515. The number of persons living in homes served by electricity at the close of 1927 was 75,500,000, against 14,000,000 back in 1912.

English Bank Rate Unchanged.

The minimum rate of discount of the Bank of England remains at 4½ per cent.

Seminole Slightly Lower.

The Seminole area for 24 hours ended at 7 a. m. Wednesday produced 248,295 barrels crude oil, against 248,428 barrels on Tuesday.

Pacific Telephone.

Surplus of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph System for the first 11 months of 1927 rose to $7,267,171 after preferred dividends, from $5,319,541 in the corresponding 1926 period.

Katanga Copper Production.

December production of Union Miniere Du Haut Katanga of Africa amounted to 21,952,000 pounds, compared with previous month's production of 22,176,000, a decrease of 224,000 pounds. Production for the year 1927 totaled 197,975,200 pounds, an increase of 21,894,72? pounds over the previous year.

Footwear Output Expands.

Total production of boots and shoes during November amounted to 25,912,144 pairs, against 32,266,621 pairs in October and 26,758,432 pairs in November, 1926, Commerce Department announces. Comparative figures for period January to November show 320,020,254 pairs produced in 1927 and 299,095,262 pairs produced for the same period in 1926.

Railroad Stocks.

Traders in rail stocks were disappointed over the failure of the carrier group to make a better response to the Interstate Commerce Commission's approval of the St. Paul reorganization. However, experienced observers feel that standard rails are being held back pending completion of the biggest accumulation in this class that Wall street has witnessed in several years. By the time that traffic figures begin to show substantial improvement, it is predicted that another aggressive forward movement will be underway in the carrier group.

Equipment Inquiries Large.

Equipment trade authorities estimate there are inquiries in the market for 5,800 freight cars, 725 passenger coaches and a large number of underframes. Other inquiries are expected to be out shortly. Pacific Fruit Express has given a contract to Pacific Car and Foundry Company for 600 underframes. The Fruit Growers' Express is in the market for 480 underframes. Southern Railway has placed orders for 500 additional automobile cars and Texas Company for 200 tank cars with American Car and Foundry.

ZIG-ZAG COURSE IS MADE BY STOCKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(AP.)—Backing and filling movements characterized trading in today's stock market. Upward price tendencies appeared to predominate but the uneasiness regarding credit conditions and the immediate trend of securities prices was reflected in the market falling off in the volume of sales. Pools staged sharp advances in a few issues and several new weak spots cropped out.

Commission house comment was decidedly mixed, with a number of firms recommending a waiting attitude until the character of the market became more definitely established. There was little in the day's trade news to influence the price movement. Publication of decidedly poor 1927 earnings reports by the Armour Packing and Ajax Rubber companies had been anticipated, but officials of both companies declared business conditions were improving.

Motors gathered strength on a prediction by President Sloan of General Motors that first quarter car sales and profits would break all records. Coppers moved upward under the leadership of Greene Cananea which sold at 143 as against a low of 124 on Tuesday of this week. International Nickel crossed 93 to a new high record.

Food, Public Utility and Oil shares also presented several points of strength. Warren Bros. soared 9 points and Brooklyn Union Gas, Houston Oil, American Republics, Purity Baking B, Calumet & Arizona and National Lead were among the many issues to sell 3 to nearly 5 points higher. On the other hand, Adams Express broke another 5 points, General Asphalt preferred 4½ and Mathieson Alkali and Borden sold down 3 points below last night's final quotations.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today. Cuban and duty free sugars offered at 4.5?c, but no sales were reported.

The raw sugar futures market opened 2 points lower to 1 point higher. January was the only position showing any loss, due to liquidation, prompted by the issuance of three notices. The rest of the market was steadier on active covering and buying by brokers with Cuban connections. There was considerable liquidation by tired longs on the upturn, however, and fluctuations were narrow, with the market at midday net 2 points lower to 1 point higher.

The refined sugar market was unchanged at 5.90c for fine granulated. A fair withdrawal demand was reported, and new business was a little more active.

Engineering Down, Metals Firm

Trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange was quiet again today with prices showing only minor changes from yesterday's closing and the bulk of the business being in odd lots. Recent leaders failed to come forward in any noticeable volume and the assumption was that traders were awaiting the turn of events on the "big board."

Early sales included Carnegie Metals around 29, up a fraction from yesterday's average quotation, and United Engineering and Foundry at 58, a slight fractional decline from the previous sale. Oil and gas stocks were dull. Scattered sales of Arkansas Gas were recorded around the recently prevailing price of 8½ and there were a few trades in some of the other low priced fuels and unchanged figures. Pittsburgh Plate Glass appeared on the board early at 212, unchanged.

Trading in Lone Star Gas was confined to a relatively few transactions at slight concessions from yesterday's close at 54. While there seems to be a good demand for the issue around the 54-level, recent attempts to advance the price have met increased sales with the result that several minor upturns have petered out. Some traders are confident, however, that this action signifies accumulation and that another forward movement will take place around the time the directors take action on disposition of the recently added capital.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—With Argentine shipments of wheat increasing and Liverpool quotations less firm than had been looked for, wheat prices averaged a little lower here early today. Word of some export business in corn helped to rally the corn market. Opening at a shade decline to ⅛ to ¼c advance, Chicago wheat later receded all around to below yesterday's finish. Corn started unchanged to ⅛c off and subsequently scored gains. Oats tended upward. Provisions were easier.

At noon wheat was ¼c net lower to ⅛c advance and corn ⅜c to 1c up.

According to authoritative advices at hand today, clearances of Argentine wheat are expected to continue large from now on. The movement of new wheat from Argentina has spread to the southern provinces, where the crop is reported to be turning out better than was expected. Meanwhile, the Canadian growers' pool is also stated to be offering lower grades of wheat rather more freely.

Friends of higher prices for corn were expressing gratification today at what was described as the general creeping upward character of the market. Country offerings of corn continued to be light. Predictions were current that a sharp falling off in the volume of Argentine corn shipments this week would be witnessed.

$33 for $1

For each dollar of his annual investment in life insurance a man of 35 years can assure his family $33 at his death.

Yet many men do not have life insurance.

In 1900 there was in force in America 8½ billions life insurance. Today it amounts to more than 75 billions. Yet few men have enough life insurance.

We do not sell life insurance, but we do encourage this form of family protection. Our booklet—"Life Insurance Trusts"—is free—ask for it.

PRIVATE SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

IN THE ORPHANS' COURT OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA.
No. 313 January Term, 1928.

NOTICE is hereby given that Ida B. Miller, administratrix of the estate of William M. Emerick, deceased, has presented her petition to the Orphans' Court of Allegheny County at the above number and term praying for an order authorizing and directing her to sell at private sale to Charles F. Noll, for the payment of debts of said decedent and the expenses of administration, for the price or sum of Eight Hundred Fifty ($850.00) Dollars, payable in cash, the following described real estate:

ALL that certain lot or piece of ground situate in Ross Township, County of Allegheny and State of Pennsylvania, being part of lot No. 8 in Plan of Sub-division of the estate of Romanus Real, deceased, recorded in the Recorder's Office of Allegheny County, in Plan Book Vol. 24, pages 186 and 187, and bounded and described as follows, to-wit:

BEGINNING on the westerly side of the Girty's Run Macadamized Road at a point in the line of lands late of William Brown, et al, at the northeasterly corner of said lot No. 8 in said plan; thence along the dividing line between said lot No. 8 and said lands late of William Brown, et al, South 14° 18' West fourteen (14) feet to the line of the right of way of the Pittsburgh, Harmony and New Castle Railway Company; thence southwardly along the line of said right of way seventy (70) feet, more or less, to the dividing line between lots Nos. 7 and 8 in said plan; thence along said last mentioned dividing line North 69° 53' East, ten (10) feet, more or less, to the westerly line of said Macadamized Road; and thence along the westerly line of said Macadamized Road North 31° 42' West sixty-seven and 12/100 (67.12) feet to the line of lands of Brown aforesaid, at the place of beginning. Having erected thereon a one-story frame house.

BEING the same property which Henry G. Zehner and Alice M. Zehner, his wife, by their deed dated February 21, 1922, and recorded in the Recorder's Office of Allegheny County in Deed Book Vol. 2112, page 304, granted and conveyed unto William M. Emerick.

And the Court has fixed Saturday, February 11th, 1928, at 10 o'clock A. M. in open Court at the City-County Building, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, as the time and place for a hearing on said petition, when and where all persons interested may appear, object and be heard and offer a substantial increase for said real estate, in accordance with the Act of Assembly in such case made and provided.

IDA B. MILLER,
Administratrix of the Estate of William M. Emerick, deceased.

NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given that ordinance, Bill No. 53, has been introduced in the Council of the City of Pittsburgh, January 9, 1928, amending an ordinance entitled:

"An Ordinance regulating and restricting the location of trades and industries and the location of buildings designed for specified uses and regulating and limiting the height and bulk of buildings hereafter erected or altered, and regulating and determining the area of yards, courts and other open spaces in connection with buildings hereafter erected or altered, and establishing the boundaries of districts for the said purposes; conferring certain powers upon the Superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection; providing for a Board of Appeals, and imposing penalties," approved August 9, 1923, by changing the Zone Map, Sheet Z—810—O, so as to extend the Light Industrial Use and Third Area Districts by changing from an "A" Residence Use District to a Light Industrial Use District and from a Second Area District to a Third Area District all that certain property bounded by the westerly line of Library road, as widened by Ordinance No. 862, approved December 29, 1927, and the southerly and westerly lines of the Kaiser Place Plan.

And that a public hearing will be held by the Council of the City of Pittsburgh to consider said ordinance at the Council Chamber, Fifth floor, City-County building, Pittsburgh, Pa., at 2:00 p. m., on Wednesday, January 25th, 1928.

BUGS BAER Says

THE great strides being made by delicatessen architecture in America is demonstrated by Chicago's 16-story grocery store.

Sixteen stories is some exceedingly tall potato tower. It will be an interesting sight to people who have never seen onions and garlic hung that high.

The old-time grocery is slated for the discard. So is the old-time customer who sampled more than she bought.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

It was possible to pick up a good meal in the grocery of 1895. You could try the prunes, pat the salted cod, pinch the canteloupes and sniff the fromage. No grocer objected if you sniped a grape from the bunch or tested an almond or a tomato.

Everything around a grocery store was as loose as bad brakes on a hill. The crackers were in barrels and you could grab a handful on consignment.

Then some economical swindler got the idea of putting potato chips in bags and coffee in cans. You knew what you had bought. But you couldn't prove it at the grocer's expense.

They wrapped bread in finger-proof paper and put olives in bottles. Around 1905 a grocery store looked more like a museum than a food exposition.

The innovation of the cash register completely spoiled the fun of shopping for hot groceries. The grocer had learned so much from efficiency experts that he even stopped shaking his apron out on the sidewalk. Instead of sweeping the crumbs through the door, he gathered them up in a vacuum cleaner and sold them over again.

The 16-story grocery building marks the climax of the vegetable haberdashery business. For the first time in history there is a reception room for eggs, a mezzanine for prunes and offices for split mackerel.

A battery of eight elevators will take care of the butter addicts and sugar fanatics.

Oatmeal, salt and corn will receive their friends on the ground floor and there will be dancing among the dried beef on the roof.

There will be no sample department. The old gag of tasting a lima bean is out. Lima beans haven't changed in 2,000 years and there is no reason why a customer should be astonished over this fact.

The Chicago building means only the start. New York will never stand for Chicago's supremacy in the bologna arts and sciences and the tallest spire in the skyline of 1929 will be Manhattan's corner grocery standing on its hind legs.

Think of all the good-looking grocery clerks in a 50-story building. And also remember that when Jack climbed the beanstalk he wasn't after beans.

Steel Orders Increase. Good Outlook for 1928

For the first time in exactly two years, unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation showed an increase of half a million tons, in the report for December, 1927. Although this fitted in with the statement made here by President James A. Farrell of the Steel Corporation that the outlook promised a better steel year in 1928, the unfilled order increase caused a surprise in the industry because of its size. An increase of 300,000 to 400,000 had been expected instead of the 518,430 tons above the previous month's record of 3,454,444 tons, the total for December being 3,972,874 tons.

This substantial support for President Farrell's prosperity prediction, coming so soon after he made it, is encouraging not only to Pittsburgh, but to the country at large. Steel is one of the most constant as well as the most accurate business barometers. Unfilled tonnage reports constitute one of the pulse records of industry. All lines of business feel the influence of increased activity in the steel mills.

This is especially true in Pittsburgh, which is first to feel the result of anything affecting steel. We will be the first to experience the benefits of the expansion in the trade which Mr. Farrell has predicted will come. Yet we are not selfish when we accept the indications of greater prosperity as being authoritative. When Pittsburgh thrives the whole country gets equal benefit, since steel's parallel lines and contacts are far-reaching.

Bonding Power Increased, Council to Conserve It

Council is now in a position to borrow $2,000,000 should the need arise. Its borrowing limit, scaled down to a narrow margin last year, has been increased through redemption of bonds, and it now is in a position to use its credit to the extent of the amount mentioned.

It is reassuring to learn that the councilmanic bonding power is not to be applied in a haphazard manner, but is to be subject to studied and planned procedure, so much of the credit being allotted to this contingency and so much to that one.

This seems much better than regarding it as general contingency credit. Especially when "this" contingency arises and finds the credit it needs has gone to "that" emergency, and that the councilmanic borrowing margin is dangerously near the limit.

Council had that experience last year, and it is to be commended for deciding to conserve its credit. It can do that very well if it insist that various departments adhere strictly to the budget.

First Must Teach Public Of Need for Higher Pay

A five-year-old movement to increase salaries of school teachers in Pittsburgh is to be pushed more vigorously. The Citizens' Committee on Teachers' Salaries has leased headquarters, from which will be conducted a survey of salaries paid teachers in larger cities throughout the United States.

The matter of compensation for teachers, it is pointed out, rests with the Legislature. Presumably data obtained by the citizens' committee is to be employed to convince the next General Assembly of the justice of the demand of Pittsburgh public school educators for more pay.

First, it will have to convince the public, for, strangely, there is opinion in many quarters that teachers, as a whole, are sufficiently compensated now by the ridiculously low wages they receive. As if any person as important as a teacher of our youngsters ever could be ''sufficiently compensated''!

Squire Bans Slot Devices And Should Be Imitated

One cannot help admiring the militancy of Alderman William Scott, of the Tenth ward, in making good his campaign promise to drive out slot machines. He sent out constables who garnered 19 of the gambling machines, and he had the satisfaction of seeing them destroyed in the quarters of the County Detective Bureau. They had an estimated value of about $3,000.

If all aldermen in Allegheny county were to become equally active in their bailiwicks, the slot machine owners, who wax rich in their takings from the places which ''rent'' them, would soon become discouraged. Losses of $3,000 at a time are not relished even by takers of ''easy money.''

But Alderman Scott will have to be vigilant. When the machine owners think official interest has waned and that ''things have blown over,'' slot machines have a habit of reappearing in districts from which they have been banished.

The pleasing feature of Scott's activity is his knowledge of what is going on in his ward. Is not, or could not every alderman be, as wise? All could do as Scott did and keep out these gambling devices, which filch the small money of youngsters of school age as well as of those of more mature years.

Eating Less, and Why

It is a matter of common observation that we don't eat as much as we used to. In just a couple of decades breakfast, for example, has dwindled from a gorge to a mere snack.

There is no notion that the diminishing food intake is a city phenomenon, or applies only to so-called ''brain workers.'' But here comes the National Industrial Conference Board to show with statistics that everybody eats less—that feeding is no longer the favorite indoor sport.

Consumption of meat has fallen off tremendously, says the board's report. The use of wheat flour dropped 20 per cent between 1899 and 1923, and the use of corn meal 75 per cent in the same period.

The reason, according to the experts, is as simple as it is interesting. The work of the world grows easier all the time, so our bodies need less food to keep them going. Machinery, in farming and industry, has done the trick. In the sweat of his brow man still eats his bread, perhaps, but certainly labor, taking it by and large, is nothing like as arduous as it used to be.

The Industrial Conference Board doesn't say so, but there's no doubt that education in eating has a lot to do with the thinning meals of the present day. People used to eat from habit. Now they have learned, vast numbers of them, that they feel better for taking aboard less nourishment.

An encouraging sign, this application of common sense to the business of eating. Everybody's healthier for it, and the youngsters growing up with a knowledge of right eating will profit immensely.

New York Day by Day

by O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The Homicide Bureau is New York's clearing house for murder. All the tangled skeins of bloody crimes are dumped there for unraveling. The shrewdest man hunters are attached to this squad and often follow trails around the world.

The ''under cover'' attaches never report there. It is their job to mingle in the underworld and pick up crumbs of information. One slip and their goose is cooked. If an urgent matter comes up, they telephone cryptic messages to innocent addresses which are relayed to headquarters.

The homicide attaches are frequently young men who might be taken for collegiates. They may be seen dancing the night away in supper clubs, spending heavily and simulating intoxication. Liquor often unloosens otherwise silent tongues.

The most dangerous of all criminal world jobs is that of the "stool pigeon. Once discovered, he is shown no quarter. As a general thing he is a petty criminal himself and his derelictions are overlooked in exchange for tipping off more important crime.

Every crook fears questioning at the Homicide Bureau. It is the one spot where the worldly bluff doesn't go. They meet men of granite who speak their language and who will resort, despite mild denials, to the tortures of the third degree.

It is the theory of expert criminologists every crook has a bit of 'yellow." And if the vulnerable spot is touched, he will break down and babble a confession. Incidentally almost every confession is presaged by an overwhelming thirst.

So much so the phrase: "He is drying out"—means he is going to tell all. The age old alibi of every crook is he has been "framed" and while this injustice has taken place it is comparatively rare.

John McE. Bowman, ace of American hotel builders, lives in an unpretentious country home in Westchester—although the finest suites in any of his inns are at his disposal. When he visits one of his taverns he makes his way through obscure entrances, and many employes who have been with him for years have never seen him.

One of the great theatrical producers is constantly dilating his lack of knowledge of business. To his counting room he poses as a stranger and lives only for his art with a big capital A. Yet I know an actor who found him quite the reverse.

The actor was summoned to the incense-laden sanctum and was told he had been selected for a prominent part in a play. The idea of not talking of a money arrangement was stressed. Art was the thing, and he must discuss financial terms with the business manager. Bewildered by his sudden opportunity, the actor departed and at the elevator discovered he had left his hat.

He tip-toed back and found the producer with his back to him at the telephone talking to his business manager. "I think," he was half-whispering, "we can hook this bird for $100 a week."

Nearly every crevice in Broadway these days is a theatrical ticket agency. The public has at last learned best seats are not procurable at the box office and the agency has become a necessary evil. Indeed, the attiture of agencies makes or breaks a play. By mere suggestion they can turn crowds from worthy performances. To offend the agencies means closing the show.

When a show is in Broadway jargon "leblanged," it means tickets are on sale in Joe Leblang's cut rate agency. He is king of the cut raters and has saved many plays from expiring. And also became a millionaire.

Democracy

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Dean Inge of St. Paul's recently said that a government of, by and for the people is clap trap.

It doubtless is. But a government of, by and for a king or an oligarchy or any such things is worse clap trap.

As far as we can see, almost all kinds of government are open to the accusation of being clap trap.

As far as getting anything done immediately is concerned, the dictator plan, such as is accomplished by Mussolini and Primo de Rivera, seems to be the best.

A democracy is not the most efficient form of government, but it is the only form where the majority rule.

It is the only form under which people are allowed to make their own mistakes.

The only way to improve is to bump your own nose, stub your own toe and learn from your own defeats.

Foolish and unstable as the people are, they remain the best basis for any government, and a government slowly built up as a democracy has much more promise of long life than any absolutism.

America may be headed for disaster. Plenty of prophets tell us that it is, but so far its record has been the most astounding in the world's history.

Altogether the efficiency of democracy seems to be that it can easily get rid of bad rulers, although it is not so efficient in picking good ones always.

The question often overlooked is, "What is a government for?"

A government is not a people organized to accomplish something or to gain some advantage over another combined people, but it is organized to advance the interests of the people who make it up. The American government is a good one because the individuals who comprise it are well off. The Russian government is a bad one because the individual people are bad off.

If we would keep our eye upon the individual more and less upon the combined individuals as a nation we should think more clearly of the problem.

The question after all is not what is better for a nation, but what is better for the people that compose it.

Good Paganism

I AM peddling no secret society tale nor shibboleth when I set it down in this column that our civilized week is pagan, as pagan as a bacchic banquet.

In ancient mythology Sunday was the day to worship the sun and Monday the moon. Saturday was christened for the Roman god Saturn and the other four days were dedicated to four gods of the Scandinavians: Tuesday to Thua, Wednesday to Wodin, Thursday to Thor and Friday to Freia.

So, strange to say, our days weren't named by a Jewish High Priest nor a Catholic Cardinal nor a Methodist Bishop.

And our months are quite as pagan. January recalls the two-faced Janus, god of the Romans, who could look both forward and backward at once.

And yet, pagan as our calendar is, the only unorganized movement in America is the one to amend the constitution with the adoption of a new cognominal week and month.

Why? Because a week by any other name would smell as sweet. Who cares whether we call the day Monday or Moonday or Mornday so long as we utilize its sprinting hours to fresco a ceiling, or set the score to an entrancing melody, or invent an eighth wonder, or loiter a sunset hour in Lovers' Lane?

In just this way I turn up my mental nose at all objections to our modern creeds or customs when the only leg the objection has to stand on is the fact that the creed or custom had its roots in paganism.

Read "The Golden Bough," a volume that will stagger you with its breadth and depth of learning. It is a well proved thesis that all religions are but the evolution of pagan and barbaric nonsense.

Well, what of it? The criterion of modern creed and custom is utility. Does the thing tend to the happiness and sublimation of mankind? Is the balance of wholesome data with the affirmative or the negative?

Indeed no magician could lay his hand on a single good large thing in our modern social life that was not evolved from the ooze and slime of dead millenniums. The iris is beautiful even though its roots are tentacled in the muck and silt of the sewer.

We shall not forego a symphony orchestra because its genesis was the tomtom of the savage; nor a ruby-cheeked child because its embryo was a cell only visible by the miracle of the microscope.

We can use a deal of good paganism in our business.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Atoms in a New Dress

EVERYBODY was getting used to the atom as a "miniature solar system." Everybody could plainly see in his mind's eye those little electrons busily revolving around the still littler—but O, how massive!—nucleus of the atom, and could think he understood how the infinitesimal devils, playfully jumping about among the orbits, managed to emit sparkles of unused energy at every leap. It was a picturesque theory, full of the animated movement that endears the "screen" to the popular heart. One could SEE it, and what more is necessary to conviction?

How shocking, then, to be now informed that although "the success of the Bohr atom in accounting for chemical and physical facts is almost uncanny," yet scientific men "tolerate it for lack of a better (theory), knowing that it is doomed to fail as soon as a more logical and consistent substitute makes its appearance."

It is from Dr. Paul R. Heyl, of the United States Bureau of Standards, that I draw the questions above.

And in the Scientific Monthly he goes on to show how the "more logical and consistent substitute" for the solar system theory of atomic structure is already in course of triumphant development. It is the De Broglie-Schrodinger theory of the atom, derived from the new science, or concept, of "wave mechanics."

Long ago a rival of the Bohr theory arose in the shape of the Lewis-Langmuir theory, according to which the electrons in the atom instead of revolving in orbits were nearly stationary, being distributed in a regular pattern over the surface of an imaginary sphere, and endowed with vibratory motions, but never moving far from their mean positions. But this theory never had the success of solar system analogy. It never became popular.

It would be useless to undertake here to describe the Schrodinger theory, as Dr. Heyl briefly sets it forth. In the pictures that it suggests of an atom we see no orbits, no reticulated patterns, indeed no electrons, but only indicated circles crossed by slightly waving lines, which are to be taken as representative of "fluctuations of density" running through the atom. This has the name of "Psi-vibration," from a Greek letter, of course. But whither have the electrons fled, or what has happened to them? Read this description:

"The Schrodinger atom is electrical in its fundamental nature, like the atoms of Bohr or of Lewis and Langmuir; but there is this distinction: whereas in the Bohr atom the charged electron moves in a circle, and in the Lewis-Langmuir atom vibrates slightly about a mean position, in the Schrodinger atom the electric charge is distributed continuously throughout a sphere, and is, for the most part, constant in density, but occasionally subject to slight fluctuations."

And then this: "The Schrodinger atom is able to do everything which the Bohr atom does, and equally well; and in addition it offers a simple and unforced explanation of 'permissible orbits' and 'forbidden zones;' it shows how something in the atom may be in steady vibration without radiating, and how the atom will radiate only when it passes from one frequency of vibration to another. . . . And (what is regarded as most important of all) it performs easily a task at which Bohr threw up his hands—the calculation of the relative intensity of the lines of the spectrum."

Yet don't imagine that finality is attained. Dr. Heyl says of the new marvel, that though it must supersede the Bohr atom, yet "it has its shortcomings and must sooner or later be superseded in its turn by some concept still more perfect."

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Teach Your Own

PARENTS, have you told your sons and daughters about matters concerning themselves, that they should know?

Have you been putting this off, thinking that they are too young?

Perhaps you have wished to shift responsibility, and let them learn from someone else.

The information they get outside will not be beneficial and will be given in such a way as to destroy their ideals and corrupt their moral standards.

Taught by companions with no better mental or moral development than they have themselves, your children will be "enlightened" in a crude and vulgar way, often with mischievous intent.

The reaction dulls the sense of right and wrong in the child and starts a doubt about his parents because they have never talked with him.

In this way parents lose the confidence of their children.

Isn't it far better to have this knowledge come to them in a decent way, in the right light, than through those who give it an unfavorable one?

Modern youth travels faster than the youth of former years.

He thinks faster, and desires to procure knowledge earlier.

Parents should give consideration to this condition.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Cat

THE fire seems warmer now, somehow,
Its glow more bright and clear,
The flames leap higher in their play
Because the cat is here.

In truth, a little alley-cat,
No charms of breed or race;
A gentle creature, spite of that,
With pleasing, slant-eyed face.

I never know how glad and gay
The dancing fire can be,
Until the cat with purring play
Shares warmth and light with me.

And, were I banished all alone
To Jungfrau or Kalat,
I'd feel at home, could I but own,
A hearth-fire and a cat!

Ye Towne Gossip

by K. C. B.

Dear K. C. B.: In my son's car, while we went into a restaurant for dinner, I left my suitcase and someone stole it. We notified the police and put an ad in the paper and I came on to the old home in the hill country, where I waited and hoped, yes and earnestly prayed, for you see, in that old suitcase, I carried, as is my custom, the pictures of five very precious babies, pictures that I have had with me for 30 years. Then, up here into the hills, there came a package by mail and there, to my amazement, were the little pictures "I love so well, and lost for awhile." I know it was wicked for that person to steal my suitcase, but there is surely good in him, and I want you to tell him, if he reads your column, that I am praying that the good will overcome the evil in him and also I want you to thank him for giving back to me that which no money could buy.

THE OLD LADY OF THE HILLS.

DEAR LADY of the Hills.
SURELY I'LL do.
WHAT YOU ask of me.
* * *
AND I hope the man.
WHO STOLE your bag.
WILL READ of it.
AND IF he does.
I KNOW quite well.
HE'LL FEEL a thrill.
OF SOMETHING good.
AND WILL be glad.
AND BEING glad.
IN THAT he did.
A KINDLY act.
MAY HELP him then.
TO REALIZE.
THERE'S BUT one road.
TO HAPPINESS.
AND ONLY those.
MAY FIND that road.
WHO PAY full toll.
IN GOOD deeds done.
AND YOU are right.
IN THAT you say.
THERE'S GOOD in him.
OF COURSE there is.
AND ALL my life.
I'VE KNOWN men.
WHO LIVE their lives.
BEYOND THE line.
OF RECTITUDE.
AND I have found.
IN MOST of them.
MUCH MORE of good.
THAN JUST of bad.
AND I'M not excusing.
THE BAD they do.
I THINK I'm just sorry.
THAT SO much of good.
away.
IN OUR prison cells.
JUST FOR the reason.
THAT WE can't sort.
THE GOOD and the bad.
THAT LIES in a man.
BUT ANYWAY.
* * *
I HOPE the fellow.
* * *
WHO TOOK your bag.
WILL FEEL very sorry.
THAT THE bag he took.
SHOULD HAVE belonged.
TO ONE so ready.
TO FORGIVE a wrong.
THAT WAS done to her.
AND I hope your prayers.
WILL FIND an answer.
SOMEWHERE in him.
I THANK you.

LISTEN, WORLD! ELSIE ROBINSON Says: A Human What-Not

US GIRLS are moving right along these days. We're demanding astonishing privileges but, in the main, we're paying for them with snappy, efficient service.

There's Emma, with her M. D., who's working in the same office with her husband—and Dorothy who's selling real estate—and Jean who has gone in for banking—and Edith in the Juvenile Court—not to mention the thousands of others who are hanging up fine records in home and offices.

Yes, we're doing ourselves proud, sisters. And we'd do ourselves a whole lot prouder if we could eliminate Clarice from our ranks. Clarice cramps our style. Clarice is a hangover from the silliest sections of the Victorian era, though she'd shriek with indignation if you told her so, for Clarice considers herself an extremely choice current number. But she's not. She's a human what-not and she belongs back with the crocheted antimacassars, the bead portieres, the wax funeral wreaths and the gilded coal scuttles.

Remember the what-not that stood in grandma's parlor—that doggone contraption of spindly walnut, all covered with gimcracks which you were everlastingly knocking off and busting? Well, that's Clarice. Only, unfortunately you can't knock Clarice off and bust her. She looks frail but she has the toughness and tenacity of an octopus—and much the same technique.

Clarice, the lovely hunk of uselessness, who clutters our beauty parlors and gums up our hotel lobbies—Clarice whose hardest task is to pin a wad of orchids on her collar bone and wrap herself around expensive fodder—is she not a credit to her sex? Yes, she is NOT.

Queer, that Clarice should persist in these emancipated days, when Women Are Supposed To Be People. Yet she not only persists but flourishes in unprecedented numbers. Read your ads, look in your shop windows—never has the world been so busy catering to Clarices. And what does Clarice do in return? Nothing. Absolutely nothing. As an industrial unit Clarice is a perfect flop.

Will she cook, sew, hit the keys, run a hospital ward? I should say not! Will she marry any young man with a salary under five hundred? Don't make me laugh! Then what has Clarice to offer?

CLASS.

Class. What's Class? Darndif I know—I never had any. But Clarice has it. She can't think, she doesn't talk, she won't work. She's only a what-not—all covered with junk. But she has class.
